CRAIN HOLDS EWALD KNEW OF HEALY LOAN; WALKER ON STAND

Prosecutor Says Mrs. Ewald Took $5,000 From Account Held Jointly With Husband.

HEARING TO END TODAY

The Mayor, Before Grand Jury, Repeats Assertion That Healy Was Not Consulted on Job.

EX-JUDGE ASSAILS BOCZOR

Calls Story He Admitted Paying $12,000 for Post a "Deliberate Lie" —He Expects to Testify.

With Mayor Walker as a witness, the county grand jury began hearing evidence yesterday on the charge that former Magistrate George F. Ewald purchased his seat for $12,000, and carried its inquiry to a point which may enable it to report to Judge William Allen in General Sessions this afternoon.

At the conclusion of yesterday's session District Attorney Crain, when asked whether he intended to ask for indictments, replied in the negative, saying: "I'll leave that to the judgment of the grand jury."

Healy and Tommaney on Stand.

Yesterday's witnesses included, in addition to the Mayor, Mrs. Bertha Ewald, wife of the former magistrate; Martin J. Healy, suspended Deputy Commissioner of Plant and Structures, admitted recipient of $10,000 from Mrs. Ewald; Thomas T. Tommaney, chief clerk in Sheriff Farley's office, and Peter Eckert, Mrs. Ewald's father. Representatives of several banks in which the Ewalds had accounts also testified.

The Mayor told the grand jury that he appointed Ewald on the recommendation of the Steuben Society and of Bernard Ridder, editor of the Staats Zeitung, and that neither Healy nor any one else had anything to do with the appointment. Healy, Mrs. Ewald and Tommaney, it was believed, repeated the stories they told District Attorney Crain in his preliminary investigation that the $10,000 was a loan from Mrs. Ewald to Healy, made through Tommaney.

All three signed waivers of immunity before entering the grand jury room.

Eckert, it was believed, also told the grand jury what he had previously told Mr. Crain—that $5,000 of the sum given by Mrs. Ewald to Healy had come from him as a contribution to a fund with which Mrs. Ewald was to buy a house for herself and her family.

Crain Holds Ewald Knew of Loan.

An important development yesterday was the announcement by Mr. Crain that information received by him showed that the account in the Washington Heights Bank from which Mrs. Ewald drew $5,000 in the form of a certified check, which was part of her loan to Healy, had been a joint account with her husband and that, therefore, Ewald's statement in the preliminary examination that he knew nothing of the loan transaction could not have been true.

Ewald's comment on this statement while waiting in the Criminal Courts Building was that his wife held the family pursestrings and that she was frequently in the habit of making loans to friends without his knowledge.

Ewald may be a witness before the grand jury today if the grand jury consents to grant his request to be heard. The request was filed yesterday by I. Nicholas Gordon, counsel for the Ewalds, in a letter to Bartholomew J. Barry, foreman of the grand jury. Should the grand jury decide to hear Ewald he, too, will be asked to sign a waiver of immunity.

Witnesses to be questioned today include Emmerich Boczor, former confidential secretary to Ewald, who told Mr. Crain that he had heard Ewald confess to him that he paid $12,000 for his appointment as magistrate; Dr. Francis Schirp, a member of the Steuben Society, who, according to Boczor, received $2,000 of this money; John J. Myers, also of the Steuben Society, who, together with Schirp, served on the society's political committee which urged Ewald's appointment upon the Mayor, and Irwin Isaacs, attorney for Tommaney. Arthur Hartmann of Brightwaters, L. I., from whom Healy purchased his home at Blue Point, L. I., allegedly with the money advanced by Mrs. Ewald, will also testify.

Isaacs was subpoenaed yesterday while waiting for his client to appear before the grand jury. He said he had signed a waiver of immunity. It was he who advised Tommaney not to answer questions when testifying before the Federal grand jury in the investigation conducted by United States Attorney Tuttle into Ewald's and Healy's income tax payments. It was assumed he would

Mexico to Divide Its Haciendas To Be Worked by Small Farmers

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 13.—A decree signed yesterday by President Ortiz Rubio provides that all government-owned haciendas—big plantations or ranches—shall be apportioned in communal grants to small holders. Officials have been appointed to make an inventory of all such government property.

This procedure is regarded as an important step in the development of an official program of land for all Mexican workers, and it is believed that future expropriations of foreign-owned lands will be thereby curtailed.

The land-grant plan appears destined to meet with general approval, provided it has a favorable effect on agrarian bonds.

LIPTON'S SHAMROCK V ARRIVES FOR RACES

CROSSED OCEAN IN 23 DAYS

Refitting Begins Today for the Contest Off Newport Starting on Sept. 13.

By JAMES ROBBINS.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 13.—Green as the Emerald Isle itself, Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V, his latest America's Cup challenger, arrived here and anchored in the harbor, at the mouth of the Thames, at 5:30 P. M. today.

With her came Sir Thomas's latest steam yacht, Erin, convoy of the racer across the Atlantic. Sir Thomas himself is on the Leviathan, due in New York on Saturday. The first race for the America's Cup is scheduled for Sept. 13 off Newport.

Shamrock, 81 feet long on the water line and of 135 tons, made the ocean passage of about 4,000 miles in twenty-three days without injury or mishap. She bucked head winds and battled two gales, but her jury rig of a shortened mainmast and a temporary mizzen spar held with their sails, and her mahogany hull over steel framing was as tight as the skin of a balloon.

Aside from the varnish of her rails and hatches, she was spotless. Salt streaks showed here and there where the seas had swept her and left their temporary stain. But that was all forgotten by a happy crew.

Shamrock Drops Mud Hook.

When Shamrock had dropped her mud hook, THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent was the first American aboard her after the port doctor, being welcomed by the waving hand of Colonel Duncan F. D. Neill, Sir Thomas's yachting representative, who had transferred from the Erin to her in a small boat.

There on deck were Captain Ernest Heard, Shamrock's master, and Captain William Paul, who had navigated the racer across the ocean. Introductions over, Colonel Neill started below.

"Come along," he waved. "I must see the crew."

Fifteen men were sitting in the bow of the yacht, and in front of them was a long pine table. Back of them were slung their hammock bunks folded up out of the way. Amidships was a large, new, white-enameled galley stove, steaming with hot soup and stew.

How those men ate! Each had a tin plate before him and was working hands and jaws while grinning between mouthfuls. That was the picture of a husky bunch of British sailors, glad to be in port again—happy, powerful fellows, looking as though they could bend to a mainsheet with a will.

Aft on the racer, separated by a partition, were the berths of the officers, a chart room and a lounging table for them. Amidships was one winch, all Shamrock has in the form

EBERLE HUTCHINSON, DRY ASSEMBLY CHIEF, COMES OUT AS WET

ASKS GOVERNMENT SALE

He Suggests That Liquor Be Handled by Dispensaries Under State Control.

WETS HAIL UP-STATE SHIFT

McGinnies Warns, However, That Hutchinson's Step Does Not Prove Sentiment.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 13.—Eberle Hutchinson, one of the most prominent Republican members of the Assembly, revealed today his shift from the dry to the wet side of the current discussion of prohibition within the party. His action was asserted by the wets to be indicative of a general trend throughout the up-State regions hitherto almost solidly dry. Prohibition advocates, however, said his switching of opinion was not significant.

Mr. Hutchinson, who has served in the Assembly since 1919 to rise to the important post of chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, has in the past always been found on the dry side in tests of prohibition in the State Legislature. He voted for ratification of the Eighteenth Amendment and supported the Republican efforts for a State enforcement law.

In his statement, published in The Albany Evening News, he disclosed that he had changed his attitude and now favored a modification of present prohibition laws so as to permit the sale of liquor by government dispensaries under State or municipal control. Indicating that he did not advocate the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, he also insisted that he was opposed to any legislation permitting the private sale of liquor or the return of the saloon.

He took the stand, in the interview, that his change in attitude was reflected in the corresponding shift in opinion among his constituents in Fulton and Hamilton Counties. In those districts, generally regarded as representative of up-State conditions, Mr. Hutchinson said his constituents had originally hoped for genuine good results from prohibition. Due to "unenforceable enforcement," he asserted, they were becoming "disgusted" with present conditions under prohibition and wanted a change.

Gives Reasons for Shift.

The statement of Assemblyman Hutchinson follows:

"The towns in my district (Fulton-Hamilton) before prohibition voted dry, two to one, in local option elections. For that reason, when I first came to the Legislature I voted for the ratification of the Eighteenth Amendment and for State enforcement acts. I don't regret it, because it was my clear duty at that time. But sentiment is different now.

"I find that my people, who had looked upon prohibition as an ideal and had honestly hoped it would work, are becoming disgusted and disheartened with present conditions. They want to see a change worked out that will relieve us of the rotten situation resulting from unenforceable enforcement.

"I believe you will find a majority for modification that will permit States, within limits maintained by the Federal Government, to set up some sort of dispensing agency under State or municipal control. I am sure, however, that the people never will stand for any change that will lead the way to licensing private individuals to go into the liquor traffic."

Mr. Hutchinson's declaration comes

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 13.—Dr. Auguste Piccard, Professor of Physics at Brussels University, has ordered from the Copenhagen firm of Hellesen and Ludvigsen a dry battery of 2,000 volts, the highest voltage ever produced by this means, for a gigantic free balloon.

At a height of 52,000 feet in the air-tight cabin of this balloon Professor Piccard and his assistants plan to study the cosmic rays of the higher altitudes in September.

Professor Piccard, a Swiss citizen, has chosen Augsburg, Germany, for his experiment, because of the favorable meteorological conditions there.

The present altitude record, 43,000 feet, is held by Captain Gray of England.

CAPTURE OF NANKING BY REDS IS FEARED

Government There Discharges Many Employes, and Peasants in Area Join Communists.

CHANG SWINGS TO NORTH

By HALLETT ABEND.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 13.—The pinch of war has been so severely felt by the Nanking Government that it is dismissing on a wholesale scale employes in all departments, and those who are being kept on the payroll are working at reduced salaries. Hundreds of discharged employes who are now in Shanghai from Nanking report that the government has failed to pay salaries in most of the departments for the last three months.

Chinese authorities at Hankow are panic-stricken over Communist plots, and public executions of suspects without trial during the last ten days have run to from 50 to 150 daily. Old-time execution squads with beheading knives are a common sight on the streets.

The Japanese concession at Hankow is heavily protected by barbed wired electrically charged. The French concession is surrounded by sandbag barricades, and British forces are ready to defend the former British concession in case of Communist rioting and looting.

Chang Throws Support to Peking.

Chang Hsueh-liang, Manchurian leader, has definitely pledged support to the Northern Coalition, according to cablegrams received today by the Peking Government's Shanghai representative. The Mukden ruler is on vacation at Peitaiho, inside Yen Hsi-shan's territory, and has received delegates from Peking while refusing to receive Nanking's delegates. He promised the former his "sympathetic support" and consented to the presence of two Mukden men in the proposed Peking Cabinet, but declined a government post himself until some future date.

This decision of Chang's is no surprise despite the Nanking Government's repeated declaration that it had Mukden's support, for Chang Hsueh-liang's Nanking representative, General Ching Hau, left Nanking several days ago, three weeks after the departure of Wang Chia-cheng, Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs, who was Mukden's official representative in the Nanking Cabinet.

Simultaneously, General Wu Ti-chen, who had been Nanking's resident representative in Mukden since the outbreak of the war and had spent almost $1,000,000 in lavishly entertaining Chang Hsueh-liang, has departed from Manchuria.

Chang Hsueh-liang's reported alliance with the Northern Coalition complicates the question of the capital of the government if Nanking is defeated. The Mukden leader agrees with Yen Hsi-shan and Feng Yu-hsiang that Peking must be the capital, whereas Wang Ching-wei and all the Left political leaders of the Northerners insist that the capital be Nanking, in conformity with the wishes of Sun Yat-sen. The political leaders naturally desire the seat of the government to be outside the zone dominated by the armies of the Northern Generals.

The pressure of the Northerners' attacks on the Lunghai front is admitted to have forced the retirement of Nanking troops from the Kweiteh sector, where reinforcements from Shantung are arriving in large numbers in preparation for a counterattack. Tsinan, Shantung capital, was twice bombed today by Nanking planes. Shansi machine guns replied without effect, the duel creating a panic in the walled city.

Japanese residents in Tsinan have organized an emergency commission and are prepared to evacuate the women and children if the fighting threatens the city. Later all the Japanese residents will proceed to safety zones under the discretion of the Consul General. Because the Tsingtao Railway has been disrupted, the Japanese and other foreigners are going to Tientsin if they are imperiled.

HOOVER ACTS TO END FOOD PROFITEERING; NO SHORTAGE EXISTS

Federal Agents Instructed to Be on Watch for Unwarranted Speculation.

TO ISSUE BULLETINS HERE

WYNNE FIGHTS PROFITEERS

Sets Up "Fair Price Board" to Prevent Gouging as City's Food Bill Rises $3,000,000 Weekly.

Developments in Drought Crisis

The Federal Government yesterday instructed its agencies handling drought relief to watch for profiteering in human food and will take action, through the Department of Justice, to curb speculators in agricultural products.

Secretary Hyde of the Department of Agriculture stated that there is no danger of any shortage of human food and no cause for storing up stocks of provisions.

Following a conference among President Hoover, Secretary Hyde and Representative La Guardia of New York, the government decided to issue daily in New York City bulletins on wholesale food prices.

The Governors of twelve States chiefly affected by the drought began to gather in Washington for today's conference with President Hoover. Good rains were reported from Missouri and Kansas and further showers were forecast for the corn belt today.

Asserting that profiteering merchants have already added between $3,500,000 and $7,500,000 to the weekly food bill of New York City, Health Commissioner Wynne organized a "fair price board" to give daily information by radio and press of market conditions, and will invoke an old city ordinance providing penalties against inflated prices.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Told that food profiteering under pretext of drought damage had already begun in New York City, President Hoover and Secretary Hyde of the Department of Agriculture today took steps to curb speculation in human necessities not only in cities where it may have begun but throughout the nation. Where it becomes necessary, the Department of Justice will be called on to prosecute offenders under laws already existing and designed to meet such an emergency.

Secretary Hyde stated unqualifiedly that there was no shortage of human food and no necessity for storing up supplies of provisions for the future.

Federal Action Here.

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics will send each morning to E. R. Biddle at 53 Park Place, New York City, a short statement, based on information from its agents in the New York wholesale market, of prices paid by wholesalers the day before, of quantities moving through the market and of the quality and condition of the commodities. The bureau proposes to make this statement simple enough for each housewife to understand just what is going on in the food market.

This decision was made after Representative La Guardia had conferred with President Hoover and Secretary Hyde and had informed them of profiteering prices charged

HAWKS FLIES FROM COAST IN 12½ HOURS, 2½ UNDER MARK SET BY THE LINDBERGHS; EXCEEDS 200-MILE SPEED ALL THE WAY

Hawks to Try to Lower His Own Mark in the Fall; Engine Never 'Wide Open' on Record Trip, He Says

Some time soon after the National Air Races Captain Frank Hawks expects to put his little monoplane across the country in "real fast time." The flier who averaged more than 200 miles an hour from Los Angeles to New York yesterday said after landing here that in the Fall with better winds and clearer atmospheric conditions he thought that his twelve and a half hour record could be cut considerably.

"At no time during the flight did I have my engine wide open today," he said. "Flying conditions were almost perfect. I had the moon to fly by at first and then the sun. I struck a little rain near St. Louis but came out of it into clear weather again.

"This side of St. Louis I was struck with the amount of smoke and ground haze almost every mile of the way. From 8,000 feet I could not distinguish objects below me the greater part of the distance."

The flier said that the hop had not been difficult.

"I made the fastest time of the trip between Albuquerque and Wichita," he said. "A tail wind of 34 miles an hour followed me out of Albuquerque and stayed with me for the next 300 miles or more. We loped along at 250 miles an hour and could have pushed up the speed if it had been necessary."

Captain Hawks, while eager to make another transcontinental flight, is now looking forward to the National Air Races, in which he has entered his record-making plane. He will fly in the 100-mile free-for-all against Doolittle and other speed fliers.

R-100 RACES AWAY ON HOMEWARD TRIP

50-HOUR FLIGHT PREDICTED

Would Surpass Graf Zeppelin by Six Hours—$500,000 in Freight Is Refused.

By F. RAYMOND DANIELL.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. HUBERT AIRPORT, Montreal, Thursday, Aug. 14.—Homeward-bound after a thirteen days' visit to Canada, the giant British airship R-100 was racing down the St. Lawrence Valley this morning at a 70-mile-an-hour clip, with the wind on her tail, heading for the open sea and home.

The R-100 left St. Hubert Airport at 9:30 P. M., nearly half an hour before her scheduled sailing time, with thirteen passengers aboard on the thirteenth day of the month, thirteen days after she arrived here from Cardington, England, on her maiden voyage across the Atlantic. From then her passage through the night was swift.

From Montreal to Quebec, nearly 200 miles away, the great airship, with only five of her six mighty engines working, flew in a little more than two hours.

Then her speed increased, for at 1 A. M., an hour and fifteen minutes after she bade farewell to Quebec, the inhabitants of the quiet little town of Ste. Anne de La Pocatierre, 110 miles below the ancient capital of lower Canada, were awakened and saw her lights above.

Uses Three Engines at Start.

The dirigible started from here with three engines roaring an au revoir to Canada. In a huge canvas sheet on the grass of the airport was the Dominion's good-bye painted in black letters and illuminated by floodlights.

"R-100—Bon Voyage—Canada," the letters read.

Her officers hoped to take her back to England in record time and bring her back to Canada as "soon as the snow clears" next Spring.

After vanishing into the night and circling over Montreal for a final salute to the illuminated cross on top

JACKSON AND O'BRINE REGAIN FLIGHT MARK

They Beat Hunters' Endurance Record and Fly On, Passing 567 Hours Aloft.

ST. LOUIS CHEERS IN RAIN

Radio Message From Airmen Says They May Be Down "Next Month or Next Year."

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 13.—The world's refueling endurance record was recaptured today by Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine.

At 9:52 A. M., Central Standard Time (11:52 A. M., New York time) they completed 554 hours and 41 minutes of continuous flight, exceeding by an hour the mark established by the Hunter brothers at Chicago on July 4.

At 10:11 P. M., Central Time, the airmen had been aloft 567 hours in their monoplane, Greater St. Louis, and were flying smoothly into the night.

Happy in their achievement, accomplished after twenty-three days, Jackson and O'Brine set 1,000 hours, or six weeks, as their goal in the belief that such a mark, if established, would discourage competition.

Crowd at Field Cheers Record.

Despite a steady downpour of rain, a crowd of 800 persons stood in the open at Lambert-St. Louis airfield and cheered as the Greater St. Louis circled at an altitude of 1,000 feet as the record hour was passed.

Aerial bombs were discharged and shouts and the ringing of cowbells added to the noise. Twenty employes of the Curtiss-Robertson Airplane Company, makers of the Greater St. Louis, paraded along the concrete apron in front of refueling headquarters, beating drums. The leader of the parade carried a sign announcing "Red and Obie did it again."

Fire Department sirens were sounded at all engine houses in the city under orders from Acting Mayor Neumann.

Radio stations also announced the new record. The fliers' wives participated in the broadcasting. Mrs. O'Brine told listeners, "I am too excited for words." Mrs. Jackson said, "I am surely happy."

As the demonstrations continued the crowd on the field was swelled by several thousand persons, who previously had sought shelter in hangars and other buildings. All stood in the rain waving hats and cheering. The fliers circled close to the ground, passing fifty feet over the heads of the crowd on one occasion. Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. O'Brine seized P. V. Chaffee of the refueling crew and kissed him.

The feelings of the fliers were expressed in a radio message from Jackson at noon to refueling headquarters. It was:

"Send a new B battery for the transmitter. You will be able to hear us much better then.

"We don't know whether we will be down tomorrow, next month or next year. We could stay up till next August, I think. Obie is sleeping again and snoring as loud as he did last year. The rain is sure cooling us off.

"Too bad the folks down there got wet. Tell them not to sit around in the rain till we get down. We appreciated the demonstration more than we can tell you. We are flying at 2,400 feet, if you care to know, and the old engine wants to run away.

CROSSES IN ROUND OF CLOCK

Speed Is Greatest Ever Attained by Man for Like Distance.

THREE STOPS MADE ON WAY

MEETS RAIN NEAR ST. LOUIS

Starting by Moonlight, Flier Roars Across the Country to Land Before Sun Sets.

By LAUREN D. LYMAN.

Captain Frank M. Hawks crossed the Continent yesterday from Los Angeles to Curtiss Airport, Valley Stream, L. I., in 12 hours 25 minutes and 3 seconds, setting a new transcontinental record and lowering Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh's record made on Easter Sunday by 2 hours and 20 minutes.

His Whirlwind-powered Travelair plane never dropped below a speed of 200 miles an hour and frequently approached 260. It was not only the fastest crossing of the United States ever made but, so far as records show, no machine in the world has ever made such a distance in anything like the time.

It was moonlight when the red and white monoplane left the runway at the Glendale Airport, Los Angeles. The moon marked the flier's path through the Cajon Pass and it slipped down behind the San Bernardinos as he sped across the Mojave Desert. Ahead over the Needles the sky began to lighten and above the Arizona plateau near Flagstaff he met the sun. He looked at it over his shoulder at Wichita, and it was still above the horizon when he shot down over the Long Island airport at four miles a minute. He had left Los Angeles at 6:16:27 A. M., New York time, and arrived at his goal at 6:41:30 P. M.

Taking the actual flying time of the three legs of the 2,510-mile flight as 11 hours 40 minutes and 30 seconds indicated, the pilot said, that the average speed throughout the flight had been approximately 230 miles an hour.

Makes a Fast Start.

It was speed all the way. A second after he had waved his hand to the crowd in Los Angeles the low-wing Texaco 13 was rolling sixty miles an hour and five seconds later it was going ninety as the wheels left the ground. Out of Glendale the mountains rise abruptly and the pass itself reaches 4,000 feet within thirty miles. Hawks put his machine into a steep climb and threaded the pass between the mountains. As he shot out over the desert his air speed indicator showed more than three miles a minute and he was still climbing.

With good weather reports, no wind and a beautifully clear night the flier sped on his way to his sixth transcontinental record. He pulled the transparent stream-lined cowl tight over his head and settled down to the race against time.

He flew into the morning over the National Forest of Arizona. Beneath him he could see the long freight trains crawling through the hills at twenty miles an hour, still in darkness. Along the horizon ahead a cream yellow light spread from north to south.

Makes a 15-Minute Stop.

Flagstaff passed beneath just as the red sun cleared the ridges ahead. At this time he hoped to pick up a little wind to help him but there was no wind. Straight past Mt. Taylor over the Navajo Reservation, the little red and white racer flew and a few minutes later Hawks cut his gun and glided toward the landing field at Albuquerque where mechanics were waiting ready to fuel and oil the plane. He struck the gray runway at a hundred miles an hour and pulled to a stop close by the hangar. He had come nearly 700 miles in 3 hours and 26 minutes.

After a fifteen-minute stop in which the flier did not get out of the cockpit, he was off again, munching one of the sandwiches his mother had made up for him in Los Angeles.

"Then I began to make the real speed," he said last night as he sat on a locker in the pilot's room at Valley Stream and chewed on the second sandwich. "I picked up a thirty-four-mile tail wind out of Albuquerque when I reached between 8,000 and 10,000 feet and then we started going to town."

Out of the desert, across the tip

Prince of Wales's Plane Chased as 'Enemy'; Forced Down by Mistake in Manoeuvres

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The Prince of Wales had his most exciting air adventure today when the machine in which he was flying to observe the air manoeuvres was mistaken by six fighters for an "enemy" bomber. They engaged the royal airplane in full force and drove it down to the military airdrome at the headquarters of the "blue colony."

Earlier in the morning the Prince, who is taking the keenest interest in the air exercises, had flown in a Fairey 3-F Royal Air Force machine, piloted by Squadron Leader D. S. Don, to Uxbridge, Middlesex, midway between the rival "red" and "blue colonies," where Air Marshal Sir Edward Ellington, directing the manoeuvres, has his headquarters.

The Prince then decided to visit the "blue colony." The "blue colony" has no Fairey 3-F machines among its squadrons, and when the Prince's plane came from the north toward one of the "blue" airdromes, a patrol of six fighters spotted it. Not being able to distinguish the squadron markings at a distance, they assumed the plane to be a hostile one and dashed in to the attack.

One by one they came down on the Prince's plane at great speed, driving Squadron Leader Don lower and lower to the ground. Even when the pilot was about to make a landing, the fighters continued their assault, evidently enjoying the success of bringing down at an "enemy" airdrome what they took to be a bomber.

It was not until long afterward that the pilots of the patrolling squadron learned they had been pursuing the Prince, who later accompanied the "blues" on one of the fastest raids ever made—from the "blue colony" airdrome against Cranwell, capital of the "red colony."

The Prince on this occasion accompanied a squadron of "Foxes," Britain's latest type of high-speed day bombers, on a dash of more than 160 miles. The Prince, who wore the uniform of the Welsh Guards under his flying suit, appeared greatly to enjoy the experience.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Gerald Campbell, British Consul General at San Francisco since 1922 and earlier Consul General at Philadelphia, has been chosen to succeed Sir Harry Gloster Armstrong on his retirement from his post as Consul General at New York at the beginning of next year, it was announced here today.

Mr. Campbell was appointed vice consul at Venice in 1913. He was promoted to consul and transferred to Addis Abeba, Abyssinia, in 1915, where he remained during the civil war caused by the attempt of Emperor Joshua to force the country to espouse the cause of Germany and Turkey in the World War. Mr. Campbell served twice as Chargé d'Affaires at Addis Abeba.

Sir Harry Gloster Armstrong will have rounded out eleven years' service as British Consul General here on his retirement early next year. At that time he will be 70 years old, ten years beyond the usual age limit of the British consular service. His term of office has twice been extended in the last ten years because of the "special condition" that he was wanted here.

No such extension had ever before been made by the British Consular Service for any other officer. In the past year, when his impending retirement has been seen as a certainty, many public tributes have been paid to him and his wife.

Sir Harry is dean of the foreign consuls of this city and president of the Society of Foreign Consuls, a group which he organized. He was born at Belturbet, County Cavan, Ireland, Jan. 17, 1861, the son of John Armstrong and Sarah Helen Moffatt. He was educated for the army and served with several regiments, but resigned in 1884. He wrote a number of army textbooks. He was an actor and newspaper man for short periods.

He entered the British Foreign Office and in June, 1919, he was appointed Consul General in Boston. In November of that year he was transferred to New York to succeed Colonel Wilfred C. Thesiger.

SHOUSE WELCOMES TARIFF AS ISSUE

Accepts Fess Challenge and Says Democratic Orators Will Also Attack Hoover Rule.

RADIO WILL BE UTILIZED

PREDICTS CONGRESS GAINS

Sees Prospects of Winning Control of the Senate—Smith and Davis to Speak in Drive.

Jouett Shouse, executive chairman of the Democratic National Committee, accepted yesterday the challenge issued by United States Senator Simeon D. Fess, National Republican Chairman, to make the tariff a major issue in the coming Congressional campaign. In addition, he and other Democratic speakers will stress over the radio the effects of the "Hoover panic," unemployment, the farm policy and, in general, the record of the first seventeen months of the Hoover Administration.

The radio campaign will open on Monday, with Mr. Shouse speaking for half an hour from WEAF in New York and thirty-three other stations of the National Broadcasting Company throughout the country.

Smith Among Speakers.

The use of the radio in a Congressional campaign, an innovation, will bring to the listeners former Governor Alfred E. Smith, as titular leader of the Democratic party; his running mate in 1928, Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas; John W. Davis, who was the nominee for President in 1924, and former Governor James M. Cox of Ohio, the candidate in 1920. Mr. Smith's return to the radio to speak on national issues has been regarded as another step in his political "comeback" since his defeat in 1928.

The Democrats will use the radio at 8 o'clock on alternate Mondays, with the Republicans using the intervening Monday nights. Senator Fess is expected to open the Republican campaign the week following Mr. Shouse.

Mr. Shouse said that he did not expect to see prohibition injected into the campaign as a national issue, unless it is done by the Republicans, which is unlikely. This, he said, as far as the Democrats were concerned, meant leaving prohibition to the various States, where the Democrats contended in the last national campaign that it belonged.

"Based on all the reports I have gathered, the State leaders are confident of the capture of between sixty-five and seventy seats now held by Republicans," Mr. Shouse declared. He also saw the gain of at least five Senatorial seats, and said the prospects were good to gain control of the Senate. A turnover of eight seats is necessary for this.

Mr. Shouse stopped over in New York City yesterday, at the Hotel Vanderbilt, on his way to Nantucket. He will visit his family, vacationing there, and return to New York for his radio speech on Monday. He had spent the past few weeks in Washington preparing for the coming campaign.

To Attack Hoover Record.

"We are quite willing," he said, "to meet the Republicans on their own terms in this contest. We shall make an aggressive campaign. The tariff, while it will be a major issue, will not be the only issue. The Hoover panic, hard times, unemployment, the failure of the farm policy and the record made by the Republican party in Washington during the seventeen months of the Hoover Administration will be the factors of the Congressional contests.

"Mr. Hoover has been in office, with his party in full control. He has had every possible opportunity a President could have to make good. The Republicans were willing to take all the credit for the Coolidge prosperity; they must take the responsibility for the Hoover hard times. We propose to see that they do.

"Judged by the results achieved, the farm relief plan is worse than negligible. The Farm Board told the farmers a year ago to hold their wheat when it was selling at $1.25. They held, and the price has sunk so far below the cost of production that the farmers find it cheaper to feed it to their cattle than to use corn for that purpose. One of the most important factors in the situation is that the people no longer believe the statements coming from the administration in Washington. The department heads say one thing one day and contradict it the next. Mistrust has entered the American mind.

"A President who is capable of leadership is also capable of making the breaks for himself. Much is heard about Mr. Hoover getting the bad breaks. He has made them for himself. The hair shirts which he says irritate him so much come from his own inaction and unwillingness to assume the real leadership of his party in full control of the government. Certainly no man can lead the thought of the country who isn't both willing and able to lead the thought of his party."

Mr. Shouse declared the Hawley-Smoot tariff to be the most inept ever known, and passed just at a time when the economic situation in which the country found itself required a real tariff bill.

He predicted new Democratic Senators coming from Rhode Island, Massachusetts, West Virginia, Kentucky and Oklahoma, and said that the chances were very good in Illinois, Delaware, South Dakota, Minnesota, Colorado, Nebraska, New Jersey and New Hampshire. The gains of the Congressional seats he expects chiefly from Missouri, Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and New York.

Dr. Darlington Wants Noises At Night Reported to Police

Dr. Thomas Darlington, former Health Commissioner, who appeared as guest speaker at the weekly Health Department radio talk over Station WEAF yesterday, discussed the importance of sleep to health and the necessity of quiet for sleep.

"The vast decrease in infant mortality and the abatement of the spitting nuisance were brought about solely through education," Dr. Darlington declared. "So it will be with noise, which should be everybody's business. If every person will aid in bringing about noise abatement—and all can do it by reporting all unnecessary noises to the police station in their district or directly to the Noise Abatement Commission—the way will be paved to the abatement of noise. And with the cessation of unnecessary din will come restful sleep, which will spell better health for the masses and a much-needed curb on drug addiction."

MRS. YOST SELECTED FOR DODSON PLACE

MOVE TO HOLD DRYS SEEN

Leaders Assert Every Effort Was Made to Keep Mrs. Dodson From Resigning.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Mrs. Ellis A. Yost of West Virginia, head of the Washington office of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and known as a militant dry, has been chosen as director of women's activities for the Republican National Committee.

Senator Fess, new chairman of the committee, stated Monday that prohibition would not be an issue in the Congressional campaign this year, but some political observers here interpret the Yost appointment as meaning that the new chairman wants to hold women prohibitionists securely to the Republican party.

Mrs. Yost, it was stated, was the personal selection of Senator Fess who was a member of the faculty of Antioch College when Mrs. Yost was a student there.

Last Winter Mrs. Yost had charge of the dry witnesses who appeared before the House subcommittee on various prohibition bills.

After she left Antioch College Mrs. Yost entered politics in West Virginia, eventually becoming Republican National Committeewoman and a member of the organization's executive committee.

She succeeds Mrs. Louise M. Dodson who resigned from the national committee soon after Claudius H. Huston made his exit as chairman. In administration circles it was said this afternoon that Chairman Fess urged Mrs. Dodson to remain.

Mrs. Virginia White Speel, committeewoman from the District of Columbia, stated that eight women members of the executive committee wanted Mrs. Dodson to remain. Administration lieutenants deny there was any intention to oust Mrs. Dodson and replace her with Mrs. Yost. They say Mrs. Yost's name was not mentioned until Mrs. Dodson had resigned.

L. L. KAHN DESIGNATED FOR CITY COURT BENCH

Tammany Committee Names Lawyer as Candidate for Judge Shientag's Former Post.

Louis L. Kahn, a lawyer widely known in Democratic circles, was designated yesterday by the Tammany executive committee as the regular Democratic candidate for the vacancy on the City Court bench caused by the elevation of Bernard L. Shientag to the Supreme Court bench. His name, however, will not be sent to Governor Roosevelt at present, Tammany Leader John F. Curry said yesterday before leaving for Albany. This will be done some time before the election, so that Mr. Kahn may make his campaign as a sitting judge, it is understood.

Mr. Kahn, who is 49, lives at 27 West Eighty-sixth Street, the district of which Terence F. McKeever is leader. He is married and has one daughter. He is a member of the law firm of Wilber, Norman & Kahn of 299 Broadway. He studied law at the New York University Law School, and was admitted to the bar in 1903. He began work in 1897 as an office boy for former United States District Attorney Mark D. Wilber, and in 1904 joined the firm as a partner.

He is a member of the American Bar Association, Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the New York County Lawyers Association, Metropolis Club, the National Democratic Club, the Maimonides Benevolent Society, Lodge No. 651, F. and A. M., and the Knights of Pythias.

WOODS ALIMONY IS FIXED.

Walter A. Woods, president of the Preferred Automobile Brokers, Inc., of 1,819 Broadway, who has been sued for a separation by Mrs. Anna Barbara Woods, was directed yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Carew to pay his wife $3,500 a year alimony pending the suit and a counsel fee of $1,500 on the report of Official Referee John Proctor Clarke, who took the testimony as to Mr. Woods's financial ability.

Mr. Woods contended that he earns only $4,800 a year salary, with an allowance of $3,600 for expenses, and that he could pay only $140 a month alimony. His wife declared that his company recently had put out an issue of $2,500,000 in bonds and 500,000 shares of stock, and asserted that he had been successful in selling the securities. She asserted that he spent more than $200 a month at the New York Athletic Club and that he insisted he was unable to pay her rent of $190 a month when he was paying $275 a month for an apartment for one Dorothy Hudson, to whom his wife asserts he has been attentive.

NO HOOVER BACKING FOR SENATOR NORRIS

ADMINISTRATION IS ALOOF

Woman Threatens to Enter the Lists Against Norris as an Independent Republican.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Although George W. Norris has won a renomination in the Republican primaries for United States Senator from Nebraska by a striking majority, indications were given in a high official quarter here today that he could expect no aid from the Hoover Administration in his coming campaign.

Chairman Fess of the Republican National Committee recently asserted that his organization would support all Republican nominees, no matter from what faction of Republicanism they arose, and that the Nebraska nominee would be no exception.

But this is not the attitude of some Hoover lieutenants who bitterly denounced Mr. Norris this afternoon as a traitor to the administration and to the party.

How could the administration, they asked, consistently support Mr. Norris who bolted his party to back ex-Governor Smith in 1928 and who, they added, had "never supported any Republican President"? These leaders denied that Mr. Norris was even entitled to seek a nomination as a Republican.

A suggestion that the administration would prefer to see Mr. Hitchcock, the Democratic nominee, elected in place of Mr. Norris, was made in some quarters where it was argued that Mr. Hitchcock could hardly be such an opponent of administration policies as Mr. Norris has been. There is no expectation, however, that the White House will state its attitude during the campaign. On the other hand, it is expected to remain silent during the Nebraska contest.

Independent May Oppose Norris.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 13 (AP).—With defeat of the administration candidate assured, Nebraska's Senatorial primary had an echo tonight in the threat of a widened breach in the Republican State ranks.

Soon after his opponents conceded the nomination of Senator Norris, by a plurality of nearly 25,000 votes, announcement was made that Beatrice Fenton Craig, a Lincoln school teacher, would oppose him in the election as an independent Republican, "by petition."

Leaders interpreted the move as a bid by the school teacher for support of the "regular" wing of the party, which fought Norris in the primary.

Senator Norris, elated over the big plurality he piled up, apparently was little concerned about post-election developments. With only a few precincts to be heard from, he had 87,176 votes to 62,659 for Stebbins, while Aaron Reed, 84-year-old wet, polled only 5,632.

He said he regarded his victory as "vindication of my fight for the principles I have supported."

"I feel greatly encouraged and am positive the effects will be far-reaching," he said.

The margin piled up by former Senator G. M. Hitchcock over his dry opponent, Dr. Jennie M. Callfas, for the Democratic Senatorial nomination, continued to mount on belated returns. With only a few precincts missing, Hitchcock had 49,782 votes to 13,484 for his opponent.

MANN REPUBLICANS WILL SEEK CHARTER

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Colonel Horace A. Mann, who was active in Southern politics in the Presidential campaign of 1928, announced this afternoon that the executive committee of the new "Southern Republican organization" met today preliminary to filing an application for a charter in Atlanta, where permanent headquarters will be established.

Colonel Mann declined to give the names of those attending the meeting, but said that with the exception of Mississippi and Kentucky all the States which participated in the Georgia conference at which the organization was launched were represented.

He gave out a "declaration of principles" which he said the executive committee had adopted.

The declaration of principles, he stated, was intended to clear up "misapprehensions" regarding the organization, which, he added, is a "movement for the perpetuation in the South of a Republican organization based on principle rather than patronage." The document assailed both the Democratic and Republican parties for their attitude toward the South and called upon "Republican and independent" voters of the South to "raise up an irresistible force in behalf of the true principles of nationalism."

At the White House, where the Mann organization is not taken seriously, no comment was made. Administration leaders said they did not care to "dignify" the statement by noticing it. They reiterated that the organization of which Colonel Mann was a part was composed chiefly of "disgruntled Southern Republicans," whom Mr. Hoover had shorn of power and whom he did not intend to consult in Southern patronage, no matter how powerful they had been in the past.

Wireless to The New York Times.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Louis Naintre, well known to Americans as "Luigi," one of the most noted figures among London's clubs and managing director of the Embassy Club, left an estate valued at $207,900. He left $25,000 to his secretary and manager, Azella Knight, in appreciation of her valuable assistance.

"Luigi" was at one time manager of Romano's. He also founded Ciro's and later ran the Criterion.

MAIER GOES HOME; SILENT ON TUTTLE

Republican Chairman Also Refuses to Discuss Talk of a Dry Candidate for Governor.

CHASE REPLIES TO BUTLER

Petitions Designating Republican Candidates for Primaries Filed With Board of Elections.

State Chairman William J. Maier of the Republican party left for his home in Seneca Falls yesterday afternoon without commenting on a report that he had been won over to the candidacy of Federal Attorney Charles H. Tuttle for the Republican nomination for Governor. He also declined to comment on the announcement by Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, dry leader, that efforts would be made to put Chancellor C. W. Flint of Syracuse University in the field as a dry candidate for the Republican nomination.

Canon William Sheafe Chase, in a statement yesterday, took issue with Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler's declaration that the vote for an independent dry candidate for Governor would not be much in excess of 100,000 and that the party should declare itself for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. Canon Chase said that, admitting the wet sentiment in New York State is stronger than elsewhere, still only about 30 per cent of the people here favor repeal. The Republican leaders should obey the rules of the game, or else there would be no game, and no Republican victory, he declared.

Petitions designating the following Republican candidates in the primary election on Sept. 15 were filed with the Board of Elections yesterday:

Bronx County—For Surrogate, Joseph L. Zoetzl, 812 East 229th Street; for Congress, Twenty-third District, George M. Fayles, 2,435 Devoe Terrace; for State Senate, Twenty-first District, Joseph H. Ruffalo, 1,378 Nelson Avenue; Twenty-second District, Sigmund Metz, 750 Bryant Avenue; Twenty-third District, Samuel J. Krimm, 2,067 Harrison Avenue; for Assembly, Second District, William Adler, 427 East 143d Street; Fifth District, Walter A. Boder, 1,052 Kelly Street.

B. Charney Vladeck was designated yesterday by the Socialist party for the Congressional race in the Eighth Congressional District in Brooklyn, where the Socialists polled 17 per cent of the vote in the last Mayoralty election. Mr. Vladeck is manager of The Jewish Daily Forward. The district is one of the largest in the country, polling a total of 142,619 votes last year, and will be one of the first to go Socialist, according to Marx Lewis, executive secretary of the Socialist party here. The Eighth Congressional District includes the Second, Ninth and Sixteenth Assembly Districts.

ACT ON POLICE SHAKE-UP.

Atlantic City Officials Confer—Superintendent May Be Named.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 13.—William S. Cuthbert, Director of Public Safety, and Chief of Police Patrick Doran conferred today on plans to reorganize the Police Department. It was said that Frank Ferretti, captain of detectives, was slated to be pensioned and that several detectives would be retired or reduced to the ranks.

It was also said that in all probability a superintendent of police would be appointed, answerable only to Mr. Cuthbert.

Mayor Bacharach is particularly annoyed over the presence in the city of well-known criminals. He declared that if they were found in any other city they would be dirven out.

Laura Ingalls Rolls Plane 714 Times

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 13 (AP).—Miss Laura Ingalls, New York flier, broke Dale Jackson's barrel-roll record tonight when she completed 714 rolls before landing this evening. Jackson's record was 417. The previous record for women was 67, held by Miss Betty Lund.

CURRY AND M'COOEY GO TO SEE ROOSEVELT

Tammany and Brooklyn Leaders to Confer on Candidate for Attorney General.

Tammany leader John F. Curry and John H. McCooey, the Democratic leader of Brooklyn, left together last night on the night-boat for Albany, to visit Governor Roosevelt in Albany today. They will go to Saratoga for the races, and will be back in New York before the beginning of next week.

Mr. Curry indicated that the trip to Albany was in connection with drawing up the Democratic State ticket for the coming campaign, with particular reference to the candidate for Attorney General. The Democrats intend, it is understood, to make a strong fight for this place, which for several years past has been held by a Republican, despite Democratic victories in the other places on the ticket.

With the renomination of Governor Roosevelt certain, and the renomination of Lieut. Gov. Lehman regarded as equally so, the candidate for Attorney General presents the problem, it was said yesterday. Despite some opposition last Winter to the renomination of State Controller Morris S. Tremaine, he is again expected to be on the ticket.

Both Brooklyn and the Bronx are reported to have put in bids for the Attorney Generalship. Political strategy, it was said, would dictate the naming of an Irish Catholic from this city, since Governor Roosevelt and Mr. Tremaine reside up-State, and Mr. Lehman will be the other down-State representative on the ticket.

The name of Edward Ward McMahon of Brooklyn was sent some time ago to the Governor for the vacancy existing in the State Department of Insurance since Albert Conway, the superintendent, resigned to become a Kings County Judge. In political circles it is believed that the McMahon appointment has been held up pending a decision on the Attorney Generalship. Brooklyn can have only one of the two posts, with McMahon as the leading candidate of Mr. McCooey for either one.

Should the Attorney Generalship go to Brooklyn, the insurance superintendency will go to the Bronx, or vice versa, it was said yesterday.

REPUBLICAN GROUP FOR MODIFICATION

Brooklyn Organization Body Against Rushing Dry Repeal at Convention.

The Brooklyn Republican organization will seek a modification plank in the convention platform rather than urge a repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment if it carries out the recommendation of its subcommittee on State affairs, it became known yesterday. Despite the action of the county committee in going on record as favoring repeal by a vote of seven to one several months ago, influential members of the organization are of the opinion that to force the issue at the State convention would only result in a bitter fight.

For the last few weeks the State affairs subcommittee has had the subject under discussion, and a report containing its recommendation is expected within the next few days. It is expected that Meier Steinbrink, the Brooklyn leader, will call a meeting of the executive committee to let it decide whether it will accept the recommendation. If the plan for modification is adopted, it is understood that the Kings County delegation to the State convention will be instructed to approve the modification proposal.

Despite the efforts of members of the State affairs body to keep their deliberations secret, it was learned that their report embodies not only a recommendation for modification but also a practical plan for the solution of the liquor problem. Their report also analyzes the various methods already under consideration and points out that the Eighteenth Amendment cannot be repealed. It is understood that the basis of the committee's plan is to take the profit out of the liquor traffic by allowing the wet States the right to purchase liquor from government-controlled sources.

REPUBLICAN CLUB ASKS REPEAL PLANK

QUERIES STATE SENATORS

Special to The New York Times.

HUNTINGTON, L. I., Aug. 13.—Members of the Huntington Station Republican Club, at the close of a protracted meeting last evening, unanimously adopted a resolution urging delegates to the State convention to vote for any action that would tend to put the Republican party of the State on record in favor of the absolute repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act.

It was voted also to send a copy of the resolution to each delegate to the convention and a copy to the chairman of the Suffolk County Republican Committee, W. Kingsland Macy.

Harry H. Lane, secretary of the club, which has a membership of about 400, reported replies from State Senator George L. Thompson of Kings Park and Representative Robert L. Bacon of Westbury to queries of the club as to their stand on repeal.

Senator Thompson's letter failed to state definitely the stand of the Senator. Mr. Lane was instructed to write Senator Thompson again, asking him to commit himself as to whether he favors a repeal plank. Senator Thompson said in his letter:

"The matter to which you call my attention is not a personal one altogether, and, no matter what my personal views are, the question will no doubt be discussed as well as other problems of government, and upon the platform, setting forth the policies of the Republican party. I hope to be the candidate of the party for my support to its policies as set forth in the party platform. I cannot take any other position and retain my self-respect as a Republican. I must in fairness be in accord with my party and its policies, otherwise I could not be a candidate."

Representative Bacon sent a copy of his joint resolution proposing an amendment whereby each State would have the right to control the liquor problem. Mr. Bacon said that his resolution accomplished precisely the results advocated by Dwight W. Morrow.

"It may be of interest to you," he wrote, "that I voted against the Jones bill and also bills to do away with trials by jury in prohibition cases," he added.

The club's resolution was offered by E. E. Winding. The club is the first Republican organization in Suffolk County to declare for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. The meeting endorsed the renomination of Supreme Court Justice Cropsey. The members voted in favor of a bathing beach for Huntington.

W. M. BUTLER'S RIVAL OUT.

Bay State Filing Ends With Senatorial Aspirant Unqualified.

BOSTON, Aug. 13 (AP).—The failure of Washington Cook, brother of State Auditor Alonzo B. Cook, to file papers with the Secretary of State after having announced that he would oppose his brother for the Republican nomination, was one of the developments at the expiration of filing time for the September primaries yesterday.

Another was the failure of Walter I. Butler of Revere to obtain the necessary number of signatures to qualify him to oppose former Senator William M. Butler for the Republican Senatorial nomination.

The qualified candidates who filed at the last minute included Eugene N. Foss, former Governor, who seeks the Democratic nomination as United States Senator, and Daniel H. Coakley of Boston.

Four Democrats were already in the Senatorial race. They are Marcus A. Coolidge Fitchburg; Peter J. Joyce, Boston; Thomas C. O'Brien, Boston, and Joseph F. O'Connell, Boston. The Republican Senatorial aspirants are Mr. Butler, whose home is here; Eben S. Draper, Hopedale, and Andrew J. Gillis, Mayor of Newburyport.

HUTCHINSON SHIFTS FROM DRY TO WET

in the midst of a growing contest between the wet and dry ranks in the Republican party for control in the State convention next month, and is issued within a few days of a recent pronunciamento by President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University that the party would go on record in the platform with a definitely wet stand.

A majority of State leaders in the party were not available for comment, State Chairman William J. Maier being en route to his home in Seneca Falls, and others out of touch, but among those who were reached there were several who avowed that Mr. Hutchinson's declaration was to be regarded as of considerable importance due to his stature as a legislator and the fact that he has generally been looked upon as mirroring the sentiment in up-State areas.

Dry supporters on the other hand contended that the remedy for the "disgust" experienced by Mr. Hutchinson's constituents would be, not, as he suggested, modification to bring about a State or municipally controlled dispensary system, but enactment of State enforcement legislation which would end local evils under the current laws. They were also forthright in asserting that Mr. Hutchinson's change in sentiment was not to be viewed as reflecting a general trend.

Joseph A. McGinnies, Speaker of the Assembly and a dry supporter—and also a possible Republican candidate for Governor—when he was reached at his home in Ripley said he had read Mr. Hutchinson's statement and had no comment to make on it. But he added:

"It is not indicative of a changing sentiment among the up-State Republicans."

Efforts to reach Mr. Hutchinson for more extended comment in his views and for information as to whether he would support a modification plank in the State convention were unavailing.

Wets Here Are Pleased.

New York City Republicans supporting the move to get the State convention to put a wet declaration in the party platform hailed Mr. Hutchinson's statement, and asserted that it might have an interesting psychological effect on the prohibition battle in the party, the lines of which have been drawing tighter within the past few weeks.

General James G. Harbord, chairman of the advisory committee of the New York County Republican Committee, which has taken a wet stand, said last night:

"Mr. Hutchinson's statement sounds like the sensible statement of a man who has given thought to the problem. It is significant of a shifting sentiment."

While others joined within in voicing this opinion, Fred A. Victor, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, commenting at his home in Yonkers, said:

"There is probably some truth in Mr. Hutchinson's statement that the people in some up-State counties are disgusted, but that is because there is no State enforcement act to get at the law violators in these areas. Many of these evils grew up after the repeal of the Mullan-Gage law and continued when no new State enforcement law was enacted. If any person or party refuses to take a stand for a State enforcement act to get at the conditions like those cited for Fulton and Hamilton Counties, then they want to make the law fail through anarchy.

"This statement will not have any effect on the general prohibition sentiment, either up-State or elsewhere, but it might affect Mr. Hutchinson's political future. I think Mr. Hutchinson would find that the people of his districts would not vote to put the counties into the liquor business."

Bankhead Named in Alabama.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 13 (AP).—With the nomination of John H. Bankhead as Senator conceded, interest tonight centred on the race for the Gubernatorial nomination and the size of the vote cast in yesterday's Democratic primary.

Frederick I. Thompson, Mobile publisher, the defeated candidate, sent Mr. Bankhead a message of congratulation and assured him of his support in the November election, which will find Senator J. Thomas Heflin running as an independent.

The vote for Senator, 1,203 precincts counted, stood Bankhead 62,235 and Thompson 33,633, and an estimated one-fourth yet to report.

OHIO DEMOCRATS NAME ONE DRY AND TWO WETS

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 13 (AP).—Complete tabulation of the unofficial vote in Tuesday's primary showed tonight that the Democrats selected former Representative Robert J. Bulkley of Cleveland, an advocate of repeal of national prohibition, for Senator, and former Representative George White of Marietta, an avowed dry with Anti-Saloon League backing, as their Gubernatorial candidate.

Mr. Bulkley had about 40,000 more votes than his closest opponent, W. W. Durbin of Kenton, former State chairman, in a five-cornered race. Former Representative John McSweeny of Wooster was fourth, 5,000 behind Durbin. The vote was Bulkley 80,487, Durbin 40,580, Charles V. Truax 36,436, McSweeny 35,063 and George S. Myers 19,225.

Mr. White defeated his wet opponent, Stephen M. Young of Cleveland, by almost 60,000. The vote was: White, 136,428; Young, 77,964.

Only one Representative, W. W. Chalmers of the Ninth District, was defeated for renomination. He was swamped by Wilbur M. White, Toledo newspaper editor and a newcomer in politics, running on a wet platform. Mr. White will be opposed in November by Scott Stahl of Toledo, a wet Democrat.

Murray and Gore in Oklahoma.

Special to The New York Times.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 13.—Alfalfa Bill Murray, former Representative, is the Democratic nominee for Governor, leading Frank Buttram by 90,000 votes.

The blind T. P. Gore, former Senator, beaten in the primary of 1920 by Scott Ferris on his war record, won the Senatorial nomination over C. J. Wrightsman by 50,000.

Robinson Wins in Arkansas.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 13 (AP).—The renomination of Senator Robinson and Governor Harvey Parnell was certain today as both continued to pile up overwhelming leads over their opponents with more than three-fourths of the precincts in the State reported.

With eighteen counties reported complete in the Gubernatorial race and returns from 1,523 of the 2,028 precincts, Governor Parnell had 84,370 votes to 57,066 for his nearest opponent, Brooks Hays, Little Rock lawyer.

Senator Robinson maintained a 3 to 1 lead over Tom W. Campbell, Little Rock lawyer, as returns from 1,413 precincts were announced, giving Robinson 104,062 and Campbell 32,957.

POWER STUDY BOARD NAMED BY GOVERNOR

Professor Haig Heads Body to Investigate St. Lawrence Development.

WILL TAKE UP STATE PLAN

Commissioners Will Organize at Once and Meet Roosevelt at Ogdensburg Aug. 30.

HE PRAISES THEIR ABILITY

Representative Davenport, J. H. Cohen, S. L. Fuller and Conway Other Appointees.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 13.—Governor Roosevelt this afternoon announced his appointments to the St. Lawrence Power Development Commission, which is charged with the duty of investigating the development of State-produced power in the river.

The commission is headed by Professor Robert M. Haig of the School of Business of Columbia University. Other members are:

FREDERICK M. DAVENPORT of Clinton, Representative in Congress and Professor of Law and Politics at Hamilton College.

SAMUEL L. FULLER, New York banker and member of the firm of Kissel, Kinnicutt & Co.

Several weeks ago it was stated that former Governor Smith might be a member of the commission. Governor Roosevelt said that he had begged him to take the position, but that Mr. Smith felt now that he must devote his full time to his building interests.

The Governor let it be known that several members of the commission have already given consideration and study to the whole problem of power development on the St. Lawrence and had amassed much information. The commission has been invited to meet Governor Roosevelt at Ogdensburg on Aug. 30 and spend two days in observing the shore in the vicinity of the Long Sault section of the river. The Governor is due to make an address at Ogdensburg prior to his trip down the river.

Governor Roosevelt said there was no politics in the choice, and pointed out that Mr. Davenport is a Republican, Mr. Cohen an independent Democrat, Mr. Conway a Democrat, Mr. Fuller a Republican and Professor Haig an independent.

"I am very happy that these gentlemen have agreed to serve on the commission," he asserted. "Their ability is outstanding, and I am confident they will approach the whole subject with a view to the public interest."

The Governor said he was particularly fortunate in obtaining the services of Professor Haig, who has been a member of many commissions and has had a wide experience as an investigator.

The commission is expected to organize within a week. It has $200,000 for its expenses and is to make its report to the Legislature on Jan. 15. The law creating the commission specified that the Governor's plan for State development of water power must be studied first. Later, if it chooses, the commission may make a study of private development.

CAPTAIN HAWKS AT THE END OF RECORD FLIGHT.

The speedy plane landing at Curtiss Field yesterday evening after making the transcontinental trip in 12 hours 25 minutes 3 seconds of elapsed time, to shatter the record made by Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

HAWKS SETS RECORD, FLYING FROM COAST

By LAUREN D. LYMAN.

of Texas, over the ranges and red wheat lands of Northern Oklahoma he rode the wind and his engine down into Kansas and Wichita in two hours and twenty minutes, the fastest time in which that leg has ever been made. As the plane rolled to a stop again, close to the hangar and fuel supply, Captain Hawks looked at his watch. Half way across the continent in five hours, forty-seven minutes and eleven seconds. He was already fifty-two minutes ahead of the Lindbergs' time.

Again there was a fifteen-minute stop and again the pilot sat in his plane. The race was half won but only half. The weather reports had been perfect so far. At Wichita, however, the flier saw a storm area marked on the flimsy that a mechanic handed up to him—storms around St. Louis.

"They didn't amount to much," he said last night. "It rained some but I got above it and came along. I lost the best of the winds at Wichita but had a little help between there and St. Louis, where I hit the rain."

The rest of Kansas and all of Missouri flashed beneath the speeding plane without other incident.

Lands at Indianapolis.

Captain Hawks crossed into Illinois at the junction of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers and left the last helping wind of the day behind. He had left Wichita at 12:36, lacking eight seconds, roared through the Middle West in three hours and rolled to a stop at Indianapolis at 3:22 for another record that has never been approached.

A cross-wind had taken the place of the westerlies and Hawks had to "crab" into it from the Mississippi, East.

"It was hazy, too," he said. "After the clear air in the West I noticed the smoke and haze that was to spread like a blanket all the way to New York. From 8,000 feet the ground was just visible."

It was hard to believe that this bronzed, smiling man sitting there in an open-neck white outing shirt and white linen knickers, without a travel stain, had come 2,510 miles in one round of the clock. He showed less fatigue and his clothes showed less wear than the average golfer back from eighteen holes.

"I was getting hungry when I left Indianapolis," he said, "but I figured to be in New York in good time for dinner. I got away at 3:35, with good weather reports and the last gas I expected to take."

Knew Record Was His.

Up to its course in the sky at 8,000 feet the Travelair climbed, "and we started making knots again." Hawks knew that the record was his, barring accident, and he nursed his motor.

He flew north of Dayton and Columbus and then roared on into the hills of Pennsylvania, still fighting a cross wind and still making between three and four miles a minute. He saw the smudge over Pittsburgh and the surrounding steel and coal towns. He spied the green of forest and farm and the darker ridges of the Alleghanies.

The bulletlike plane crossed the Delaware, rippling and glinting in the afternoon sun, and the pilot peered ahead and saw the blue horizon of the Atlantic. Skirting the coastline to Sandy Hook, he looked north, saw the shadowy towers of Manhattan and then started his dive for the airport, still making the tremendous speed that had been his from the beginning of the flight.

Aviator, in the Cockpit of His Machine, Hails the Welcoming Crowd at Curtiss Field After His Epoch-Making Trip From the Coast.

About this time, close to 6:40 P. M., the crowd of a thousand or more heard the roar of his engine and the high whine of his metal propeller, but no one saw the plane until it shot straight out from the centre of the sun and flashed down across the field. A great shout of welcome went up as he circled the field once at 5,000 feet and then again after a diving turn which brought him into a glide at a thousand.

He cut the engine and came fishtailing down to a landing. He still had so much speed that he turned the fuselage broadside into the breeze to slow down enough for a landing. His wheels touched and he rolled to a stop a half mile from the spectators massed at the hangars. Then he turned and taxied in.

Mrs. Hawks was the first to reach him. She climbed to a wing and her husband embraced her. Congratulations became general then. There were members of the Mayor's committee, officials of the Texas Company, for which Captain Hawks manages the aviation division, led by R. C. Holmes, president; Captain Eric Nelson, round the world flier; Guy W. Vaughan, president of the Wright Aeronautical Corporation; C. S. (Casey) Jones, president of the Curtiss-Wright Flying Service, and himself a famous racing pilot; Frank A. Tichenor, publisher of Aero Digest and official timer, and scores of other friends and well wishers.

As soon as he could Captain Hawks climbed down and his first words were: "Well, when do we eat?"

After a short time with the reporters and a few minutes before the cameras he climbed into an official car with George Mand, representing Mayor Walker, and behind a police escort was driven to Manhattan and to the Ambassador Hotel.

Captain Hawks will rest for a day or two and then supervise the grooming of his racer for the national air races, which open in Chicago next week Saturday.

A little while before Captain Hawks landed Colonel Lindbergh returned to New York from Williamstown with his wife. As soon as he could reach a telephone he asked for information about the Hawks flight. When informed that the flier was averaging better than 200 miles across the country the Colonel said: "That's great. He ought to make it in about twelve hours."

Later last night when he learned the actual performance he said that he would get together with Captain Hawks as soon as possible to chat with him and congratulate him.

"That kind of flying means that we will have an overnight service to the Coast," the Colonel said.

Another who sent his congratulations was Clarence D. Chamberlin.

"This is great," he said, "allowing forty-five minutes for his three stops, that means his actual flying time was 11 hours 40 minutes 3 seconds. That sort of transportation is going to go some place."

Hawks was asked about the number on his plane, 13, and answered that it was his lucky number. He reminded his questioners that he made the flight on the thirteenth day of the month and then pointed to the Department of Comerce number on the plane—NR13-13.

Last night at 10:30 he told briefly of his trip over the National Broadcasting chain, speaking from his room in the Ambassador.

Grateful for Aid in Radio Talk.

Speaking last night over WJZ and a nation-wide chain, Captain Hawks thanked the Weather Bureau and the Transcontinental Air Transport-Maddux weather observers, and the builders of his plane and engine and the mechanics who serviced the motor both in Los Angeles and on his way East.

"Without all this help I couldn't had done it," he said.

"It has always been my dream to cross the continent in twelve hours," he continued, "and today I missed it by a few minutes. At times I flew as fast as 260 miles an hour and as low as 210, but at no time did I fly below 200 miles an hour.

"The flight shows something of what can be done in the way of establishing a sort of 'pony express' for the transport of bonds and other valuable documents across the country."

The flight from West to East, Captain Hawks said, would always be faster than the flight from East to West, because of the prevailing westerly winds. The flier from the West, however, riding against the sun, must start in darkness, whereas the East to West flier has the advantage of a longer sunlight, he said.

"You lose daylight coming east, so I could not start at sunrise," the flier declared. "I had to get up at midnight and start in the darkness. Coming east I did not have time for a round of golf as I did on the flight west."

Cross-Country Air Records Cut From 151 Days to Half a Day

Since the transcontinental crossing was first made by air eighteen years ago the time for the journey has been reduced from several months to half a day. The records and the pilots who made them follow:

1923—Kelly and MacReady, non-stop, Roosevelt Field to San Diego; 26 hours 50 minutes.

1924—Russell Maughan, Mitchel Field to San Diego; 24 hours 48 minutes.

1928 (August)—Arthur Goebel, non-stop, Los Angeles to Roosevelt Field; 18 hours 58 minutes.

1928 (October)—C. B. D. Collyer and Harry Tucker, Roosevelt Field to Los Angeles, 24 hours 51 minutes.

1929 (February)—Frank Hawks, non-stop, Los Angeles to Roosevelt Field; 18 hours 21 minutes 59 seconds.

1930 (April)—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, Los Angeles to Roosevelt Field; 14 hours 45 minutes 32 seconds.

1930 (August)—Hawks, Valley Stream to Los Angeles; 14 hours 50 minutes.

ENDURANCE FLIERS SET A NEW RECORD

I guess because it is on the home stretch. Gas us between 2 and 3 o'clock.

"Station KHNSU signing off. Red Jackson announcing."

An air of expectancy gripped the assembled watchers as the record hour approached. The refueling crew, observers, movie and radio men and reporters paced back and forth across the inclosure in front of the refueling headquarters as the early morning spectators focused their eyes on the endurance craft, outlined against leaden skies.

Just before 8:05 o'clock, when the Greater St. Louis equalled the Hunters' record, a heavy shower sent attendants and spectators scurrying for shelter.

The refueling plane went aloft during the shower and Pilot William Brewster and Chaffee reported they were greeted by O'Brine's happy grin as the endurance craft slipped beneath their plane.

Earlier the fliers had failed to drop a note or broadcast the usual morning order for fuel and breakfast. After waiting until 7:30 o'clock, Brewster and Chaffee took off with seventy-five gallons of gasoline, oil and breakfast.

Jackson apparently was waiting for his helpers and manoeuvred into position as usual. As the contact was completed, O'Brine tied a can to the rope by which the oil cans are lowered and it was found to contain several communications for those on the ground.

"Everything is the same aboard the Greater St. Louis as the day we left. I'll be seeing you," a general note from Jackson said.

Congratulatory telegrams began coming in as the record was broken. Included were messages from Phil De C. Ball, owner of the St. Louis Browns; Harold M. Bixby, one of Colonel Lindbergh's backers, and Arthur Nutt, designer of the Challenger motor in the Greater St. Louis.

The city authorities arranged a fireworks celebration at the field tonight, with stunt flying and a lighted parachute jump.

Beginning with the hour of breaking the record, Jackson and O'Brine will receive $100 an hour for seventy hours, a total of $7,000, if they stay up. The award was offered by the company from which they purchased oil. William Pickens, their manager, is hopeful of receiving other offers now that the record is broken. The flight fund was reported at about $3,700, with expenses $1,000 a week.

Four sound-movie companies have set up establishments at the field in the expectation of recording the fliers' voices when they land.

R-100 SAILS AWAY ON HOMEWARD TRIP

By F. RAYMOND DANIELL.

of Mount Royal, the great airship was back over the airport. She circled high overhead and then was gone toward the coast, her blinking tail-light flickering in the sky to the east. In ten minutes even that had disappeared.

By that time 10,000 motorists who had driven out from Montreal to honk their horns and wave good-bye were clogging the Chambly road and bridges over the St. Lawrence. The Dragoons, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the Scottish Regiment and the famous Vingt-Beuxieme Regiment of French Canadians, their tour of duty ended, were breaking camp and loading their duffel onto motor lorries.

By daylight, if all goes well, Squadron Leader R. S. Booth, commander of the ship, hopes to say farewell to land and start out across the open sea, where winds are steady and vertical gusts are few.

The passengers were taken aboard before 9 o'clock. First, they had to sign papers releasing the King from all responsibility for accident, leave their matches and cigarettes behind and discard all baggage beyond the thirty-pound limit. Then a doctor listened with a stethoscope to make sure there was none among them with a weak heart.

Although the airship was built to carry 100 passengers in addition to her officers and crew of forty-five, only the following sailed on her as guests of the Air Ministry:

Sir C. DENNISTOUN BURNEY, managing director of Airship Guarantee Company.

Group Captain E. W. STEADMAN, Chief of Aircraft Engineering, Royal Canadian Air Force.

DON C. BROWN, Toronto Mail and Empire and Winnipeg Free Press.

THOMAS WAYLING, Southam Press.

J. FERGUS GRANT, Montreal Gazette and THE NEW YORK TIMES.

E. OLYN JONES, Central News, London.

MONTAGUE SLATER, Daily Telegraph, London.

W. S. NORWAY, engineer, British Airship Guarantee Company, Ltd.

C. H. J. SNIDER, Toronto Telegram and North American Newspaper Alliance.

E. W. GRANGE, Reuters, London.

The dirigible left nine members of her crew behind to travel to England later by steamship. Nine other members of the crew who came here from England by steamship took their places for the return voyage. It had been understood beforehand that there would not be room for everybody and lots were drawn in England to see who should make the round trip flight, who would bring her over and who would take her back.

Ideal weather conditions were promised for the journey in the official forecast prepared by government meteorologists at the airport. A southerly seven-mile breeze was blowing, but it was said that this would shift later to a tail wind which would help carry the dirigible eastward until she was at least half way across the Atlantic.

These winds were counted upon by Sir C. Dennistoun Burney, managing director of the British Airship Guarantee Company, which built the R-100, to carry her from the New World to the Old in fifty hours or less, although only five of the six Rolls-Royce engines are to be used.

This would be approximately six hours and a half better than the best time ever made in a crossing by the Graf Zeppelin. Wing Commander R. B. B. Colmore, however, denied that the dirigible was going after any records. She was just making "a normal transatlantic voyage," he said.

Before the airship sailed, Commander Colmore, in a formal statement, thanked the Canadian people and their press for the hospitality and cooperation they extended to the officers and crew. The statement said:

"Before leaving Canada, I feel, on behalf of the officers and the crew of the R-100, I need to extend to the Canadian people in general our warmest thanks for their reception. Their hospitality will remain in our minds forever. To the press of Canada generally, I would also like to say how much we appreciate what they have done for us on this our experimental flight to Canada. Without the press we could not have kept in touch with the public and, therefore, I would like them to know that they have aided us materially in giving the details of our flight.

The world's largest airship, capable of lifting fifty-six tons, approximately the weight of the average locomotive, is forbidden to carry freight for hire. Had she been able to accept all the packages and boxes that were offered, however, the revenue would have amounted to about $500,000, it was said.

As it is, she is sailing with only a bunch of peonies for King George from Viscount Willingdon, the Governor General, and a box of Canada-grown peaches from Premier Ferguson of Ontario to the Prince of Wales. In addition she has aboard her several letters of an official nature.

One is from R. B. Bennett, new Prime Minister of Canada, to Ramsay MacDonald. Another is from the High Commissioner for the United Kingdom in Canada to the Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs. Still others are from Mayor Camillien Houde of Montreal to the Lord Mayor of London and from the Canadian Minister of National Defense to Lord Thomson, Secretary of State for Air in the English Cabinet.

Sightseers at St. Hubert were scarce yesterday, although the field was the scene of great activity as the dirigible was being made ready for her 3,300-mile flight. Her fifteen balloonets, capable of holding more than 5,000,000 cubic feet of hydrogen, were full by a little after noon, the last gallon of the thirty-five tons of gasoline required for the voyage at about the same time.

Food Supply Costs $2,500.

George Laurent, a Frenchman, who exhibited his faith in airship transportation months ago by obtaining the exclusive catering privilege not only for the R-100 but also for the Los Angeles and Graf Zeppelin if they should visit here, checked off the items of food he had ordered and prepared his bill of $2,500.

The following is an inventory of the ship's larder:

Thirty-nine pounds lamb chops, 39 pounds tenderloin, 1 case lime juice, 45 loaves Parisian bread, 3 dozen French pastry, 45 pounds ordinary bread, 25 gallon tins peas, 4 whole milk-fed chickens, 1 box cheese biscuits, 1 box assorted biscuits, 2 pounds tea, 25 pounds sugar, 2 pounds cocoa, 21 pounds butter, 14 tins condensed milk, 14 pots strawberry jam, 3 boxes cheese, 15 pounds Canadian bacon, 10 dozen eggs, 4 pounds coffee, 15 cans Canadian peaches, 2 pounds yellow cornmeal, 1 tin custard powder, 1 bag flour, 1 tin baking powder, 6 bottles olives, 2 large bottles picallilli, 2 tins mustard, 2 dozen sparklets (for sodawater), 2 dozen vegetable soup, 2 dozen asparagus soup, 10 pounds tomatoes, 2 boxes lettuce, 1 box cucumbers, 1 box celery, 5 boxes chocolates, 5 boxes chewing gum.

Squadron Leader R. S. Booth, master of the airship, was not certain about the course he intends to follow. If weather conditions are favorable, he said, he will follow the St. Lawrence to the county of Gaspé and thence to Cape Breton and the open sea over the lane of eastbound Canadian shipping.

Sir Dennistoun and Commander Colmore arrived at the field about midafternoon by airplane. They had been in Ottawa consulting with Prime Minister Bennett relative to participation by the Dominion in an enlarged airship program.

Neither of them would comment upon the discussion or make any prediction about the future. Anything of that nature, Sir Dennistoun said, would come from Mr. Bennett after he has received the reports of Canadian experts, including those who made the overnight flight to Toronto, Hamilton and Niagara Falls, Sunday and Monday.

The dirigible has been a visitor in Canada since early in the morning of Aug. 1, when she arrived from Cardington after a three-day flight across the Atlantic. Two hundred miles from this airport she encountered squalls and vertical currents which tossed her upward 2,500 feet in less than a minute, tearing the fabric covering from her port stabilizer-fin and ripping the one on the starboard side.

At first it was thought the dirigible would have to accept the proferred hospitality of the United States Navy and go to Lakehurst, N. J., where repairs could be made in a hangar. British pride, however, made this a distasteful outlook, and the repairs were made at the mooring mast here 200 feet above the ground. It was necessary to do all the work, including the doping of the fabric, from the inside, but Sir Dennistoun and Commander Colmore insisted that when they were finished the ship was in better shape than she ever had been.

So much time was consumed in the repair job, however, that a proposed flight to Quebec was canceled, and two projected exhibition trips to Ottawa and Toronto were merged into one. It was on this flight, the only one in Canada since the R-100 arrived, that the hole was torn in the main envelope and one of the engines was crippled. The hole was patched, but the engine could not be repaired. The lack of a hangar made replacing of the useless engine impracticable.

In the thirteen days that the R-100 had been in Canada more than 6,000 persons were taken up in the mooring mast's elevator and escorted through the ship.

Messages Are Exchanged.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Aug. 14.—The following messages were exchanged between the R-100 and the ground radio station after the ship had sailed from her mast tonight:

R-100:

Godspeed to those sailing on R-100. Will you not come back again?

OFFICERS, St. Hubert Airport.

Officers, St. Hubert Airport:

Please convey to Canada our heartfelt thanks for a wonderful reception. R-100.

Officers St. Hubert Airport:

Please convey to the Governor General the thanks of all on board for their excellencies' good wishes. R-100.

Conley of West Virginia, John G. Pollard of Virginia, John E. Erickson of Montana, Clyde M. Reed of Kansas, John Hammill of Iowa, Arthur J. Weaver of Nebraska and a representative of Clem D. Sampson of Kentucky.

At the same time there were factors to encourage the President and the State officials. The weather showed signs of cooperating, good rains being reported from Missouri and portions of Kansas within the last twenty-four hours, with showers forecast for the Corn Belt tonight and tomorrow.

Red Cross on the Watch.

The President asked the American Red Cross today to ascertain if it would be ready if any situation demanding instant action should arise.

Judge John Barton Payne, national chairman of the Red Cross, assured Mr. Hoover that the organization was prepared for an emergency, with $5,000,000 available for instant relief. He also told the President that local chapters throughout the drought areas were making constant surveys of conditions.

Judge Payne will probably attend the conference tomorrow, and others present will be Alexander Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, who is flying here from the West; Secretary Hyde and Paul Bester, Federal Farm Loan Commissioner.

Counties Listed for Rate Cuts.

One hundred and ninety-eight counties in Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Ohio and Indiana were named today by Secretary Hyde as a list in part of those areas in which the drought was so serious as to warrant the special 50 per cent emergency freight rate reduction announced yesterday by the American Railway Association. The reduction so far made is for the territory east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio Rivers, and applies to water, hay and grain shipped into drought areas and on live stock shipped out to be fed.

Lists covering other States are being compiled and the railroads are soon to apply similar reductions in other territories.

"These freight rates apply only to livestock shipped out because of shortage of feed and not to shipments of cattle to market," Secretary Hyde said. "Likewise, special rates apply only to feed shipped into the area because of feed shortage. It is a relief measure and not a general freight rate reduction. A county agent or other representative will certify that feed is needed or that the livestock must be moved out to be fed. Through the railroad agent, permits for the shipments at the special rate will be issued."

The Department of Agriculture tonight announced plans for an intensified use of the radio to reach farmers and cattle men with suggestions as to the drought emergency. Three officials of the department are scheduled to broadcast over an NBC network in the next several days. They will go on the air in the National Farm and Home Hour, broadcast daily from 12:45 to 1:30 P. M. Eastern Standard Time.

On Thursday J. O. Williams will talk to stockmen on late Fall and early Spring pasture.

On Friday T. E. Woodward will speak to the dairymen. On Monday H. N. Vinall will summarize experimental findings on the rehabilitation of pastures.

Declaring that the "farmer's sources of credit have been dried up for months," Senator Caraway of Arkansas insisted today that any aid extended to those in the stricken areas must be direct in order to confer benefit.

"The aid which is to be extended to those who are most in need of it will have to be a direct loan, not merely an offer to loan through the intermediary banks and Federal Farm Board," he said, "because these have exacted excessive securities in the past and would doubtless do so now."

Grocers Appeal to Prevent Food Hoarding in Drought

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 13.—Officials of grocery organizations today appealed to consumers of canned goods and groceries to avoid increased buying with a view to hoarding foodstuffs in expectation of increased food prices caused by the widespread drought.

No immediate raise in prices on canned goods is anticipated by grocers here, it was said, although it was admitted canned goods might be scarce during the Winter.

W. W. Stellhorn, treasurer of the Independent Wholesale Grocers' Association, said "profiteering" by grocers was not as much to be feared as the hoarding tactics which would drain a market which otherwise might stretch over until relief arrived.

CRITICIZES HOOVER PLAN.

Gov. Emmerson Says Government Should Shoulder Loans.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13 (AP).—Governor Louis L. Emmerson, on the way to attend the drought relief conference called by President Hoover, said today that the President's plan as reported in the newspapers did not seem to solve the problem.

"My understanding is that the government plans to offer relief to any drought-stricken farmer provided his community guarantees the loan," the Governor said. "This method of financing does not seem to me to solve the problem. If the men who have to guarantee this form of financing felt able to approve the loan, the farmer would not have to be sent to the government for aid, but would be cared for in the region."

Governor Emmerson said he believed the government would have to assume full responsibility, risking the possibility of a loss if the farmer was unable later to meet his obligations.

TELLS INDIANA SITUATION.

Governor Leslie Says Food Supplies Are Sufficient.

By Telegraph to the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 13.—Indiana has sufficient food supplies, if properly distributed. The drought area is in the south in a less productive region. Coordination of production and distribution agencies is necessary, with extension of financial relief in the absorption of farmers' short-time loans by three to five years' loans made through Federal agencies.

This is necessary to meet taxes and cropping operations for another year. Next year's road program, both local and national, should be advanced in the stricken area for the employment of residents in construction work. All charitable activities should be directed by the Red Cross.

Governor HARRY G. LESLIE.

TO FORM CREDIT BODY.

Live Stock Men Organize for Use of Farm Board Funds.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 13 (AP).—Representatives of live stock marketing associations gathered here tonight from eight States to incorporate a regional credit corporation which will supply several million dollars for carrying over live stock in the drought areas.

The new organization, incorporators say, will act as a regional unit of the National Live Stock Marketing Association and will obtain Federal Farm Board funds through the National Feeder and Finance Corporation. The unit will serve Ohio, Michigan, New York, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, West Virginia, Tennessee and part of Indiana.

NEW RADIO STATION READY.

Mackay Unit at Rockland, Me., Begins Trans-atlantic Service Today.

The Mackay Radio and Telegraph Company, Inc., will start operation today of a new transatlantic radio station at Rockland, Me., for communication with ships at sea, thereby taking a further important step in its competition with the Radiomarine Corporation for this class of business.

The Rockland station is the fourth which the company has established on the Atlantic Coast, the others being at Sayville, L. I.; New York City and West Palm Beach, Fla. It will operate on both long and intermediate waves and will be known as Station WAG. It will be connected directly with New York over the lines of the Postal Telegraph-Cable Company.

FINDS NO FLAW IN PLANE IN FATAL BRITISH CRASH

Air Ministry Inspector Uncovers No Evidence of Negligence as Cause of Six Deaths.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—At an inquest at Meopham today on the six victims of the recent crash of a Le Touquet-Croyden air taxi Major James Cooper, an Air Ministry inspector of accidents, stated that an examination of the wreckage revealed no fault in the materials or workmanship of the machine and no evidence of negligence. It was announced that it would be left to the Aeronautical Research Committee to ascertain the cause of the accident and that its conclusions would be published.

Valentine Holmes, representing relatives of the victims, suggested that the inquest should be adjourned until the committee presented the report, but Coroner E. C. Harris did not agree. Mr. Holmes said he wanted to test Major Cooper's allegation that he found no evidence of negligence. S. M. Haslip, representing the Walcott Airline, the airplane's owners, suggested that Mr. Holmes was seeking evidence on which to base civil action, which Mr. Holmes denied. A jury found the deaths due to falling from an airplane, the cause of the disaster being unknown.

While eyewitnesses described how the plane fell Mrs. Henderson, widow of Lieut. Col. Henderson, the pilot, entered the court and sat listening to the evidence, a pathetic figure in black. Major Cooper said souvenir hunters had added materially to the difficulties of trying to salvage the whole of the machine.

To Confer on Tong Peace Monday.

The arbitration meeting scheduled for yesterday by District Attorney Crain among representatives of warring Chinese Tongs has been postponed until Monday, because of the inability of some of those interested to attend until then, it was announced yesterday at the District Attorney's office. The meeting was suggested by the Chinese legation in Washington.

LUFTHANSA PILOT CLEARED.

Deaths of Five in Plane Laid to Lack of Life-Saving Devices.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

STETTIN, Aug. 13.—The life-saving equipment of the Lufthansa Dornier-Wahl seaplane, which was wrecked on July 7 en route to Stockholm from Stettin, was entirely inadequate, according to the verdict of the Admiralty Court here. The accident caused the deaths of five passengers, including Ruth Patricia Northrop of Philadelphia and Dr. John Burkholder, aged 42, of Mount Pleasant, Pa.

It was the first time an Admiralty Court has ever dealt with a seaplane accident, and new provisions were held to be needed, as an Admiralty Court has no right to withdraw a pilot's license.

The court found the pilot was not to blame for the accident and that the correct measures had been taken under the circumstances. Aviation experts strongly criticized the neglect in regard to the life-saving equipment.

GERMANY PROMOTES ENVOY.

Consul General at Dublin Becomes Minister to Free State.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, Aug. 13.—The long-delayed reciprocal appointment of a German Minister plenipotentiary to the Irish Free State has been announced. Dr. von Dehn-Schmidt, who has served as Consul General at Dublin for the past six years and who was promoted to be Charge d' Affaires last January, is the new Minister.

The appointment is a popular one here. The new envoy has high qualifications as a keen sportsman, like Frederick A. Sterling, the American Minister, and is well known on the hunting field and the polo ground. Before the World War he was attached to the German Embassy at London.

HOOVER ACTS TO END FOOD PROFITEERING

for fresh vegetables in New York City. Mr. La Guardia proposed the bulletin service and publicity as one means of stopping food speculation to Mr. Hoover, and the President sent him immediately to Secretary Hyde. After a conference with the Secretary of Agriculture and a call at the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of that department, Mr. La Guardia announced the plan agreed on and stated it would be put into operation at once.

Mr. La Guardia told the President and Secretary Hyde that "second-grade" fresh vegetables were selling from 25 to 30 per cent higher in the metropolis than before the drought. He held that commission merchants, jobbers or wholesalers, or all three, were mainly the price boosters.

"Unless this profiteering is stopped," he added, "the consumers will take drastic action."

Secretary Hyde told Mr. La Guardia that there was a shortage of fresh vegetables in certain sections, but that inasmuch as other sections which had no drought were supplying the deficiency, there was no reason for increases in prices.

Secretary Hyde added that there was no occasion to boost the prices of canned foodstuffs and that there was no reason why families should stock up with canned goods for fear of a rising market this Winter.

Agents on the Watch.

Secretary Hyde had previously stated that the Federal agencies working in the drought areas would keep their eyes open for profiteering in human foodstuffs, with a view to dealing with it as far as possible under Federal laws.

"There may be reason for price increases in some commodities," declared Mr. Hyde, "but there is no danger of any shortage of human food and no cause for people storing up enormous stocks.

"It is hard to tell at this time what can be done in the matter of profiteering. Under the law it is a matter for the Department of Justice to handle, through the laws against conspiracies to violate anti-trust statutes, but we already have the facilities to give publicity to these prices, and we can do that now."

At the White House it was stated that every effort would be made to curb any profiteering in foodstuffs but that it had not been determined what action would be taken. It was suggested that prosecutions, if they became necessary, would be left to the Department of Justice, which can act under existing statutes where there is an attempt to fix prices through an agreement of "two or more" food dealers or where there is evidence of an effort to form a monopoly on any foodstuffs.

Whatever action of this kind is taken would be under regulations of the Sherman anti-trust law, the Clayton act or the interstate commerce act.

The possibility that speculators or profiteers, seizing on additional profits through the low freight rates granted for moving water, hay, grain and live stock to and from the parched States, has been anticipated by the railroads and blocked to start with. All movements made under the special low tariff drought emergency must be approved by the agricultural county agents, field representatives of the Department of Agriculture, who are in constant touch with individual farmers throughout the country and know their needs.

FIGHTS PROFITEERS HERE.

Wynne Forms "Food Price Board" to Guard Against Inflation.

Acting on the theory that there is a "veritable conspiracy" to use the drought to increase all food prices and that profiteering merchants already have added between $3,000,000 and $7,500,000 to the weekly food bill of this city, Health Commissioner Wynne organized an emergency board yesterday to fight such procedure.

The board will be known as "The Fair Price Board for Foods" and it will give information daily through the newspapers and the radio on wholesale market conditions and fair retail prices. It will be composed of the food market reporters of the metropolitan dailies, food experts of the city and State departments of agriculture and four "minute-men" of the Department of Health.

Surveys of food conditions reported yesterday at a special meeting to organize the board in the Health Commissioner's office indicated that many merchants had increased the price of food necessities from 10 to 25 per cent. The city's weekly food bill is about $30,000,000.

President Hoover was informed yesterday by Representative La Guardia that an "undue" increase in food prices in New York City had raised the cost of living between 25 and 35 per cent above what it was a short time ago.

District Attorney George E. Brower of Brooklyn, who is making an investigation into the rise in milk price with the intention of prosecuting dealers if the higher price is found to have been unjustified, announced yesterday that his investigation showed that local milk distributers were opposed to raising the price of milk, but had taken such action as the result of the attitude of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association. He said further that the latter organization, although giving a milk shortage as the cause of the increase, had begun a study of conditions in the New York milk shed after and not before the price rise.

A survey completed yesterday of the foods available in New York City markets by the Health Department showed that the supply is "plentiful," Edward F. Brown, special deputy health commissioner, said. Department of Health experts agreed that there was "absolutely no justification for a rise in prices."

A serious aspect in the food situation, according to the Health Department, is the many carloads of food abandoned by merchants so that food prices may be increased on the plea of a lack of sufficient supply. Mr. Brown revealed that recently the department inspectors were asked to condemn 300 crates of the finest greens to prevent them from entering the city markets.

Just how far the Health Department can go in punishing these "illegal" abandonments of food is an open question, Dr. Max Herzog of the department's staff explained. He said the health officials would like to mete out jail sentences of long duration for the offending merchants, but only further developments can determine whether they have such power.

"This condition is a great shame, especially at a time when the city is suffering from unemployment," Mr. Brown said. "During the war a law was passed, which is now in the code of city ordinances, making it illegal to abandon foods. We are going to see how far we can go in using that to meet the situation of commission merchants abandoning food to keep prices high."

Watching for such abandonment of fruit and vegetables in good condition will be one of the chief duties of the four "fair price minute-men."

"There has already been some increase in the prices of certain commodities and we fear that unless the newly formed fair price board takes the offensive there is the danger of much higher prices to come," Mr. Brown asserted. "As health officers we are very much concerned with a situation which may mean that the city, especially the poorer families, is not getting all the necessities of life."

During the emergency the condition of the food market will be analyzed daily by the Health Department. This analysis will be broadcast over the municipal radio station and other radio stations will have the opportunity to do likewise. The newspapers of the city were asked to cooperate by the Health Commissioner by displaying news of market conditions.

Health officials said the blame for price lifting did not rest on the shoulders of wholesale dealers and that in many cases retailers were "eager to use any excuse to raise prices."

Pointing out the difficulty of drawing up any schedule of fair retail prices because of the different conditions confronting retail dealers in various localities, Mr. Brown said that one of the best guides of fair prices was the chain store.

"We are not urging any one to purchase in chain stores in preference to shopping elsewhere," Mr. Brown explained. "But chain stores make purchases in large quantities and operate on a small margin. We believe that housewives will do well to keep an eye on the chain store prices as a check on independent merchants."

The first step in the new board's campaign for fair prices for food will be taken tomorrow, when the first analysis of market conditions will be released through the radio and the press.

Mr. Brown quoted the following list of wholesale prices in New York markets yesterday morning:

Beans—$1.50 to $3.50 a bushel.
Beets—2 to 3 cents a bunch.
Cabbage—$2.50 to $3 a barrel.
Potatoes—$2.75 to $3 for 150-pound sacks.
Tomatoes—35 cents to $1 for 20-quart crates.

Finds No Price Competition.

In his milk price inquiry District Attorney Brower examined yesterday Benjamin S. Halsey, vice president of the Sheffield Farms Company; Harry A. Cronk, president of the Borden Farm Products Company; Frederick A. Sexauer, president of the Dairymen's League, and George R. Pitts, executive assistant of the Dairymen's League.

Later he said that his investigation had disclosed a lively competition in the sale of milk but no competition in the matter of price. He declared he had learned that an advisory committee, comprising milk distributers, had voted on Aug. 6 against an increase in the price of milk. Present at that meeting, he said, were Mr. Halsey, Mr. Cronk, a Mr. McKay of the Waddington Condensed Milk Company; a Mr. Lombard of the Hoving Milk Company; a Mr. Jansen, president of the Jansen Dairy Company, and John Collins, representing independent milk dealers.

Although these distributers did not wish to raise the price of milk, Mr. Brower explained, the Dairymen's League, made up of the producers of milk, already had voted an increase in the cost to the distributers, and the latter established a corresponding increase in the price to the consumer.

The District Attorney revealed that his office had engaged the services of an expert to make a survey of the production of milk in the State. He refused to disclose the expert's name and would not tell how the survey was expected to aid in his investigation.

PROSECUTOR TO GET MARKET GRAFT CASE

NEW INQUIRY IS SPEEDED

Walker Will Get Report Tomorrow on Employe of Department Not Under Fire Hitherto.

After taking testimony yesterday from H. J. Reiter, the Queens butcher who accused John R. Shea, supervisor in the Department of Public Markets, of attempted extortion a month ago, James A. Higgins, Commissioner of Accounts, declared he would turn over the testimony today to District Attorney James T. Hallinan of Queens as a possible basis for criminal action against Shea.

Shea was arrested on July 17 by Detectives Max Schain and William J. Burns of the Queens Detective Division after Reiter had given him $50 in marked money allegedly as a bribe to let him sell non-kosher meat for kosher. Reiter withdrew his charge of attempted extortion on July 25, saying later that he had been influenced by two Queens politicians. Shea was dismissed and the charge against him dropped. Mr. Higgins said that if District Attorney Hallinan found no basis in the Reiter testimony for a renewal of the charge he would take the testimony to Commissioner Thomas F. Dwyer of the Markets Department for action there. Mr. Dwyer has already announced his intention of questioning Shea.

Commissioner Higgins began the investigation of a complaint sent to him by Mayor Walker, involving an employe of a department not under investigation before. Mr. Higgins said these charges did not concern any department head or any high official, but would not reveal what the charges were. He also declined to disclose which city department was named in the complaint. By tomorrow, he said, he would report to the Mayor on the complaint, leaving it to him to decide whether the facts warrant an inquiry into the entire department concerned. Mayor Walker has said that he might order Commissioner Higgins to make such an investigation, depending on the report he receives.

Nathaniel Greenbaum of 66 Court Street, Brooklyn, attorney for Oscar Glassberg, Brooklyn butcher, wrote to Mr. Higgins asking him to obtain immunity for twenty-five Brooklyn and Queens butchers who wish to testify on irregularities in the Markets Department.

Mr. Higgins said he would try to obtain immunity for these men. He has no power to grant immunity to a witness testifying before him. It was considered likely that if the District Attorneys believed there was sufficient evidence of graft in the butchers' charges for them to ask immunity, they would be brought before the various county grand juries. Each butcher would have to appear before the District Attorney of his county and outline the nature of his testimony before immunity could be given.

Mr. Dwyer announced that 170 of the 200 pushcart peddlers and street vendors summoned to his office on Tuesday had been punished for minor violations of sanitary regulations. In most cases the penalty was the suspension of a dealer's license for one day. Thirty peddlers received suspended sentences. The number of peddlers to whom summonses were issued was about twice as large as usual.

Mr. Dwyer said he had a proposed city ordinance in preparation which would give the Department of Public Markets power to license kosher food dealers at a fee of $10 a year. The sale of kosher food is now regulated by the State penal law. The Markets Department is without power to supervise kosher shops and cannot inspect them unless a specific complaint is filed. There are about 9,000 kosher food dealers in the city, Mr. Dwyer declared, and the Markets Department is anxious to have closer supervision over them.

SEEK SUGAR ECONOMIES.

International Experts at Havana Discuss Refining at Source.

HAVANA, Aug. 13 (AP).—Solution of the world crisis in sugar by economies in refining at the point of production rather than at remote places is the object of a series of conferences now being held in Havana by a group of international sugar experts representing Australia, the Dominican Republic, Cuba and the United States.

The chief conferees are H. C. Armstrong of Sydney, Australia, identified with the British Empire Research Association; Charles C. Krumbhaar, owner of the Houma Sugar Company of Louisiana; J. J. Naugle, president of the International Sugar Corporation; George T. Walker, president of the Matanzas Sugar Company, and Thomas H. Howell Jr., representing Dominican sugar interests.

Use of a vegetable refining substance to open sugar markets in the great Moslem centres, where sugar refining through the use of bonechar is taboo because of a religious restriction, is one of the main subjects under discussion.

5,000 SEE FIRE RUIN YORK AV. COAL YARD

Blaze in Ruppert Shed Damages Three Buildings, Routing 20 —Loss Put at $50,000.

A two-alarm fire, starting shortly before 10 o'clock yesterday morning in a waterfront coal yard owned by the Jacob Ruppert Brewery at York Avenue and Ninety-third Street, burned out the 500 tons of coal stored there, destroyed the one-story wooden shed containing it and drove twenty persons and two dogs from three adjoining buildings. One of these buildings was badly damaged and the two others slightly damaged. The loss was unofficially estimated at between $50,000 and $75,000.

Nearly 5,000 persons witnessed the blaze, which threatened the large Ninety-second Street garage at 433-437 East Ninety-second Street and tied up traffic in York Avenue for two hours.

The other buildings affected were a two-story metal works and tenement building at 439 East Ninety-second Street, which suffered severe damage from flames and water, a four-story tenement containing a ground floor restaurant on the northwest corner of Ninety-second Street and York Avenue, an abandoned German-American hall at 441 East Ninety-second Street and a steam pumping station belonging to the brewery in East Ninety-third Street behind the yard.

CRAIN HOLDS EWALD KNEW OF HEALY LOAN

be asked today to give the reasons for this advice in the face of subsequent assertions that the transaction in which Tommaney had a part was a bona fide loan.

Joint Bank Account Stressed.

Mr. Crain's announcement of the discovery of the joint account maintained by the Ewalds in the Washington Heights bank came while Mrs. Ewald was waiting to enter the grand jury room.

"The $5,000 check, part of the $10,000 received by Mr. Healy, was drawn against an account in the Washington Heights Bank," said Mr. Crain, who throughout the day took personal charge of the proceedings before the grand jury. "I have learned today that the account was joint in the names of both Ewald and his wife. Therefore, at the end of the month of April, when Ewald was appointed, he must have received one of the regular reports from the bank in which the $5,000 withdrawal would be noted. This indicates that Ewald must have known about the payment to Healy."

Ewald insisted that he knew nothing about any checks his wife might have drawn because he never took the trouble to look at any letters from the bank.

"I turned them over to her unopened," he said. "She was a poor business woman. I remember in 1924 she lent $7,500 to a film exchange company in Seventh Avenue, and it was six months before I heard about that. She couldn't collect the money, so she told me. I finally collected it, and I called her down for doing business that way. I want to tell the grand jury about that to show that I didn't keep in close touch with our financial affairs."

Ewald Assails Boczor.

Both Ewald and Dr. Schirp, who accompanied him to the Criminal Courts Building in response to a subpoena, assailed Boczor as a "skunk," "crazy" and an "unqualified liar." Dr. Schirp denied he had received $2,000 for "putting Ewald on the bench."

The former magistrate said that he first met Boczor, to whom he referred as "Bozo," when he was a deputy Assistant District Attorney assigned to the Washington Heights Court.

"'Bozo' came to me and said he had been swindled," Ewald said. "He said he paid a man $800 for a racehorse named '660' and the horse hadn't been delivered. I got his money back for him and he threw his arms around my neck and kissed me—he was so happy. After that he was always hanging around the court, asking if he couldn't do something for me, so I used to send him on errands. He'd go out and get me a pack of cigarettes and things like that. When I became a judge I gave him a job as messenger for $25 a week. Later I got him a $75 a week job with the Cotter Butte Mines, but they fired him. Early this year he tried to get me to be lenient with some people who were before me in a case. The investigation into the magistrates' courts was going on then and I didn't want to get mixed up in any trouble. I didn't do what he wanted and that made him sore. He swore he'd get me. I wish the grand jury would have a couple of alienists look him over."

"Oh, that man is crazy; I never got a cent from Ewald, did I?" interjected Dr. Schirp, turning to Ewald.

"Positively, no," said Ewald.

"Boczor hated me and he had said 'I'll get that Dr. Schirp yet,'" Dr. Schirp added.

At this point Ewald declared that Boczor had told him of serving in the Australian Navy during the war and being trapped in a submarine.

"I thought I'd go crazy," Ewald quoted Boczor as saying while recounting this experience.

"He is an unqualified liar. I avoided him. He was a nuisance," said Dr. Schirp, taking up Ewald's comment.

Boczor Waits to Testify.

While being attacked thus Boczor was sitting in an ante chamber of the grand jury room waiting in vain to be summoned to testify. He smoked innumerable cigarettes and at the end of the day was ordered to appear again this morning.

Ewald appeared nervous as he awaited word of whether or not he would be permitted to go before the grand jury. He left when informed that he would receive a reply today.

Mayor Walker arrived at the Criminal Court Building shortly after 11 A. M. He remained in the grand jury room twenty-two minutes. Before leaving for City Hall he said he had told the grand jury exactly what he had told Mr. Crain on Tuesday. He said also that he offered to read into the record the letter he had received from Mr. Ridder, dated April 19, 1927, urging Ewald's appointment, but that the grand jury did not think this necessary. Upon his arrival at City Hall he made the letter public.

Walker Reveals Ridder Letter.

The letter backed Ewald in the name of Mr. Ridder himself and that of the Steuben Society. The letter mentioned as another possible candidate for the post Charles Brandt Jr. of the Bronx, who could not be appointed because the vacancy in question was in Manhattan, a fact not known to Mr. Ridder at the time he wrote the letter.

"Both these men are of good standing with our people," Mr. Ridder wrote, "and have the endorsement of the Steuben Society as well as of the Democratic local organizations. * * * Both are lawyers of good standing, Mr. Ewald having been in the Corporation Counsel's office for some time and for the last two years Deputy Assistant District Attorney. I am sure that either of these men would be entirely satisfactory not only to the German-Americans of the city of New York, but also that their appointment would meet with the approval of the lawyers of this city. Both men have been sufficiently active in German-American affairs so that their appointment would be regarded as a recognition of the German-American element in New York City.

"I have carefully gone over the list and I am submitting these two names to you, because, as you know, I do not want to be in a position of backing any one candidate. I am trying to meet your request to submit names to you in the spirit in which you were kind enough to make this suggestion, and am confident that the appointment of either of the men will reflect credit on you as well as on the element from which these two men come."

In pleading Ewald's case, Mr. Ridder quoted the opinion which, he said, former District Attorney Banton, then in office, had of the candidate.

The interval between Mayor Walker's departure and the appearance of the next witness, Eckert, before the grand jury was devoted by the latter to hearing a representative of the County Clerk's office, who gave official proof of the positions held by Ewald and Healy. This witness was followed by representatives of the Washington Heights Bank, the Bank of America, the Corn Exchange Bank and the Commercial Savings Bank. They identified records of accounts held by the Ewalds.

The account in the Washington Heights Bank was considered of particular importance by Mr. Crain, this being the account which, according to Mr. Crain yesterday, was held jointly by Mrs. Ewald and her husband.

Questioned on Joint Account.

Mr. Crain made public yesterday the following excerpt of his preliminary examination of Mrs. Ewald on this point:

Q.—Let me ask you this concerning that account in the Washington Heights Bank: Was that account in your own name or was it also in your husband's name? A.—I was the originator of that account.

Q.—In the year 1927, more particularly in the months of March, April and May of that year, did that bank have your signature and also your husband's signature? A.—It did have my husband's signature. I just don't know what date. I believe it was in 1927, after he was appointed, but I can't say for sure.

Q.—Before your husband was appointed a city magistrate did that bank have your husband's signature? A.—I couldn't be positive.

Q.—What I want to get at is this: Whether that bank, before your husband was appointed a city magistrate, would have cashed a check drawn upon it, drawn upon the account we are talking about, that was signed by your husband and your husband alone was the drawer of the check. Suppose your husband had drawn a check, we will say to bearer, and had signed that check, the check being drawn on the account in the Washington Heights bank that you and I have been speaking about, and that check had been taken, we will say, by him to that bank and handed to the paying teller, was your husband's signature the signature which the bank would have honored in the payment of the money? A.—I don't know up to that time. What month do you mean?

Q.—Well I will say he was sworn in on April 30. Suppose I say the month of March, 1927. A.—I don't know. I would have to find that out.

Q.—You don't know? A.—No. I don't think he was on that account until after he was a magistrate.

According to Mr. Crain the account was actually changed from Bertha Ewald to "Mrs. Bertha E. or George F. Ewald" on Feb. 6, 1927, more than two months before Mrs. Ewald drew the certified $5,000 check.

Eckert followed the bank representatives before the grand jury, remaining in the grand jury room about twenty minutes. He was the last witness of the morning session. Reconvening shortly before 2 P. M., the grand jury heard Mrs. Ewald for nearly an hour. She emerged smiling, but declined to talk. "Mrs. Ewald has nothing to say," said her attorney.

Tommaney Sticks to Story.

The next witness was Tommaney. He left the grand jury room outwardly composed, and in reply to a question declared he had repeated to the grand jury the story he had told Mr. Crain. Healy's examination lasted forty minutes. It was believed that both he and Mrs. Ewald stuck to their original testimony.

Upon adjournment of the afternoon session Mr. Crain said he expected to conclude presentation of evidence at 1 o'clock this afternoon, after which the grand jury is to submit a report to Judge Allen, who was Healy's predecessor as Tammany leader of the Nineteenth Assembly District.

While the grand jury was in session yesterday, word came from the Federal Building that Judge John E. Martineau had set next Wednesday for the trial of Ewald and others on the charge of conspiracy and use of the mails to defraud, arising from Mr. Tuttle's investigation of the affairs of the Cotter Butte Mines, Inc., in which Ewald was a director.

The other defendants with Ewald are his brother, Dr. Louis A. Ewald, vice president of the corporation; Harry C. Cotter, president; Frank E. Mitterlechner, secretary-treasurer; Dr. Schirp; Frank M. Binns, mine manager, and the Cotter Butte Mines, Inc.

INDIA NATIONALISTS WEIGH PEACE PLEAS

FRONTIER SITUATION EASIER

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BOMBAY, Aug. 13.—The long-expected peace negotiations began today in Yeravda jail at Poona when Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and Mr. Jayakar talked with Mahatma Ghandi and the Pandits Motilal and Jawarharlal Nehru. Among others present were Vallabhai Patel and Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, although it appears that Mrs. Naidu was called in only for a short time to give her opinion on some definite point.

After a prolonged meeting the negotiators adjourned until tomorrow afternoon. They gave out no statement.

Sind Riot Toll Put at 14.

The casualties in the Sind communal disorders admitted into the civil hospital at Sukkur up to Tuesday totaled fourteen killed, of whom thirteen were Hindus and one was a Moslem, and 110 wounded, of whom 71 are Hindus and 33 are Moslems.

The latest official report shows the situation in Sukkur to be quiet. On Saturday, however, lawlessness was reported as worse in the district, and contingents of troops were sent there. On Sunday, the situation improved in the villages on the right bank of the Indus, but reports of looting, dacoity and murder in broad daylight wer received from several villages in Rohri, Ghotki and other revenue areas. Kidnapping of women and children was reported, and a number of houses were burned after they had been looted.

Extensive Military Move Seen.

LONDON, Aug. 13 (AP).—A Lahore dispatch to The Daily Herald today said that there was every indication of operations on a big scale being put under way against the Afridi tribesmen who have been engaged in an attack upon Peshawar, northwest frontier province.

Large contingents of infantry, cavalry and armored cars entrained Wednesday for the north, presumably to stop spread of the unrest to other tribes. Several more airplanes also have left Lahore for the airdrome at Risalpur, which is headquarters of the North West Frontier Air Force.

More Tribes Join Uprising.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SIMLA, Aug. 13.—Official reports received at the headquarters of the government here today from all parts of the Northwest Frontier region disturbed by the Afridi outburst show that, although there is improvement in some districts and no grave development anywhere, the situation has by no means settled down yet.

The tendency of the tribal raiding parties in Peshawar plain to retire homeward appears to be continuing. Trains again are running between Nowshera and Peshawar. It is officially estimated that not more than 1,200 Afridi Khilafatists, as they are called, remain in the whole plain.

Authorities here are considering whether to shell some of the villages near by, in view of the shelter and food which their inhabitants are providing for the invaders. It appears, however, that the villagers now are reducing their active resistance to the marauders and that the inclination to offer aid doubtless will wane as the hopelessness of securing advantage by helping the tribesmen becomes increasingly apparent.

Sympathy with the hostile movement is reported strong in Peshawar City. A tea seller there was shot while scaling the city wall while acting as a guide to a party of raiding Afridis. However, there is believed to be no serious danger in this direction.

The Afridis' appeal to the Mohmands for their cooperation has not yet produced any tangible development. Reports from the Malakand region also are favorable.

On the other hand, there is no sign that the Afridis as a whole have yet abandoned their general movement of active hostility. The Kuki Khel clan of the Baugal Valley apparently has not been able to resist the pressure of other sections of the Afridi tribe and recently sent 800 men down Bara Valley.

3,000 Now Hiding in Caves.

The tribal force in the caves where the valley enters Kajuri plain now is estimated to number about 3,000, including these new recruits. The Massozais, a subclan of Orakzais, who recently attacked Badama Post, southeast of Parachinar, and their neighbors, the Paras, are reported to have been heavily reinforced by Afridis. The Massozais and three Paras bands and their villages twice have been heavily bombed by airplanes, but how far this punishment will prove effective remains to be seen.

The widespread dissatisfaction among the Orakzais has had its repercussion among the Afghan tribes across the frontier. It is hoped the decisive failure of the Massozais and the Paras to achieve any substantial success and the restoration of quiet in Kurrum will prevent serious developments on the Afghan side of the border.

The Orakzais still are threatening to descend on Kohat. When the latest reports were dispatched the district was in a state of apprehension. Although the time and direction of the threatened invasion was not ascertained, the authorities are keeping 500 riflemen ready for distribution among the villages between Kohat and Shingawali, forty miles up the Miranzai Valley, through which the Orakzai descent most probably would come. Two hundred village levies are being enrolled for local defense.

Slight Quake Terrifies Italians.

POZZUOLI, Italy, Aug. 13 (AP).—A slight earthquake shock of undulatory nature was felt here at 1:35 A. M. today. Residents rushed into the streets and squares and remained there until dawn. There were no casualties and no damage. The shock seemed to have been of local origin in the region of the usually slumbering Solfatara volcano. The Institute of Terrestrial Physics in Naples reports that the tremor barely registered there and was hardly perceptible.

BUDAPEST PAPERS JOIN IN HUNT FOR PREMIER

Place Bethlen in London, Paris and Bucharest and on Estate and Mountain in Austria.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUDAPEST, Aug. 13.—The latest excitement in the newspapers might be summarized as, "Lost, our Premier; any one finding same please return to Budapest," for the whereabouts of Count Bethlen, who unexpectedly failed to attend the Congress of his party at Balaton on Monday, is still a mystery.

His secretary telegraphed the congress at the last moment that the Premier had been called away on "grave affairs of state." It is known that he left his estate at Inke yesterday, but for what purpose and destination none of his Cabinet colleague, not even Dr. Vass, Deputy Premier, declare they have any idea.

At first the newspapers placed Count Bethlen in London secretly negotiating a new loan and simultaneously persuading Lord Rothermere, Hungary's patron, to agree to the Archduke Otto's return to the Hungarian throne. It was then declared that he was in Paris making a Hapsburg adherent of Foreign Minister Briand, and next asserted that he had gone to Bucharest with Nicholas Titulescu to negotiate a Rumano-Hungarian economic bloc.

Today's newspaper Az Usjag reported "Europe's disappearing Premier," who in the past has caused excitement several times by disappearing in Northern Europe and reappearing in Italy, engaged in serious political negotiation in Mariazell, Austria, with Prince Hohenlohe, with whom it is said he was staying, but inquiries during the day revealed the Prince was ignorant of Count Bethlen's whereabouts.

Tonight's Vienna newspapers, as hot on the trail as their Hungarian colleagues, located the Premier 7,000 feet up in a simple shelter house on the Schneeberg, which they said he had reached by chartering a special funicular train.

The most probable story is that he is at Mariazell staying at the estate of the big Hungarian landowner, Sticka, for inquiries at the latter's chateau produced only the reply, "all the gentlemen here are out hunting and we are not authorized to make a statement." Budapest, however, is still Premierless and piqued by the mystery.

CLEARED IN STATUE CASE.

Smelter Who Worked on Faulty Kossuth Monument Freed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUDAPEST, Aug. 13.—The dismantling, because it was crumbling, of the Kossuth monument erected by Hungary in New York and unveiled on March 15, 1928, resulted in an action in court here today. A bronze smelter, Karl Ficek, who cast the statue from molds sculptured by Johannes Hervay, was acquitted on a charge in connectioin with its construction.

Ficek pleaded not guilty, declaring the sculptor had left him insufficient time and had refused to allow him to repair the cracks which appeared, saying it was impossible to keep the American people waiting for their statute of Kossuth. The sculptor confirmed the defendant's statement.

The efforts made late last night to persuade them to go home failed and the men are persisting in their tactics.

QUOTA ISSUE STIRS INTEREST IN JAPAN

JOHNSON'S PLAN DISCUSSED

It Is Held His Amendment Would Be Empty Gesture Unless It Established Equality.

By WILFRID FLEISHER.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKYO, Aug. 13.—The reminder to the United States that Japan regards with dismay the Japanese exclusion provision in the American immigration act, which was made by William R. Castle Jr., Assistant Secretary of State, in an interview appearing in THE NEW YORK TIMES, has been received with satisfaction here. It had been hoped here that Mr. Castle would take occasion to call the attention of the American people to what is considered to be the only important pending problem in the relations between the two countries.

The immigration question, which has never officially been considered as closed here, has been a live topic in the press since Representative Albert Johnson announced his intention of introducing an amendment to the immigration bill to place Japan on a quota basis, following former Ambassador Haniharas's appeal. It has never been quite clear here whether Mr. Johnson intends to move for the placing of Japan on a quota basis in equality with the European nations or whether he plans at the same time to maintain an exclusion provision.

Needless to say, Japan would welcome being placed on a footing of equality with the European nations, a step which, it is felt here, would remove any discrimination against Japan, but prominent Japanese are agreed that if the exclusion provision should be maintained the amendment would only amount to an empty gesture, which would do more harm than good.

Mr. Hanihara, who was responsible for reopening the issue in his speech delivered at the farewell dinner given by the America-Japan Society in honor of Mr. Castle on his relinquishing the post as special Ambassador to Tokyo, is now slowly recovering from a stroke which parlyzed his left side. The physicians hope he may eventually recover, but they do not believe he will ever regain the mental and physical alertness which previously characterized him.

The former envoy to Washington has been in poor health for some time, and a serious operation was performed on him last Winter. He made a special effort to attend the America-Japan Society's dinner, and immediately afterward he left for Ugehara, a hot-spring resort, from which he returned to Tokyo last month, when he was stricken.

The speech made by Mr. Hanihara was the only public occasion on which he has dealt with the subject which has been uppermost in his mind since his return from Washington. His note to Secretary of State Hughes, which led the Senate to hasten the passage of the Japanese exclusion measure, spelled the doom of his diplomatic career. Upon his return here he was placed on the waiting list of the Foreign Office without assignment. He resigned from the service two years ago.

Chairman Johnson of the House Immigration and Naturalization Committee announced his intention on May 23 of proposing an amendment to remove Japanese subjects from the exclusion clauses of the immigration act of 1924.

He said his amendment would give to Japan its proportionate quota, but that the admissions would be restricted to those eligible for naturalization under other provisions of the act, which would result in the continuance of the exclusion of those of Japanese blood who are not eligible for citizenship.

LEAGUE PUSHES PLANS FOR WORLD AIR CODE

Lindbergh's Endorsement Gives Impetus to International Cooperation Program.

GENEVA, Aug. 13 (AP).—The movement for the international coordination of commercial aviation regulations, fostered by the League of Nations, has shown new impetus as a result of the endorsement sent by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

The American airman pointed out that under the existing systems of regulation, conflict of rules results in serious loss of time and money for fliers who cross international frontiers, thus nullifying much of the advantage of aerial transportation.

Colonel Lindbergh suggested as objects for international agreement a uniform system of markings and signals and the establishment of a comprehensive meteorological and radio reporting system.

Plans for international cooperation in the air are being pushed by the League's committee on transit and communication. In cabling his comments and suggestions to this committee Colonel Lindbergh remarked upon the practical character of the problem.

"Every problem in transportation," said the famous aviator, "has stimulated commerce and brought people into closer contact with each other. One after another the fears and prejudices of isolation have been overcome as methods of communication and transport improved.

"Aviation with its great speed and freedom of movement is too powerful an instrument of progress to be long confined by the remaining artificial restrictions left over from an age of provincialism."

NEW TURK PARTY SETS AIMS

Pledges Itself to Stabilize the Currency if Returned to Power.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ISTANBUL, Aug. 13.—The program of the new Liberal Republican party, issued today, contains eleven articles, one of the most important of which is a pledge to stabilize Turkish currency if the party is returned to power, thus allowing foreign capital to enter the country.

The party, according to the program, will be Republican, Nationalist and lay. It promises to suppress the Istanbul port monopoly, reduce railway tariffs and port duties, wage a vigorous campaign against corruption and take steps to speed up the administration of justice.

It will also support an alteration in the law, whereby a direct system of voting will replace the present indirect system under which Deputies are elected to the Grand National Assembly. The extension of women's suffrage will be favored.

In foreign affairs the party promises to maintain good relations with Turkey's neighbors and friends and collaborate more closely with the League of Nations.

RATCHEVSKY BEGINS TOUR.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PRAGUE, Aug. 13.—United States Minister Ratchevsky started yesterday on his "good-will industrial tour" of Moravia and Slovakia accompanied by Consul General Frost and a Czechoslovak Foreign Office official.

At first halt in Brno (Brünn) Mr. Ratchevsky was welcomed by the president of the chamber of commerce who said Brno, the second city of the republic, had met difficulties in trade with the United States. A dinner was given at the Hotel Slavia in honor of the American Minister.

FILM BANS REVEAL CONTRAST IN AUSTRIA

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Aug. 13.—The vagaries of the film censorship in Austria today revealed that what is meat for the capital is poison for the provinces and vice versa.

The film censorship authorities of the ultra-clerical province of Vorarlberg today decided to "draw a veil" over a section of the Viennese talkie "Nur Dich Hab Ich Geliebt" ("it is only you I have loved") which has been running in Vienna for months without objection.

As cutting the cabaret dance scenes to which objection was taken on account of the scanty clothing of the dancers would have upset the synchronization of the music, the Vorarlberg officials decided to have a black strip fitted across the lens for the dance scene. Now, as the tango strikes up, the audience sees a black veil drawn across the dancers from the neck downward, with only the heads of the dancers appearing on the screen. The critics say the effect is more suggestive than before.

The Monarchist film prepared in connection with the centenary of the Emperor Francis Joseph this month, which is entitled "The Emperor Francis Joseph as Ruler and Man," was banned today for the juveniles of Vienna by the local censorship, which is Socialist in color, though it has been showing in the provinces for some weeks.

"The film is one-sided, presenting only the most favorable traits of the Emperor and giving an entirely false picture of life under the monarchy. It is thus calculated to mislead the youth of the country," reads the censors' finding. The cinema theatre owners are forbidden to admit persons under the age of 16 during the run of the film.

GERMANS ALTER TONE AT BEHEST OF BRIAND

THREAT OF ARMS IS DENIED

Treviranus in Second Talk Says He in Nowise Meant Change in Polish Frontier by War.

LEFT IN FRANCE PLEASED

By CARLISLE MacDONALD.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—Great credit is being given to Foreign Minister Aristide Briand in Paris today for the conciliatory but effective manner in which he has handled the recent irritation in Franco-German relations occasioned by the speeches of Dr. Gottfried Treviranus, German Minister for Occupied Areas, and Dr. Joseph Wirth, Minister of the Interior, both of whom insisted upon the revision of certain clauses of the peace treaties.

A storm of resentment had accompanied publication of the speeches in the Paris press and in official quarters amazement was expressed over the provocative character of the German remarks.

Early on Monday M. Briand sent for the German Ambassador, Dr. von Hoesch, and explained to him that such utterances did not help the much-discussed Franco-German rapprochement. His advice seems to have been taken in good grace, for tonight the Parisian press prints with satisfaction extracts from a new speech by Dr. Treviranus, in which he states that when he spoke of treaty revision he was speaking speculatively and in no wise did he mean that Germany's Eastern frontier should be revised by warlike means.

Briand's Friends Elated.

Dr. Treviranus repeated his observations about the possibility of revision, and referred to the period when the Treaty of Versailles was signed and to the statement of Allied leaders then that the treaty was not only to serve as a just liquidation of the war but also as a means of establishing a basis of equality upon which all the former warring powers could live.

The tenor of his remarks in the second speech, however, was such as not to offend the touchiest French nationalist, and M. Briand's friends are pointing to the incident as another example of the veteran statesman's ability to guide Europe in the ways of peace.

Certain nationalist organs have used the occasion to point out once more that the evacuation of the Rhineland was a mistake, since it only stimulated those German forces which are intent upon pressing for further concessions. Germany, these critics maintain, wants the Saar freed completely from French control, the territories of Eupen, Malmedy and Upper Silesia returned to the Reich and the Polish Corridor suppressed. The recent speeches, they add, are but the beginning of a campaign along these lines.

The Left press, which is hailing M. Briand's peaceful tactics, charges that the real reason behind the resentment of the German speeches is the fear of powerful French industrial interests that the French will be induced to give up control of the coal mines in the Saar. Negotiations for the final settlement of this province's fate, it will be recalled, were practically suspended following the failure of the Germans to suggest a form of solution satisfactory to the French position.

In all the French proposals a measure of control would be retained in the Saar mines for an indefinite period, while in the German counter-projects French influence would cease and be replaced by a German agreement to supply the coal which France must have for her steel industry.

Polish Press Aroused.

WARSAW, Aug. 13 (AP).—The Polish Telegraph Agency says the press of Poland has reacted strongly against the address last Sunday by Dr. Treviranus on the subject of Germany's eastern frontiers. The semi-official newspaper Gazeta Polska declares in an editorial today that the German Government is "absolutely responsible" for the Cabinet member's words.

Dr. Treviranus said that Germans were "grieved from the bottom of their hearts for the cut-up Vistula regions" and that "Germany's eastern boundary was an unjust frontier under foreign sovereignty." He also was quoted:

"You will remember the hybrid condition to which the German Danzig has been reduced. Our eyes see with joy the regions that have been restored to us, but with grief the German land which today is lost to us but which will one day be recaptured."

The address was delivered on the eleventh republican anniversary.

The Gazeta Polska adds that Europe must be told whether the Bruening Cabinet aligns itself behind one of its members. It declares Poland's German policies are thoroughly pacific, aiming at economic collaboration, which it says Germany is working against, and concludes that "Poland is set and ready to defend her frontiers to the last drop of blood."

The Cracow Daily Courier declares that Poland is perfectly aware of the dangers threatening her and "closes her ranks and forgets all political differences to protect the country."

Stating that Europe is alarmed by German events, the Courier quotes the Paris Temps, which declares that "only Dr. Treviranu's dismissal may prove to be satisfactory."

The Warsaw Morning Courier emphasizes that Chancellor Bruening's party did not protest against Dr. Treviranus's utterances and that Poland must demand satisfaction and obtain a guarantee that responsible German officials will abandon their annexation propaganda and the threatening of Poland and European peace.

BIG LABOR TURNOVER ALARMS THE SOVIET

Output in Several Industries Lagging and Large Projects Are Behind Schedule.

RUSSIANS ROAM FROM JOBS

Labor Federation Acts to Curb the Practice—3,000 Absent From Ural Mine in Five Days.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Aug. 13.—Growing alarm recently expressed in the Soviet press on account of the unparalleled labor turnover, which has sometimes reached 200 per cent annually, led the central committee of the Labor Federation to issue a strong circular on the subject today. It is none too soon, for the facts, freely published in labor and economic newspapers, are ominous enough.

Production in the coal, heavy metal, cement and building industries and the transportation program are far behind and have been dropping steadily in recent weeks. A Ural coal mine reported 3,000 cases of "improper absences from work, mostly owing to drunkenness" in the first five days of August. The total force at the mine is 5,000.

In regard to the cement industry, transportation and the construction of factories, complaints have been made that the number of workers is from 20 to 50 per cent below the total required or promised, and that the difficulties have been increased by the fact that the men come and stay a few weeks and then go elsewhere. At the huge Dnieper hydro-electric project it was suddenly found that 3,000 or 4,000 unskilled laborers had moved off during the night.

The majority of Russian workers, especially unskilled laborers, are still half peasants, drifting from the village after the Fall sowing, then back for the Spring sowing, then away during the Summer and back for the harvest. The excellent crop and the high wages paid by the State and collective farms this year have intensified such movements.

Then there are the varying rates of wages paid in different regions for the same work, and there is a still greater variation in food commodities and quarters offered to workers. Other reasons for the labor turnover are the comparatively high wages and the lack of goods to be bought with them, often excepting vodka, sold legally or bootlegged. Finally, there is the Russian character, which hates to "stay put." The extent to which personnel, plans and even actual promises are changed in Russian offices is fantastic and bewildering to foreigners.

To remedy this the Labor Federation committee proposes, first, to unify wages as far as possible; secondly, to offer premiums for long service; thirdly, to improve living and commodity conditions (the State has assigned an extra 50,000,000 rubles [about $25,000,000] for this purpose during the next fiscal year); fourthly, to improve the organization of labor exchanges and the conditions of "temporary" work, and, finally, to develop "Socialist competition" to fight the undue labor turnover.

It remains to be seen whether these remedies will prove adequate or whether it will be necessary to resort to severer labor discipline, the restriction of vodka and similar measures advocated by a number of factory correspondents and other contributors to labor and economic newspapers.

NO TENSION, TURKS INSIST.

News Agency Denies Friction With Persia Over Kurd Invasion.

ANGORA, Turkey, Aug. 13 (AP).—The Anatolie Agency today says reports of tension between the Turkish and Persian Governments are without foundation. The agency declares the relations between the two governments are friendly.

Friction between the Turks and Persians over incursions by Kurdish tribesmen into the Ararat region, crossing Persian territory to reach Turkey, had been rumored.

PROF. HENRY R. SEAGER GRAVELY ILL IN RUSSIA

Columbia Professor of Political Economy Has Pneumonia and Is in Hospital at Kiev.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Aug. 13. — Professor Seager of Columbia University, who came to Moscow a month ago with a party of American economists, is gravely ill with bronchial pneumonia in a hospital at Kiev.

Dr. Henry Rogers Seager, professor of political economy at Columbia, left this country last May with twenty-five other economists to tour Europe and make a study of the Soviet Government's five-year industrialization plan. Upon his arrival in Europe he spent some time in France and Germany, and the last report received by his assistant at Columbia, Miss Rittenhouse, said that he was leaving Berlin for Russia on July 7. With him and in charge of the party was David Ostrinsky, one of his former pupils.

The group was to have returned to America the latter part of next month. The other members are professors of political economy at various universities throughout the country.

Professor Seager, who is recognized as one of the foremost economists in America, decided to make a study of the economic development of Russia only a short time before he sailed. The trip was made at the suggestion of Mr. Ostrinsky, who believed first-hand observations of the operation of the five-year plan would be advantageous in the study of economics.

REDS SEE TWO SIDES IN ATTACK ON NEGRO

THEIR EXPULSION IS URGED

Textile Workers Plan "Demonstration Trial" of One American on Charge of Approving Assault.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Aug. 13.—Labor newspapers continue their agitation about the case of the American Negro worker, Robert Robinson, who was thrown out of a mess hall at the Stalingrad tractor plant by a white American named Hewis and other Americans from Southern States.

There have been loud demands for the expulsion of these Americans from Russia or trial of them by a Stalingrad court, but the Workers Gazette today states the Stalingrad District Attorney has "not finished with the affair, which rests at a deadlock." Other papers declare that some American workmen approved the action of Hewis, and this, combined with the apparent reluctance of the Stalingrad authorities to take action, may indicate that all the facts are hot yet known here.

During the last nine years your correspondent has met many white and Negro radicals and Communists and non-political workers who voluntarily came here from America or elsewhere, and he is prepared to go on record that the vast majority are not only sincere but are able to talk politely and intelligently with a "bourgeois correspondent." There are, however, exceptions, not confined to any race or color, who seem to think that residence in the "Socialist Fatherland" entitles them to be arrogant and uncivil.

The Workers Gazette announces that textile workers will hold a "demonstration trial" next Friday of a worker, who returned to Russia a few years ago after many years' residence in America, on a charge of approving the action against Robinson. The newspaper says the metal workers' union proposes to take similar steps in regard to Hewis and his associates in Stalingrad.

TROTSKY MEETING DENIED.

Prague Says No Passport Has Been Issued for Franzensbad Parley.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PRAGUE, Aug. 13.—It is denied here that Leon Trotsky has passed through Bratislava en route to Franzensbad for a secret conference with Georges Tchitcherin, former Soviet Commissar of Foreign Affairs, and A. V. Lunacharski, former Commissar of Education, to discuss M. Trotsky's return to Russia. The Czechoslovak Foreign Office denies that a visa has been given to M. Trotsky or that he has ever crossed the frontier.

Twelve months ago the Trotsky faction of the Czech Communist party demanded that he be allowed to visit Franzensbad, but the Czechoslavak Government refused permission. This prohibition still holds, it is stated.

From a diplomat recently stationed in Moscow it is learned that M. Tchitcherin, whom the diplomat saw a few weeks ago, is too ill to travel any distance by train. The Czechoslovak Foreign Office states that no visa has been granted to M. Tchitcherin and that he has not been in Franzensbad.

The only foundation for the whole story is believed to be that M. Lunacharski is spending some weeks with his wife in Franzensbad, taking the cure. The Czechoslovak authorities granted to him a permit for the Franzensbad visit, M. Lunacharski registering under an assumed name only to avoid publicity. He received a further permit to spend three days in Prague, where he arrived yesterday. He will leave tomorrow for Moscow. M. Lunacharski's visit, it is stated, has no political significance.

SUPPLIES SCARCE IN RUSSIA

Lena Goldfields Official Asserts Soviet Interfered With Purchases.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—A gradual shrinkage of the open market for raw materials in Russia was described before the Arbitration Court today by Alexander Malozemoff, former managing director of Lena Goldfields, Ltd., which alleges a breach of its concession agreement with the Soviet Government.

M. Malozemoff asserted permission was refused to his company to attend "closed auctions" at which food and other necessary articles were sold to selected persons. He declared his company never was treated on an equal basis with State organizations and its neighbors always got supplies first.

He further alleged the company was forced to buy an inferior quality of dynamite which resulted in serious accidents. "The situation grew worse, and when I returned to Moscow in 1929, I hardly recognized things," he said. "It looked to me like an absolute cancellation of the company's rights. We could neither import nor buy anything."

STARVING RUSSIANS FLEE.

Refugees Entering Finland Report Food Becoming Harder to Obtain.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Aug. 13.—Russian refugees in increasing numbers are trying to reach Finnish territory at many points along the frontier from the Leningrad district up to the Arctic Ocean, owing to a serious food crisis in the north of Russia.

Today a young girl arrived in Finland after walking for days through deep forests, swimming a frontier river guarded by Russian patrols and escapeding unscathed.

The refugees state that the famine in Russia is increasing daily and that food is largely obtainable only secretly. In Leningrad sugar costs more than $2.25 a pound. Many farmers of German origin in Leningrad Province have applied to the Soviet Government for permission to emigrate.

Peru's Beauty Queen Going to Brazil

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 13.—Señorita Enriqueta Burgos Aviaeda, who has been elected the Peruvian "beauty queen," will embark on Saturday for Rio de Janiero to compete for the title of "Miss Universe."

Not Long Ago
Macy's sold
$2.79 Overnight Cases for 84¢

These cases cost Macy's $2.00 apiece. We sold them for 84¢ to maintain our price policy.

Naturally, we didn't advertise this item. We didn't want to sell any if we could help it. Not at a loss of $1.16 a case. But . . .

We are morally obliged to undersell, by at least 6%, all competitors who do not sell for cash only. That's our policy, and we live up to it.

You may well say, "Where do you make up these losses?" We answer—Though they look spectacular, they are but a drop in the bucket compared to our total volume of nearly $100,000,000 a year. We may lose a little money temporarily, but Macy's has the resources to sustain these relatively trifling losses, and still undersell on all other items by at least 6%.

In thirty-eight years Macy's yearly volume has grown from $5,655,000 in 1891 to $98,688,487 in 1929. And Macy's has never lost money on a year's business!

Macy's has never backed down on a price war

Fifteen years ago a competitor started to cut his prices on silk thread. Macy's went 6% below every time he cut his prices. In the end we were selling 5 spools for a penny. He was the first to cry, "Hold—enough!" Ridiculous? Of course it was, but it maintained a principle.

We have sold cigarettes for 74¢ a carton; shoe whitening, two bottles for 1¢; reduced Coolie coats from $7.94 to $2.01; sold $10 Smokadors for $2.24.

"Modern Library" editions that usually sold for 89¢ were cut to 18¢; skating sox that were a good value at $1.39 dropped to 11¢; collars that Macy's priced regularly at 23¢ went to 2¢ each!

A few months ago we competed on imported Wilton rugs. We sold them for $88.50, reduced from $129; silk shawls recently went from $14.74 to $4.96; radios were reduced approximately $30 a set.

Don't delude yourself that Macy's made money on these items. If you were a customer, you bought this merchandise at less than cost. But even at the regular Macy prices you save at least 6%. It may be as high as 30% but barring inevitable minor mistakes, it must be at least 6%!

11 AMERICANS NAMED FOR WORLD COURT

TEN FOR HUGHES VACANCY

Twelve Nations in Note Ask That Latin America Have Three Judges Instead of Two.

By CLARENCE K. STREIT.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 13.—A plea for three Latin-American judges on the World Court instead of two as at present is made in a letter to the League of Nations signed by representatives of twelve Latin-American States and released today with a list of fifty-five nominations for the bench received from the national nominating groups of forty-two States.

The list shows six Americans have been nominated for the full bench of the Court, which will be elected in September, as follows: Dean Roscoe Pound of the Harvard Law School by Australia, Great Britain and Siam; Frank B. Kellogg by Denmark; Elihu Root, by Nicaragua; Dr. James Brown Scott, by Cuba; George W. Wickersham, by France, and Dean John H. Wigmore of the Law School of Northwestern University, by the Dominican Republic.

Another list released shows fifteen nominations by twenty-five national groups to fill the vacancy at The Hague until the end of the year caused by the resignation of Charles Evans Hughes to become Chief Justice of the United States.

Ten of these are Americans, including five named for the full bench, Dr. Scott having been nominated by Bulgaria, China, Czechoslovakia, Estonia, Finland, Poland and Yugoslavia; Mr. Kellogg by Chile, Denmark, Norway and Uruguay; Dean Wigmore by Belgium, Bulgaria, Luxemburg and Portugal; Dean Pound by Australia, Germany and Great Britain; Mr. Wickersham by France, Sweden and Switzerland; Newton D. Baker by Siam; Roland Boyden by Austria; Professor Charles Cheney Hyde by the Netherlands; Professor Philip Jessup by Switzerland, and George Grafton Wilson by Norway.

The nominations by the United States and Canadian groups are among those which have not yet been received.

The Latin-American note points to the fact that almost a third of the League members are Latin Americans, and three seats in the Council are apportioned to them as reasons for having their representation on the Court increased. It adds:

"The maintenance of this proposition is particularly necessary in view of the probability of an increase in the near future in the number of American countries which are members of the League."

This statement arouses interest here, since the only Latin-American State which has recently taken a definite step toward entering the League is Costa Rica, whose Congress has approved re-entry. It is supposed the note considers Mexico, which recently sent an observer here, and Brazil, whose new President is reported friendly to the League, among the probable new members.

The note holds an increase in the Latin-American representation at The Hague would strengthen the bonds between the New World and the League and says:

"In view of the prestige and worldwide authority which the Court has acquired and the influence which its jurisprudence may exercise in the future on the evolution of international law, the Court both in itself and through the inclusion of American judges among its members constitutes a precious moral and legal tie between the League and the nations of the New World."

The note is signed on behalf of the governments of Peru, Colombia, Salvador, Guatemala, Bolivia, Nicaragua, Cuba, Panama, Haiti, Paraguay, Honduras and Chile.

IRELAND BARS 3 BOOKS.

30 Publications Now Forbidden Under New Censorship Rules.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, Aug. 13.—Three more books have been forbidden to Ireland under the new rigid Free State censorship restrictions, it was announced today. They are "Antic Hay" by Aldous Huxley, whose "Point Counter Point" also was blacklisted; "Red Heat" by Norman Lindsay and "Sex and Its Mysteries" by George Riley Scott. The reasons given are that the books offend public morals or advocate birth control.

Thirty publications are now barred by the Free State, twenty-one books and nine newspapers.

Government, would fall into the hands of Communist bands arose today with reports from the countryside that alleged Reds in peasant garb and armed with rifles had appeared in large numbers twenty miles away. Nanking is virtually defenseless because few soldiers are here.

This lack of adequate defense forces here has resulted in the uneasiness, as it is believed the city would be an easy prey for the Reds if they attacked. The presence of Communists was reported in several near-by towns.

Changsha Slayings Put at 1,500.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 13 (AP).—Estimates indicating that 1,500 persons were slaughtered during the sacking of Changsha and reports saying the Red attack was part of a well-coordinated revolutionary movement to oust foreigners, overthrow the government and establish a Soviet régime throughout China reached here today.

Investigators reported they were convinced after reading Communist newspapers found in Changsha that the Red movement in South Central China was a well-planned campaign, with apparently isolated Communist groups really working under a central command.

The Communist goal, as the investigators saw it, was the overthrow of all foreign influence, the destruction of the Nationalist Government, the downfall of the Chinese militarists, such as the Northern commanders now making war on the Nanking régime, and the establishment of Soviet rule throughout the country.

Improvement of the lot of the laboring classes and other tenets characteristic of the Soviet program, including establishment of proletarian governments throughout the world, were embraced in the alleged aims of the invaders.

It was widely reported that 1,000 women and girls of Changsha had joined the Reds' ranks, which prior to their arrival in the Hunan capital included many women.

Places Damaged in Changsha.

The Yale-in-China New Haven Hospital, one of the most complete in China, was looted. Money, drugs and instruments were carried off and the building damaged. The Medical School was partly looted, but residences and mission buildings were unharmed.

Mission properties suffered greatly. Reports said the Bible Institute of Los Angeles was looted; Hunan Faith Orphanage, with headquarters in Denver, partly looted; the Methodist Evangelical Mission of Cleveland, partly looted and damaged; the American Episcopal Mission of New York, looted and nearly demolished, its school looted and missionary residences looted and burned, and the North American Presbyterian Mission, looted, demolished and partly burned.

Both the Chinese Y. W. C. A., and Y. M. C. A. were unharmed, but two foreign Y. M. C. As. were thoroughly looted and damaged.

The Italian Catholic Mission Church residences were looted. The foundling home also was looted, and at least four foundlings were found dead.

Additional reports said the British China Inland Mission was looted, the Norwegian Mission pillaged and demolished, the Swedish Mission left unharmed, the British Wesleyan Mission partly looted and badly wrecked, and the American Seventh Day Adventists' Mission partly looted and wrecked.

Offices of the Texas Company were looted and the buildings damaged by Chinese gunboat fire, reports said. Oil stocks of the Standard Oil Company of New York were unharmed, but the offices were looted. The Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company offices were looted.

Hankow Armed for Action.

HANKOW, Aug. 13 (AP).—Hankow took on the appearance of a beleaguered city today as authorities tightened up their defenses against the threatened Communist attack.

Unverified but persistent reports said the Reds had re-entered Changsha, wealthy capital of Hunan Province.

Sandbag defenses were erected at all strategic points in the native section of this city and machine guns were mounted for action, giving rise to the belief that the authorities were anticipating a heavy Communist thrust.

Thousands of refugees from the surrounding countryside poured into Hankow. The evacuation from Wuchang and Hanyang, near-by cities, was especially heavy. Hankow was considered the safest of the three cities, because of the presence here of many foreign gunboats.

The round-up and execution of alleged Reds continued unabated. Many were put to death.

Foreigners here were not considered in great danger, because in case of disorders they could be easily evacuated by the foreign gunboats. Scores of commercial vessels also were available.

Mission at Nanning Destroyed.

HONGKONG, Aug. 13 (AP).—The French Catholic Mission at Nanning, capital of Kwangsi Province, was virtually destroyed yesterday by Cantonese military aviators who bombed the city seeking to oust the insurgents who held it. Delayed telegrams from French missionaries there told of the bombing.

Civil war, which has been going on in Kwangsi for many weeks, is centred in Nanning, where the rebels have been holding out against government forces.

The telegrams said that Tuesday morning, during an infantry attack on the city, which is walled, Cantonese bombers appeared and showered the city with high explosive, resulting in the French Cathedral and Mission buildings being destroyed along with a large number of other structures. Two priests and four Canadian Sisters in the Cathedral escaped injury.

The aerial raid resulted in heavy casualties among the Chinese. The messages said the rebels were preparing to evacuate Nanning and that the missionaries feared wholesale looting by them before they departed.

AVIATOR CONFESSES IN BOMBING OF MINE

But Montgomery Says He Was Forced to Pilot Plane in Providence (Ky.) Raid.

TWO OTHERS IMPLICATED

Instigators Are Being Hunted—Kentucky Makes Requisition on Illinois for Flier.

MURPHYSBORO, Ill., Aug. 13 (AP).—State's Attorney Fletcher Lewis announced today that Paul Montgomery, local aviator, had confessed that he piloted the plane from which the Providence (Ky.) coal field was bombed Monday morning and had named two men who hired him to make the flight. The names of the two were withheld pending their arrest. Montgomery asserted that he manoeuvred his plane so as to protect the people at the mines.

Authorities declined to give out Montgomery's full confession, but said he told them he was forced to pilot the bombing plane by two men under threats of death to him and members of his family.

The confession was made to Herman Goldman, a special agent for the Department of Justice, in the presence of Sheriff William Flanigan of Jackson County, Ill., and Deputy Sheriff Orisenberry.

The State's attorney said Montgomery confessed that the dynamite bombs dropped on the mining community were made at the local airport by two men, one of whom took them in a sack and accompanied him when he took off for the ninety-mile flight to the mining district before dawn Monday.

A close inspection of Montgomery's black and orange monoplane revealed that an attempt had been made to smudge the identification letters 508-M with dirt. It was the recognition of these letters that led to Montgomery's arrest.

The flier, who had recently talked of a non-stop flight from Rome to Dallas, Texas, this Summer, had previously denied any connection with the bombing.

The investigators announced today they had signed statements from Clara Paul, Evelyn Fleming and Raymond Phifer, who told of seeing Montgomery leave the airport at approximately 2:30 A. M. Monday in his monoplane, accompanied by a strange man.

The girls, both of Murphysboro, had dates with Phifer and Montgomery Monday night and all accompanied Montgomery to the airport, they said. All three said two "rough-looking" men were at the airport when they arrived, and one of them got into Montgomery's plane and flew away with him. The man who accompanied Montgomery, they said, carried a sack.

Requisition Made for Flier.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Aug. 13 (AP).—Governor Sampson today made requisition on the Governor of Illinois for Montgomery.

The affidavit on which the requisition was issued charges Montgomery with criminal syndicalism, shooting at another from place of concealment or hiding, and confederating and banding together for intimidation and destruction of property.

R. L. Overby, Sheriff of Webster County, left for Illinois with the requisition papers and will take Montgomery to Dixon.

Blast Damages Bridge.

PROVIDENCE, Ky., Aug. 13 (AP).—Coal trains were halted by the dynamiting of an Illinois Central Railroad bridge thirteen miles west of here today. The blast, one of a series in connection with labor troubles in the mines near here, damaged the end of the trestle over a drainage ditch between Wheatcroft and Blackford. Repairs were begun at once. The damage was estimated at $1,000.

CATHERINE'S TANKARD LEFT IN WOOD WILL

Broker's Son Inherits Two Family Heirlooms as Widow Gets Estate Put at $800,000.

A silver and leather tankard which once belonged to Catherine II, Empress of Russia, is bequeathed to John W. Wood Jr., 118 East Sixty-fifth Street, in the will of his father, John Walter Wood, stock broker, entered yesterday for probate. According to the testament, dated June 1, 1929, the Empress presented the tankard to "her physician, Henry Scrymgeour, who was the uncle of my great-great-grandmother, Anne Chalmers, wife of William Wood, and through whom it has descended to me."

Another family heirloom which the will leaves to the younger Wood is "the Bible, covered with calfskin, which was for many years at Wynd House, in Elie, Fafestone, Scotland."

The petition attached to the will asserts that neither the tankard nor the Bible has any monetary value.

Mr. Wood left the rest of his estate, estimated at about $800,000, to his widow, Mrs. Nathalie Wood, who lives with the son.

Mr. Wood, who was 62 years old, died on July 3 at his country home at Hickory Island, Ont., Canada. He was senior partner of the Stock Exchange firm of Wood, Struthers & Co., 20 Pine Street.

Coward Estate Put at $3,243,642.

J. Mortimer Coward of Glen Ridge, N. J., president of the Coward shoe stores, who died in Havana March 4, 1928, left an estate of $3,243,642.71, according to a final accounting approved by Judge Van Riper in the Orphans' Court in Newark Tuesday. An earned income of $873,231.06 brought the total value of the estate to date to $4,116,873.77. The will left to John Mortimer Coward 3d, 5-year-old son of Mr. Coward, two-thirds of the estate residue after an outright bequest of $400,000 to the widow, now Mrs. Aubrey L. Carroll of Glen Ridge. Under the terms of the will the widow received, in addition to the outright bequest, the income for life from a trust fund of one-third of the residuary estate, provided she did not remarry. On her marriage to Lee Wingate Carroll on March 11, this trust fund was to be reduced to $500,000, and the balance to revert to her son.

Big Seaplane Liner Landed in Cuban Field; The 15 Passengers Go by Bus to Havana

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Aug. 13.—Fifteen passengers escaped injury today when a New York, Rio and Buenos Aires seaplane from Buenos Aires made a forced landing on a hillside near Havana. The plane left Cienfuegos at 1:30 P. M. on its flight to Havana and Miami. Near here the motors failed. All the baggage was thrown overboard and the seaplane glided down easily to the hillside. Only the wings of the plane were damaged.

Aboard the plane were eight employes of the National City Bank of New York. William Youngblood, bank inspector, commended Pilot H. Sewell for his skillful handling of the big seaplane.

Other passengers were W. D. Palty of Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. F. Neff of Chicago and Para, Brazil; E. Steffinger of New York, John Cannon, C. E. Celaya and Alson A. Ganse of Porto Rico, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Deraux, W. Shaw, Peter Perwoot and Charles Ceiboja. The radio operator was A. Kalbusky and the mechanic was J. Naves.

The passengers proceeded to Havana in automobiles and will fly to Miami tomorrow.

The local offices of the New York, Rio and Buenos Aires Air Line, Inc., said the landing of its disabled plane near Havana yesterday was a remarkable feat because the huge craft was a seaplane. It was said the gas line became airbound, affecting both engines of the multi-motored plane. The plane was skidded along its all-metal bottom in landing on a field. A representative of the line said this was tthe first time such a landing had been made during a commercial filght.

COLUMBIA PROJECTS TELEVISION STATION

System Applies for License to Build Plant Here for Tests of Visual Broadcasting.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The Columbia Broadcasting System filed application today for an experimental television station to be located in New York. The application was presented to the Federal Radio Commission by the Atlantic Broadcasting Corporation, a Columbia subsidiary, which operates Station WABC. It asked for a construction permit to build a 500-watt visual broadcasting station to operate on a channel of 2,778 kilocycles.

The National Broadcasting Company recently received assignment of a series of licenses for television experiments held by the Radio Corporation of America, its parent company, and these constituted the first visual broadcasting licenses to be held by that network.

Columbia also filed an application today through the Atlantic Broadcasting Corporation for an experimental portable station to operate with 15 watts power on the 4,795 kilocycle channel. The station is desired for rebroadcasting of special events.

International rebroadcasting of programs was proposed by Station WLW of the Crosley Radio Corporation, Cincinnati, in an application filed with the commission today. For the purpose of making available to American listeners programs originating in foreign countries, the station asked for a construction permit to operate a 10,000-watt station on the relay broadcasting channel of 6,060 kilocycles. An investment of $50,000 would be involved, the application stated.

ASSAIL EVIDENCE IN BILLINGS TRIAL

Two New Witnesses Discount Main Testimony Offered by the Prosecutor in 1916.

MISS SMITH CONTRADICTED

Employer Denies Her Statements—Lawyer Asserts Crowley Could Not Have Seen Bombing.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 13 (AP).—Stories of Estelle Smith and John Crowley, prosecution witnesses in the Preparedness Day bombing case in 1916, were declared perjuries today by new witnesses unexpectedly introduced at the Supreme Court hearing on the pardon application of Warren K. Billings.

Billings was convicted with Thomas J. Mooney largely on the testimony of Miss Smith and Crowley.

Crowley, since dead, identified Billings as one of two men he saw at Steuart and Mission Streets at 1:45 P. M. the day of the bombing, which occurred less than a block away a few minutes later.

Miss Smith, former dental nurse, testified that Billings visited her office with a suitcase before the parade began, went to the roof and on the way out of the building shook hands with Dr. Joseph Shane, her employer.

The surprise witnesses, summoned by the defense, were Dr. Shane and W. L. Claybourne, Oakland attorney and former Steuart Street garage owner, in whose establishment Crowley was employed on the day of the explosion.

Dr. Shane denied having seen Billings or any other man with a suitcase in his office that day. He said Miss Smith never discussed such a visit with him as she had previously testified.

Claybourne told the court it would have been physically impossible for Crowley to see any one at Steuart and Mission Streets for at least forty-five minutes previous to, and ten minutes after the bombing. The attorney said Crowley had been working under his car continuously during that period.

Crowley was quoted by his former employer as saying detectives visited him after the explosion to get him to testify and he "was only stringing them along to get some money."

Testimony of Maxwell McNutt, who defended Billings in his original trial, supported Billings's alibi that he was spraying automobiles with acid the day of the explosion and at no time was in the vicinity of Steuart and Market Streets or Dr. Shane's office.

The attorney said Billings confessed he had sprayed acid on the machines when hired by a local painters' union then on strike.

"In checking this story," Mr. McNutt said, "I found it to be true. One of the cars mentioned by Billings belonged to a friend of Judge Dunne who presided at the Billings trial."

Two Die in Cave-In at Summit, N. J.

Special to The New York Times.

SUMMIT, N. J., Aug. 13.—Michael Pecca of 35 Park Avenue, Summit, and Antonio Pinau of Monroe Street, Newark, were killed this afternoon when the walls of a storm sewer which they were excavating in Park Avenue opposite Overlook Road collapsed and buried them. The vibration caused by the passing of heavy trucks and buses is believed to have caused the accident.

U. S. Yacht Thisbe Wins Third Race of Canada's Cup Series and Leads by 2-1

THISBE HOME FIRST IN RACE WITH QUEST

Springs Upset by Beating Canada's Cup Challenger by 1:53 in Light Breeze.

U. S. BOAT LEADS IN SERIES

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Performing smoothly before a shifting easterly breeze that varied between four and twelve knots, Thisbe, American defender of the Canada's Cup, sprang an upset here today by defeating Quest, Dominion challenger, in the third race of the series, to take the lead, two races to one.

So light was the breeze that marked the opening of the race that for a time there was question as to whether either craft could finish within the specified five-and-a-half-hour time limit.

Heralded as a superior boat in a light breeze, Quest, Fife-designed Canadian challenger, with Norman Gooderham at the helm, was beaten in her own weather during the first two legs of the race, when Thisbe, with William P. Barrows at the helm, glided to a long and decisive lead that the Canadian was never able to make up.

Jockeying behind the starting line of the triangular course selected by the judges in the face of a soft sou'easter that barely filled the sails, Gooderham stole the weather berth where he could drop down on Thisbe and blanket her.

Thisbe Crosses Rival's Bow.

Barrows, however, with his sloop's superior pointing ability, slid across the Canadian's bow. Timing himself perfectly, Barrows shot Thisbe over the starting line only a couple of seconds after the gun and about half a boat length ahead of his rival.

On the first leg, a close reach, the American craft was first to break out her big Genoa reaching jib, a manoeuvre expected in the light breeze. Gooderham, slower to duplicate the move, lost two boat lengths before his large reaching jib began to pull.

Coasting along lightly in the breeze both challenger and defender maintained approximately the same positions to the first buoy, which Thisbe rounded 56 seconds in the lead. The times were Thisbe 12:46:25, Quest 12:47:11.

The second leg found Thisbe breaking out her spinnaker in short order. But Gooderham, in an attempt to carry the same giant perforated spinnaker without a boom which he used Monday, found that with his mainsail on the port side, the big sheet refused to draw perfectly, persisting in dropping behind the mainsail.

Quest Raises Spinnaker.

Working swiftly, Quest's crew lowered the odd-shaped sail and broke out the conventional spinnaker rig that Thisbe had raised on rounding the turn. But the damage was already done, and Thisbe rounded the second buoy three minutes and 20 seconds in the lead, the longest advantage she enjoyed during the race. The times were Thisbe 1:33:43, Quest 1:37:03.

As both challenger and defender rounded the second mark and swung into the broad reach that led to the home buoy, the breeze freshened perceptibly and within a few minutes had freshened to eight or ten knots an hour. On this leg Quest cut down Thisbe's lead and rounded the buoy one minute and fifty-nine seconds astern of the defender, the times being Thisbe 2:00:23, Quest 2:02:22.

A spanking twelve-knot breeze greeted the rival boats as they swung about the home buoy to start the second lap of the ten and one-half mile triangle. The breeze had shifted to the northeast, and the rival crews found that what had previously been a close reach was now a beat to windward. Rounding the buoy, Barrows at the helm of Thisbe held his course on a port tack.

Barrows Increases Lead.

Gooderham, however, elected to jibe over in rounding and took his first tack with the wind over the starboard quarter. Barrows, after a short port tack, laid the mark perfectly. The Canadian, however, was below the buoy and needed two more hitches to place herself in the same position.

As a result, Thisbe increased her lead by several seconds to round the buoy at the end of the leg 2 minutes and 33 seconds in the lead, the time being: Thisbe 2:40:25; Quest 2:42:58.

Breaking out a spinnaker, Barrows went down the next to last leg dead ahead of the wind which then had strengthened to about twelve miles per hour. With her great, flying spinnaker drawing to perfection, Quest at last succeeded in justifying her reputation as a fast eight-meter off the wind, cutting down Thisbe's time lead to but 1 minute and 55 seconds. This was Quest's best leg during the race. Times at fifth mark were: Thisbe 3:10:02, Quest 3:11:57.

On the home stretch, a close reach, Thisbe was in her element in the high, choppy seas, which had been kicked up and not only held her comfortable lead, but managed to add a few seconds to it. The American defender took the finish gun 1 minute and 53 seconds ahead of the challenger. The finish times: Thisbe 3:42:40, Quest 3:44:33.

Miss Carstairs Speeds 94.5 An Hour With the Estelle V

GRAVENHURST, Ont., Aug. 13 (AP).—Estelle V, the speed boat which Miss Marion Carstairs of England will drive in the Harmsworth Trophy races at Detroit on Labor Day, attained a speed of 94.5 miles an hour in a test on Lake Muskoka today.

Although short of the official world's record of 98.7 set by the late Sir Henry Segrave in his recent fatal run on Lake Windermere in England, today's performance is believed to set a new record for this side of the Atlantic. The best previous mark was 93.123, set by Gar Wood, the Detroit sportsman who is to defend the Harmsworth Trophy.

CARA MIA CAPTURES MARBLEHEAD EVENT

Leads Hope Home by 1½ Minutes in Q Class Race—279 Yachts in Regatta.

Special to The New York Times.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., Aug. 13.—A fleet of 279 yachts, the high-water mark of midsummer week, sailed off Marblehead today for the trophies put up by the Massachusetts tercentenary committee under the auspices of the Boston Yacht Club. Racing conditions were ideal.

Harold Wheelock's Cara Mia reached in fast, under a bulging spinnaker carried well forward, to lead the Q Class home after a keen battle with the Hope. Playing the middle course in the first windward leg out to the outer southeast mark, the Cara Mia, after being crossed by the Hope, sailed by Caleb Loring, shot in around the weather mark twenty seconds ahead of the Alden 25-rater.

Wins by Minute and Half.

Stepping out on the spinnaker leg to the south mark and on the broad reach to the line, the Cara Mia drew away from the Hope to win by a minute and a half.

Choosing the middle course did not work out so well for George Lee's Mingo in the Bar Harbor 31-footer race. Both the Indian and Astrild flanked Mingo to east and west and ran away with the race. The Indian bowled home under a ballooner to lead the Astrild by 4 minutes.

Johnston de Forest's crack Long Island Sound eight-meter boat, Priscilla III, returned to the winning column by leading a squadron of seven eight-meter craft across the mythical tape. After heading for the wrong weather mark, the New York boat showed her class by working to the front to round the marker first and open up a minute and ten seconds of water on the Armida at the gun.

S Class Fleet Divides.

An unusual situation arose when the Herreshoff S class, dividing itself into two fleets, rounded two marks, with the leader in each squadron claiming the victory. Francis Cummings, sailing the Seadog, followed by Graydon Upton at the helm of the Sandust, interpreted the course signal according to an old and abandoned code, while the rest of the fleet, led by William Potter's Teal, navigated a six-mile windward thrash to a new mark established this season.

The Boston Yacht Club regatta committee decided to refer the discussion back to the Herreshoff S Class Association, with the intention of agreeing to the latter's decision even to the point of holding a resail.

YACHTS SELECTED FOR 6-METER TEAM

Mars, Cherokee and Aphrodite Win Right to Represent U. S. Against British.

LUCIE PREVIOUSLY NAMED

Third Day of Trial Races Held Off Oyster Bay—Series to Be Staged Next Month.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Aug. 13.—The American team of four six-meter yachts that will meet the British team here early next month in the British-American Cup series reached completion today, the third day of the trial races.

Briggs Cunningham's Lucie was selected yesterday, and this morning's races, sailed off Center Island, resulted in Mars and Cherokee joining Lucie on the team. That left only one position open, and the races this afternoon saw Emerald, a member of the 1928 outfit, Sprig, Totem and Aphrodite competing in almost a dead calm for the fourth position on the team.

The American team is therefore composed of Lucie, Mars, owned by the Van S. Merle-Smith syndicate; Cherokee, owned by Herman F. Whiton, and Aphrodite, which is owned by J. S. Johnson.

Conditions today offered the selection committee an excellent opportunity to get a line on the ability of the remaining craft and skippers at sailing in a light breeze, or practically no breeze at all.

Taking the three days of the tryouts, the members of the selection committee have been enabled to observe the boats and their sailors under all kinds of conditions.

Percy S. Weeks, chairman of the selection committee, announced this evening that Sprig and Emerald will form the American team to meet the Bermuda six-meter team in a series of races here Aug. 31.

STAMFORD JUNIORS SCORE IN SERIES

Captain Hall's Crew Takes First of Final Races for Yachting Championship.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., Aug. 13.—The contenders for the junior yacht-racing championship of Long Island Sound today completed the divisional preliminary races and one of the final series of three races.

The Stamford Yacht Club crew, comprising R. Russell Hall, captain; Robert Gillespie and Richard Pinkham won the first of the final series with the Pequot Yacht Club crew second by 3 minutes and 51 seconds.

Three divisional preliminary races preceded this first final. The first of the three was won by Timber Point by a margin of 5 minutes 38 seconds over Huguenot. Bay Shore defeated Stamford by 32 seconds in the second of the preliminary tests, and Cold Spring Harbor won by 44 seconds from Black Rock in the other.

The Black Rock crew would have qualified for the finals had not the regatta committee allowed a protest filed against the Bridgeport crew yesterday by Port Washington, the latter crew charging that Black Rock forced it, sailing on the starboard tack, to bear away to avoid collision. This decision deprived Black Rock of three points.

SHAMROCK V, CONVOYED BY THE ERIN, ARRIVING IN NEW LONDON HARBOR.

LIPTON'S SHAMROCK ARRIVES FOR RACES

By JAMES ROBBINS.

of substitution for man power while racing.

While the American yachts—one of which, yet to be selected, she will meet in the international races—have hand winches all along their sides below deck, Shamrock's sheets will be tended by her tried and true deep-water huskies from the Clyde, the Solent and other yachting centres in Britain.

All these living fittings will come out of the racer at once. There will be left below only the flat form for her light sails, and the winch. The work of stripping her will be started tomorrow, when she will be warped into a berth prepared for her at the Electric Boat Company's plant across the Thames in Groton. There she will be stripped of her jury rig and her racing dress put on.

Colonel Neill and Captain Heard went back on deck, put their heads together and told of the passage across the Atlantic. No log was kept. Here is Colonel Neill's account of it, with Captain Heard helping him check up here and there.

"We left the Camper & Nicholson yard in Gosport, England, where Shamrock was built and fitted for the ocean crossing, on July 19," said Colonel Neill.

"A wind and sea came up and we remained in the Solent that night.

Held Up Again in Brixham.

"The next morning we started out again and another batch of weather confronted us. We were held up again in Brixham. By that time we felt we should be getting on, and the Erin took Shamrock in tow as far as the Lizard and open sea, where the Erin cast her off. She set sail then.

"Then for three days we had bad weather. The night of the third was a nasty one. We on the Erin lost sight of Shamrock. In fact the next time we saw her was at the Azores. We knew she would come along."

Colonel Neill looked at Captain Heard and the latter smiled. "'Twas a bit nasty," he said. "But we took it as it came and stepped along."

The Erin coaled at the Azores and fresh garden vegetables and meats were put aboard Shamrock.

"We set out from there on July 31," Colonel Neill went on. "Only light breezes loomed ahead and the Erin took Shamrock in tow off and on. That was when she was making no progress. Her sails were kept up and we just gave her a pull now and then.

"There was no use leaving her out there bobbing around like a cork, with the men on her in cramped quarters. With a little lift now and then we helped her along.

"When the winds did come up they were southwest head ones. In fact they were most of the way. We passed a towline back to Shamrock and brought her along at from four to six knots. With her sails on she crept up on us and signaled us to go ahead out of her way.

"In this way we made progress and decided to head here instead of putting into Bermuda. But just as we were going nicely two gales came up. We had to heave to in both of them and kept the Erin ready to act as a sea anchor for Shamrock. But we did not need to. Shamrock stood the gales like a major. She put her nose into some of the worst seas, raised her head and shook them off as if in defiance of them.

"After the gales came sunshine as we neared the shores of America. And welcome it was. But the breezes kept ahead and slowed us down until yesterday, when they became friendly, and with started sheets on Shamrock we came in a day sooner than we expected, sighting Montauk shortly after noon."

Shamrock was reported to the Coast Guard base here as having passed Montauk at 3 P. M. She was breezing along on a reach with a fair breeze and smooth sea. She headed through The Race, through which Long Island Sound flows and empties into the sea, and appeared off the harbor here at 5 o'clock.

Word of her coming spread and small yachts and boats of every description darted out to greet her, giving her a noisy welcome with horns and whistles as they chugged alongside at a safe distance.

Erin Passes Shamrock Line.

Off Sarah's Ledge bell buoy, at the harbor entrance, the Erin, which had been off a mile to the eastward of the racer, drew up ahead of her and passed her a line. Shamrock's mainsail was lowered, as was her mizzen. She came along in tow of the Erin with merely a small jib to steady her at the end of the tow line.

The big three-masted Erin, with a single buff funnel, spread like a mushroom at the top, was plainly discernible coming along in the distance. She was high, with her coal bunkers low, having taken on no fuel since leaving the Azores.

Finally Shamrock's bare mainmast loomed up, with her lower spreaders for staying it sticking out, and under them a yard for a square sail to use when the wind at sea came astern, which it didn't.

Then her green hull could be made out in the gray distance above the smooth, deep blue water. On Erin's foremast was a large American flag, signifying her being bound for these shores, and on her mainmast Sir Thomas's green and yellow Shamrock, his private signal. The British flag was aft. The Royal Ulster Yacht Club burgee was at Shamrock's mainmast head. That is the Belfast, Ireland, club through which Sir Thomas challenged.

On the Erin were men from the shipyard where Shamrock was built, to carry out the work of rerigging her for racing.

Not a man on either Shamrock or Erin came ashore tonight. Despite their long tossing at sea, they decided to forego trying their land legs for a real night's slumber.

They were glad to get here, sailing, towing or otherwise. There was no negotiating in connection with the present challenger regarding towing, as there was with previous challengers. It had been allowed in the past, the feeling being that it would be an unnecessary hardship on the challenger's crew to leave them tossing on a windless ocean in cramped quarters and with limited fresh food. Then, too, sailing is easier on a racing yacht than being towed. The craft are built to drive through seas, not to be pulled through them.

Shamrock is high, sided and flat on deck. She has little beam, is sharp and looks every inch the fast craft she was reported to have shown herself in her racing on the other side. Her hull, painted green above the water and white at the water line, is so smooth it looks as though it had been cut out of a solid log. This is because of the inlaid strips at the seams.

Plates Give More Leverage.

Over her sides are channel plates for the shrouds holding her mast, to give more leverage than if the staying was done flush down to the deck, as on the American boats.

It was the lower part of Shamrock's mast that was used for her jury-rig coming over. The upper part was stowed on the deck of the Erin along with a spare mast. While the masts of the American boats are made in one long pole, Shamrock's is in two sections which join like a fish pole, with one metal piece fitting into another. The small jury-mast used aft was specially made for the Atlantic trip.

Work of removing the jury rig from the racer and stripping her hull inside will take several days. She will be hauled out on a marine railway and her underbody cleaned, rubbed down and painted. Then her racing rig will be put on. She probably will be under sail again with all her towering canvas some time next week.

Kennelly, Head of N. Y. A. C., Is First to Meet Shamrock V

Special to The New York Times.

BLOCK ISLAND, R. I., Aug. 13.—Major William Kennelly, president of the New York Athletic Club, was the first to meet Sir Thomas Lipton's new challenger for the America's Cup, Shamrock V, thirty miles off here today. Major Kennelly exchanged greetings with the members of the crew of the Shamrock V and wished them luck. Sir Thomas is a member of the New York Athletic Club.

BRITISH OFFICIAL NAMED.

Sharman-Crawford to Sail Aboard America's Cup Defender.

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP).—It became known tonight that the Right Hon. R. G. Sharman-Crawford would be the British representative aboard the cup defender in the international races. The American representative on the Shamrock will not be named until one of the four American candidates has been selected.

The corporation operating the Mount Hope Bridge has offered the Shamrock the use of that exceptional piece of engineering as an emergency hoisting device. There is probably no similar structure that would so well accommodate the requirement.

RYE, N.Y., Aug. 13.—In one of the most interesting days of tennis that the Westchester Country Club has ever witnessed and before a gallery that filled the stands and overflowed on the turf, William Tilden led the field into the quarter finals of the Eastern grass court championships this afternoon with a dearly earned victory over Julius Seligson, at 6—4, 6—4.

Two of the first ten ranking players of the country, Fritz Mercur and Junior Coen, failed to survive the grilling session. Frank Hunter had to overcome a 1—5 handicap in the second set before he was able to subdue the amazingly active Bryan Grant of Atlanta at 7—5, 9—7, and John Van Ryn turned in a brilliant performance in quelling the paceful strokes of Eddie Jacobs at 6—2, 6—2.

The most gripping struggle of the day was the last one on the court. In this match Gregory Mangin of Newark, playing the same withering tennis that mowed down H. W. Austin at Wimbledon, met and defeated Coen in the best form the Kansas City youth has shown on grass this year by the margin of 6—2, 7—5.

In the second set, Coen led at 3—1 and 4—2, but could not hold his advantage, losing his service twice and finally a third time as Mangin closed with a rush that was irresistible in its speed and pace.

Mercur Beaten, 6—2, 6—0.

Clifford Sutter of Tulane, the intercollegiate champion, accounted for Mercur. Mercur has not been in his best shape for a month and after his lay-off he was an easy victim for the smooth volleyer from New Orleans at 6—2, 6—0.

The opposition that Seligson offered to Tilden was perhaps more than the champion had bargained for, but Tilden was at the acme of his game after his two-day rest and to see him dancing across the turf with his matchless footwork, laying into the ball from any and all positions when he was not belting it with every variety of spin was to see the master of old in action.

That Seligson took eight games from the champion in his form of today is evidence enough of the quality of the tennis that the black-haired New York youth played. The manner in which he stood off Tilden in the lengthy back-court rallies, pumping the ball back industriously and oftentimes catching his opponent on the wrong leg or off guard with the unsuspected pace and length of his strokes won the gallery's favor from the start.

But more pleasing still to the stands was the battle that Grant waged against Hunter. The exhibition of court covering that the diminutive Atlantan put on probably has never been equaled on these courts. Scampering around with the nimbleness of a rabbit, Grant retrieved every thing so sedulously that at times Hunter became arm-weary in the effort to put over a finishing shot.

Bell and Murphy Survive.

Berkeley Bell, Richard Murphy and Ted Burwell were the other players to gain the quarter-finals. Bell had to extend himself to the limit to prevail over E. W. Feibleman, who defeated him in the national championships last year. Murphy accounted for Melvin Partridge and Burwell put out Arthur S. Fowler, victor over Frank Shields on Monday.

The play in the women's singles saw Miss Edith Cross, third ranking player of the country, meet with another reversal when she lost to Miss Alice Francis at 6—4, 3—6, 8—6. Miss Cross has been badly off her game ever since her return from abroad and she lost today through her lack of control.

Baroness Giacoma Giorgio Levi of Rome advanced at the expense of Miss Ruth Oexman at 10—8, 6—0, and the other survivors in the quarter-finals were Miss Marjorie Gladman, Miss Mary Greef, Miss Clara Louise Zinke, Miss Helen Marlowe, Miss Dorothy Andrus and Mrs. J. Dallas Corbiere.

FARRELL'S 67 SETS MARK.

Sarazen Has 68 and Horton Smith 70 in Practice at St. Paul.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 13 (AP).—Johnny Farrell of the Quaker Ridge Club, New York, burned up the Keller course today where the St. Paul $10,000 open starts Friday with a round of 67, 5 under par, to establish a new course record. Farrell's round was one stroke better than that of Gene Sarazen of the Lakeville Club, New York.

Horton Smith of the Yacht and Country Club Cragston, New York, had a 70 today, as did Ed Dudley of Wilmington, Del., and Leonard Mattson, Keller professional.

5 Chicago Pitchers Fail to Stem Opponents—Phelps and Moss in Box for Robins.

By ROSCOE McGOWEN.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—The Robins today concentrated upon beating the Cubs, with the edifying results that the champions were pushed rudely around their own ball park, 15 to 5, and the Brooklynites went back to within 2 points of a tie for first place.

The Bruins had a hard time accumulating their five, one of which was accounted for by Hack Wilson's fortieth home run, a hard drive off Babe Phelps in the fourth which landed well up in the right-field bleachers.

The crowd of 37,000 had little to cheer about aside from Wilson's big blow, but they had plenty to mourn about. First the Robins fell upon Guy Bush, one of McCarthy's aces, scored five runs on five hits in the third and sent him to the seclusion of the clubhouse. This free and fancy hitting included Johnny Frederick's thirty-eighth double and two more by Al Lopez and Eddie Moore.

Osborn Retires Robbins.

Bob Osborn replaced Bush and got the side out, but in the fourth Gilbert's single, Herman's double and Wright's sacrifice fly counted the sixth tally. Thereafter they subsided partially until the eighth, when, with Lynn Nelson on the mound, they opened their heavy fire once more and counted three more runs, Gilbert, Bissonette and Lopez doing the hitting and Wright contributing a second sacrifice fly.

The ninth became a bit of a nightmare to Manager McCarthy, the Cubs and the loyal North Side fans. Six Brooklyn runners galloped blithely across the plate in this weird inning, and two of them had no need to hurry, because they merely had to make room for other runners put on base by the generosity of Malcolm Moss, the young Cub southpaw.

The Chicago Moss had a very bad time. He started nicely by retiring the first two batsmen on easy grounders, but when Frederick slammed a ball toward the right-field seats that went only a few feet foul the young southpaw lost control. He walked Frederick, Gilbert reached one for a single to right and then Master Malcolm pitched twelve straight balls to Herman, Bissonette and Wright to force in two runs.

Shealy Batted Hard Also.

Al Shealy was sent to the rescue and was good to the Robins, granting consecutive singles to Lopez, Bressler and Moore, upon which four more tallies came in, to bring the day's total to fifteen.

Phelps, who received credit for the victory, his first over the Cubs, who had beaten Brooklyn four straight until today, was replaced by Ray Moss in the midst of the sixth after Farrell and Heathcote had opened the frame with singles. Moss ended the inning scorelessly, aided by a fast double play, in which Eddie Moore was the pivot.

GIANTS WIN IN 10TH ON LINDSTROM'S HIT

Homer on Top of Critz's Single Defeats Reds, 7 to 6—Benton Is the Victim.

By JOHN DREBINGER.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 13.—The Giants nearly missed their first opportunity of closing in on the embattled Cubs and Robins today, but in the end the might and hidden dynamic energies of the McGraw men prevailed.

With an effort borne of despair, they hammered their old playmate, Larry Benton, for two runs in the ninth to tie the score, and in the tenth they counted two more on the wings of a home run that Freddy Lindstrom scaled over the left field wall, thus bringing about the collapse of the Reds in the opening game of the series by 7 to 6.

It was a dramatic struggle with not the least of the afternoon's thrills coming in the last of the tenth. Joe Heving, who had replaced Willie Walker on the mound in the eighth, passed two men after retiring the first two. Followed a single by Cuccinello and one of the two runs that Lindstrom so magnificently had pounded over the fence was wiped out.

Heilmann Thrown Out.

The burly Peter Donohue was ordered to replace the wavering Heving. Heilmann shot a grounder at Lindstrom who froze tenaciously to the ball, took careful aim at Bill Terry's mitt and a second later the game was over.

That the Reds fought so stubbornly was due mainly to the individual efforts of Benton, aided and abetted by Heilmann. Until he bogged down at the finish, Larry the Red pitched commendably and further aided his cause by knocking in two of the three runs the Reds tallied in the second with a triple.

Those three runs kept the Giants on the short end, for a single by Heilmann paved the way for another tally in the fourth, and in the sixth Heilmann inflicted more damage by thumping a homer over the left-field wall.

Making up this ground developed into an arduous task. Terry's double started the Giants on to one tally in the second, Jackson's triple helped to another in the fifth and Hogan's three-bagger did as much in the seventh.

Jackson Scores Terry.

Still the Giants were two runs shy as they entered the ninth, and when two outs followed Terry's single, the cause seemed slightly worse than hopeless. But Jackson singled to drive in Terry, and then Roettger hammered a double off the left-field wall that scored Jackson all the way from first with the tying tally.

Critz's single preceded Lindstrom's homer in the tenth, which, as already narrated, proved a move of admirable vision, for it gave the Giants just that extra tally they needed to win.

YANKS' EARLY LEAD QUELLS THE TIGERS

Have 10-0 Edge in Sixth, but Visitors Rally Only to Lose by 10-8 Margin.

2 RELIEF HURLERS FAIL

McEvoy, Third Substitute for Pipgras, Stops Detroit With Tying Run on Base in Seventh.

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.

A 10-to-0 lead with the game more than half over turned out to be none too substantial for the Yankees yesterday when their pitching staff began weakening in a large way. Victory was theirs finally, but by the margin of only 10 to 8.

Detroit made such serious inroads on the ten-run lead that the 12,000 fans present at the Stadium spent most of the last four innings in a state of consternation bordering on collapse.

When Pipgras lost his grip of the situation after blanking the Tigers with two hits for the first five innings, Manager Shawkey tried Ruffing and Holloway as replacements without success. Lou McEvoy, however, turned out to be the right man.

McEvoy took charge in the seventh with the bases filled and the tying run on second. He retired Pinch Hitter Uhle on a pop foul for the third out and kept the Tigers at bay in the eighth and ninth. He allowed no Tiger to reach first base, earning much glory in the eighth Yankee victory in the last nine games.

Combs Hits Inside Homer.

Earl Combs hit the only homer during the three-hour battle, driving home two men ahead of him in the fifth inning. But this homer did almost as much harm to the Yankee cause as good. It was an inside job, a drive which did not leave the field of play.

Combs's spirited hit and run exploit counted three runs, but it happened that the man just ahead of him was Pipgras. The tall pitcher had to sprint only three bases, but three bases were too many for him. When he went to the box for the sixth inning, he had lost his pitching potency. Sullivan opened with a triple. Three singles and two passes were charged against him, with fumbles by Gehrig and Lazzeri to help the Tigers' score six runs.

Ruffing came to the rescue after Pipgras had pitched to ten Tigers, and retired Funk for the third out, but in the next inning he was unable to cut the plate with his pitches. After he had walked two Tigers and was hit for a single, Holloway came in, but stayed only long enough to fan one man and walk two. Then it was McEvoy's turn, and McEvoy was right.

Yankees Outbat Rivals.

The Yanks outbatted the Tigers, 14 to 7, but had only one hit after the fifth inning. Tom Bridges in the sixth and Elon Hogsett in the seventh and eighth stopped them utterly.

WESTBURY, L. I., Aug. 13.—With both players and ponies showing improvement over their first formal appearance last Saturday, the four Ashton brothers of Australia, who form the Goulburn polo four, turned back a good team for six periods at Phipps Field this afternoon by way of preparation for their next formal match against the United States Army at Meadow Brook Saturday.

Playing a team called Old Westbury, which included Gerald Balding, British internationalist, the Australians lost no time in jumping into the lead and then stayed there through six interesting periods, the final score being 8 to 5.

The Ashtons, lined up with Philip, Geoffrey, James and Robert. Riding in that order, they met Michael Phipps, Balding, Averell Harriman and Howard Phipps. At the outset they put on pressure and maintained something of an upper hand throughout.

Ashtons' Teamwork Impresses.

The Australian players were hitting more cleanly and with a bit greater length than they were against Old Aiken and their ponies handled superbly, not only in close quarters but in matching speed lengthened out with the American mounts. As play progressed the Australian hitting improved and always their teamwork was well planned.

The game was not too seriously contested, being designed as a workout for those concerned. Balding, who played a bit at Rumson over the weekend, put in his first periods of competition on Long Island since last year. The man who is expected to ride with the British against America next month took things fairly easily, but on occasion hit extremely well. He had two or three backhand drives, on either side of his pony, which had length and loft to them, and he figured well in his side's scoring.

Mike Phipps started the scoring on a quick dash that followed almost directly the opening toss-in by Jack Nelson, the Argentine star, who acted as referee. But the Australians came back fast. Philip and then Geoffrey finished off team runs and put their side in the lead before the end of the period.

Second Period Brings Action.

The second period had more action than any of the others, with the losers scoring twice and the Ashtons matching those and adding one more. Geoffrey started it with a long drive for the first score, and then Philip made the lead 5 to 1 before Harriman cut in a goal, and then, at the close, Balding turned an Australian attack with a very nice backhander which Howard Phipps picked up for a neat score.

The scoring was not so fast during the rest of the game, but the Australians were going throughout at more pace than they have shown yet, teaming confidently and riding out to place themselves for their shots in nice formation.

Philip had the only score of the third, and Harriman's was the only one in the fourth, as was Jim Ashton's in the fifth, making the Australian lead 7 to 4. All of the Australian goals were scored in the same fashion, by concerted team action with one or the other riding out to finish it off.

Mike Phipps added one more to the losers' total in the sixth, but Geoffrey started another team rush which Philip finished off, and the Australians were well out of danger at the finish.

Grab Bag Handicap Won by Sun Meadow

SUN MEADOW TAKES GRAB BAG HANDICAP

Carries Mrs. Hitt's Colors to Victory by Nose Over Ladder at Saratoga Track.

POLYGAMOUS, 9 TO 5, WINS

Comes From Behind to Beat Sun Mission, With Black Majesty Only a Head Behind.

By BRYAN FIELD.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—The comparatively unknown Sun Meadow, owned by Mrs. Katharine E. Hitt and pretty much of a minus quantity until his good race in the Saratoga Special back of Jamestown and Equipoise, captured the Grab Bag Handicap today by a nose and paid 5 to 1 for those who supported him.

Few gamer races have been run at the meeting, as Sun Meadow had to come from far back in a large field to get to the contention and then he had to run down some of the best of the juveniles at Saratoga to take the prize of $3,450.

Walter J. Salmon's Ladder, the early leader by a big margin, was the second horse, saving the place by a length and a half from Surf Board, the 7-to-2 favorite. Then in order finished Condescend, Blenheim, Sea Fox, Polydorus, Chief John, Sir Ashley, Blind Bowboy, Beau Jolie, Deedie and Smear, truly a formidable lot.

Ladder Early Leader.

Eddie Watters had the leg up on Sun Meadow and from a slow break he guided his horse like a veteran around and through a good deal of crowding without once having to take back. While this was going on Ladder was out in front speeding away with a show of foot which appeared to put the race on ice. Surf Board was running second and the gameness he has shown in his other starts made many think that he would overtake the leader.

On the bend Surf Board drew closer to Ladder, while Sun Meadow still was out of sight in a cloud of dust. Blenheim was running well up on the rail, but was crowded back and got nowhere. To avoid being crowded Watters took Sun Meadow outside and when he reached the stretch he had plenty of running room.

Blind Bowboy and Condescend also were in contending positions at the top of the stretch, but the final push found them wanting, while Sun Meadow went on faster than ever to nip Ladder in the last stride on the post. Surf Board faltered when put to a hard drive. He had been used up a good deal in the early stages anyway. The time was 1:12 1-5 for the six furlongs.

Polygamous Off Slowly.

Another nose finish occurred immediately after when Gifford A. Cochran's Polygamous, beaten a nose in each of his two previous races, had a change of luck and this time finished in front. He was the 9 to 5 favorite.

Polygamous ran one of his best races to gain this victory in the Wilton purse, for he was off slowly and had to come back of a blazing pace to beat Sun Mission by a nose with that fellow only a head in front of Black Majesty, which in turn beat Sarazen II a head.

An idea of how fast the pace was may be gleaned from the fractions which follow: 0:23 1-5, 0:46 2-5, 1:11 2-5 and 1:24 2-5 for the seven furlongs.

Winning Heart broke slowly, but worked her way up, came around the field in the stretch and drew away to win easily. Paradise Lost was very sore going to the post. She broke slowly, was taken very wide and closed gamely. Nell W. was kept well up all the way and ran a good race. Allege ran away below her top form. Roseomar and Norma Jean were both used up setting the pace.

Brown Stout, jumping well, was reserved off the pace, took the lead with little effort in the last half mile and had little contention thereafter. The Ace II, held under strong restraint for a turn of the field, was no match for the winner when let down. Huette lacked early speed, but finished well. Solyman fenced well and showed good speed for a turn of the field. Index was always outrun and finally was pulled up.

Ladder ran into a long early lead and saved ground but weakened in the last twenty yards. Condescend was in close quarters in the final furlong. Blenheim broke fast but was crowded back in the first furlong. He was rushed up on the inside and was again blocked in the stretch. He was then taken to the outside and finished fast. He might have won with better handling. Sea Fox also suffered interference. Sir Ashley was away poorly and just galloped back of the field. Blind Bowboy tired badly.

Scratched—Sir Ashley.

The Gen broke fast, rushed to the front, displayed good speed, saved ground and held the race safe. Great Gun, well up from the start, ran a good race. Glastonbury broke slowly and lacked early speed, but closed with a rush. Tancred, away well, was hard ridden all the way and had no excuse. Rockhone ran a fair race. Rollin In showed speed.

59 YEARLINGS BRING $345,000 AT SALES

13 HEAD YIELD $205,300

Are by Sir Gallahad III, Sire of Gallant Fox—Three D's Pays $30,000 for Bay Colt.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—One of the most remarkable sales of yearlings in the history of Saratoga took place tonight when fifty-nine yearlings from the Claiborne and Ellerslie Studs of A. B. Hancock brought a total of $345,000.

While this was an average of $5,847, of note to veteran breeders and horsemen was the fact that thirteen of the yearlings, by Sir Gallahad III, sire of Gallant Fox, and other great horses sold for a total of $205,300 or an average of $15,792. It was the highest average ever received for the yearlings of any one sire in the recollection of E. J. Tranter, president of the Fasig-Tipton Company.

Many of the best-known owners and breeders in the country were present, including John Hay Whitney, George D. Widener, Frederick Johnson, Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, William Ziegler Jr., John D. Hertz and E. R. Bradley.

Three D's Pays Top Price.

The highest price of the night was $30,000 for a Sir Galahad III yearling. The youngster was a dark bay colt out of Fasnet and was purchased by the Three D's Stable of W. T. Waggoner & Sons. It was this stable which purchased Broadway Limited, a $65,000 yearling of 1928.

The Three D's Stable was the biggest buyer, five yearlings going to that outfit for a total of $111,500. The second and third highest prices also were paid by the Waggoners. These were $26,500 and $26,000 respectively. The former was paid for a filly by Sir Galahad III and out of Embassy, an imported mare. The $26,000 bought a bay colt by Sir Galahad III out of Dare Say.

Church Acquires Bay Colt.

Norman Church paid the next highest price, $24,000, and it too was for a Sir Galahad. The yearling was a colt, a bay, and was out of Sun Spot. The fourth of the Three D's Stable purchases came next in order, the amount being $19,000. By Sir Galahad III and out of Bessie Melton, the youngster was a bay colt, half-brother to the stake winner Donges.

E. R. Bradley was not merely a spectator. He entered into the bidding, and the full brother of Ormesby went to him. Ormesby and Bradley's yearling are by Sir Galahad III and out of Chewink. The youngster is a bay, also a half-brother of Chelys, and is bred similar to Gallant Fox.

The only other yearling to bring more than $15,000 went to John D. Hertz. The yearling is a half-sister to Risque and is by Sir Galahad III, out of Risky.

New Jersey Golf Lead Taken by Runyan With 140

STRAUB, WITH 142, SECOND

Newark Pro Has Pair of 71s for Opening 36 Holes at Asbury Park Course.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 13.—Two youthful assistant professionals occupied the first two places in the field of 150 starters at the close of the first thirty-six holes of the New Jersey open golf championship over the Asbury Park Golf and Country Club course today.

Paul Runyan, who won the North and South open championship at Pinehurst earlier in the year, finished the two rounds with a total of 140, which included a course record of 66, this morning. Arthur Straub, representing the Branch Brook public links in Newark, turned in a pair of 71s for a total of 142.

Straub was assistant to Craig Wood, professional at the Forest Hill Field Club last year, and Runyan came east from Arkansas this season to be Straub's successor.

Tied at 146 at the half-way mark are Cyril Walker of Saddle River, former national open champion, and Dannie Williams of Shackamaxon, who was runner-up to Johnny Golden in the New Jersey open last year. Golden is ineligible to defend his title because he has moved out of the State.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By JOHN KIERAN.

THE stout red-faced man was halted and ordered to give his private and personal views of the National League race. He looked around cautiously and then said solemnly and confidentially:

"I think John will do it. Yes, sir, I really believe John will be up there."

Since the stout red-faced man was Roger Bresnahan, there was no doubt as to the identity of "John." John was John McGraw and when Bresnahan said "John will do it," he meant it just that way. To the old-timers, John McGraw means the Giants and vice versa.

Well, how and why would John do it?

"Why, he's getting better pitching now and besides, he's got a lotta games with the Phillies and Braves. That oughta be easy pickings for him."

Then Mr. Bresnahan sauntered away. It was just as well that he did, for part of his story wouldn't have held up well under cross-examination. A glance at the schedule shows that the Giants have five games to play with the Phillies and eight with the Braves, a total of thirteen. The Cubs have nine games with the Phillies and four with the Braves, a total of thirteen. The Robins have five games with the Phillies and six with the Braves, a total of eleven.

So as far as the schedule goes in this direction, the Giants have only a thin edge on Brooklyn and no advantage at all over the Cubs.

The High Hurdles.

The big tests for the Giants will be the series with the Cardinals and the Cubs. The Cardinals have been playing good ball since their terrific slump on their last eastern tour. Doubtless they will have Wild Bill Hallahan, Jess Haines and Burleigh Grimes primed for pitching duty when the Giants dash into Sportsman's Park.

The Lord of Burleigh took great delight in stopping his old teammates, the Robins, and he would take no less pleasure in throwing the Giants for a loss. Burleigh was traded away from the Polo Grounds and he hasn't forgotten or forgiven. He knows how to carry a grudge on both shoulders without spilling a drop. He may not have the old smoke but he still has the old fire.

The Lord of Burleigh comes close to being the champion traveling man of the National League. He has been with the Pirates, the Robins, the Giants, the Braves and the Cardinals. He was a winner in all those cities except Boston, which is too bad because that's the city in which it would have been most appreciated.

Mark Anthony's Oration.

Skipping to another sector, Mark Anthony Koenig, the Detroit shortstop who hits from either side of the plate and plays the piano with both hands, agrees that from here on it is "just a breeze for the Athletics."

"Yeah, it's all over but the shouting," said Mark yesterday. "But watch us next year. We've got some fine young players. That Holy Cross boy, Gene Desautels, is a fine catcher. Most of our pitchers are young, except Hoyt and Uhle, and you couldn't complain about them, could you?"

What about Waite Hoyt with the Tigers?

"Aw, it's a shame the way we kicked away a couple of those games on him," said Mark. "He's been pitching good ball. He'll probably win a lotta games for us next season.

"One of the sweetest fielders you ever saw. He's a slim kid, not very big. Seems funny to be throwing at him after you've been pegging to big Dale Alexander."

Remarks on the Yankees.

Koenig doesn't carry any grudge over being traded away from the Bronx. He likes it in Detroit. He likes the town, the team, the manager and the ball park. But he is still interested in the fortunes or misfortunes of his old cronies in Yankee uniforms.

"Wonder why they take Combs out against left-handed pitching?" he said. "He's a hitter for my money any time he goes to the plate, no matter who's pitching."

The explanation was offered that Bob Shawkey thought Sam Byrd too good a player to spend all his time on the bench.

"Yeah," said Mark, "I guess a manager has his problems like that, but I'd sure hate to take Combs out of any game. Say, he's one of the best hitters in baseball. He doesn't look any too happy out there playing the sun field, either. But who would? How come they shifted Tony to third base? He was a corking second baseman."

He was, but somehow he didn't function on double plays this season and Shawkey thought he would try another keystone combination and put Tony at third, where he was doing very well.

Mostly Power.

"He'd do well anywhere," said Mark. "Just a natural ball player. Say, this Reese is a hard guy to figure at bat. You never know where to play for him. How Huggins would have loved a poke hitter like that kid! He used to try to get a lot of us to hit that way but it wasn't our style."

Did he think Reese would hit enough to hold a regular job with the Yanks.

"I sure do. He's all right, that kid."

What did he think about Yankee prospects in general?

"Oh, I don't know. They have what they always had, and that's power. You can boot some and get away with sloppy pitching here and there if you've got the old power, and they have it. Just look at that bunch, Ruth, Gehrig, Lazzeri, Combs, Dickey and the rest of 'em. Just a headache for any pitching staff."

What about the Athletics?

"Their power house is Al Simmons. They have great pitching—and Simmons. He's the best right-handed hitter in baseball. Cochrane and Foxx are good hitters, but that Simmons, he just blasts you right outta the park."

Mark Anthony closed out his oration by remarking that Joe Cronin was the best shortstop in the American League and Mark should know something about it, being a shortstop by trade himself.

CURRY SAUCE WINS AT MONTAUK TWICE

Crowned Champion Hunter of Long Island and Takes Blue in Novice Jumpers Class.

By VERNON VAN NESS.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTAUK, L. I., Aug. 13.—Curry Sauce, the beautiful 6-year-old gelding owned by Mrs. John C. Loud of Syosset, L. I., this afternoon was crowned champion hunter of Long Island in the outstanding event on the program of the opening day of the Montauk horse show.

Mrs. Loud rode Curry Sauce to his victory and had the double pleasure of watching her 9-year-old chestnut gelding, Little Jeff, take down the reserve ribbon in the same class.

Gaining the championship honors marked the second signal triumph of the day for Curry Sauce. In the morning showing this fine jumper and hunter achieved a hard-won victory over a field of thirty others to take the blue ribbon in the novice jumpers class.

He scored over the Rice Brothers' Kilronan, Miss Doris Hofheimer's Sovereign Gold and Harry S. Durand's Madam Queen in the novice exhibition, but competed against only two in the championship event, his own stable-mate, Little Jeff, and Miss Carolyn Roberts's Nancy.

The hunter championship class was near the end of a long and interesting program. The weather was ideal for the show and a very good sized crowd attended, lining the outside of the show ring, which had been pitched on the polo field.

Mrs. Loud was not the only one to score in a double blue-ribbon victory during the day, however. In the final class of the afternoon Mrs. George J. Patterson brought her score to two when her gray gelding Silver Dare captured first honors in the event for saddle horses owned and ridden by amateurs.

Previously, in the class for ladies' saddle horses, Silver Dare came through to catch the eyes of the judges. In both cases Silver Dare was ridden by Mrs. James A. Hewlett of Jericho, L. I.

More than one winner also took down second honors in another event. Before Little Jeff had placed reserve to Curry Sauce he had won the blue in the model hunters class, a class that brought out a large and fine field. In that class he beat, among others, Mrs. Harry Frank Jr.'s Sinbad, which took third place. Later Sinbad captured the blue in the class for lightweight hunters, while Little Jeff was second.

SERRICK LOW NET IN ONE-DAY GOLF

TIES FOR LOW GROSS ALSO

Stuart Wins Play-Off After Each Has 71—M. G. A. Ruling May Change Prize Awards.

By LINCOLN A. WERDEN.

William F. Serrick of Kings Ridge, runner-up in 1925 and 1927 for the national public links championship, received the low net award in the Metropolitan Golf Association's one-day tourney at the Fox Hills Golf Club, Clifton, S. I., yesterday and had the added distinction of having his name engrossed on the William Henry Beers Memorial Trophy.

Serrick, who had not played the course in twenty years until he teed off yesterday in the field of ninety-seven players, also tied with Mark Stuart, the Fox Hills star, with 71 each, one over par for the gross award. They played off for the prize and Stuart won with a 4 at the second hole.

If the Metropolitan Golf Association rules that matching cards is the regular procedure since the case of two golfers deadlocking for first gross in the association's tournaments is unusual, Serrick will receive the low gross award instead of Stuart and A. W. Schroeter of Old Country the first net.

Serrick's net score was 66 and since all nets of 70 or under were considered for the Beers Trophy, eighteen players had to match cards, including Serrick and Stuart.

Serrick started 4, 4, 3, 5 and Schroeter was next best with 4, 4, 3, 6 for the first four holes. Stuart eliminated himself with a 5 at the second hole.

The memorial trophy was placed in competition for the first time last year by Club President Eugene Moran at the time of the Fox Hills invitation in honor of William Henry Beers, former editor of Golf Illustrated who was killed in an airplane accident flying to the national amateur at Pebble Beach.

SEEKING TO CHANGE THE ISSUE

Reports the past few days from the inner circles of the New York State Republican management intimate that new hope is seen in the disclosures of Tammany corruption. Chairman Maier is said to be ready to drop the bone of prohibition, which he already has in his mouth, and jump into the water to snap at the image of a bone labeled corruption. How fine it would be to be able to slide over prohibition in the State platform, or make an adjustable double-back-action plank concerning it and concentrate with a glow of righteous indignation upon the corrupt government of this city! Nor would it be a case of never the man and the issue together. District Attorney Tuttle would be the very one indicated to carry out this new strategy, this sudden change of front in the face of the enemy. As the chances of an honest and straight-out declaration in favor of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment are thought to be growing less, Mr. Tuttle's chances are reckoned to be better. A month away from the State elections, this horoscope is drawn by many political reporters.

There are, however, many things on "the other side of the hill" upon which these strategists have not fixed an appraising eye. What will the embattled Wet Republicans do if the attempt is made to put them off with an utterance about prohibition which is mealy-mouthed and two-faced? They are not men to be diverted by general talk of misgovernment in this city. That cannot be made the paramount issue in a State election. In a Mayoralty campaign it would be different—doubtless will be different, when the time comes. As a secondary and incidental reason for asking the voters to elect a Republican Governor, municipal corruption might well be stressed. But it could not be used to oust the prohibition question from the first place which it has for months held in all minds, without causing the sincerity of the Republican managers to be suspected. About their stupidity in such an event, there would be no doubt at all. The action proposed would drive away thousands of Republicans to the support of Governor Roosevelt if he stands upon an unmistakably Wet platform, and would again lead to the spectacle of the Republican party in the State of New York running down a steep place into the sea.

President Butler thinks that there is but one way of taking prohibition "out of politics" in this State, and it is for both parties to make a straight-out declaration in favor of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. It could hardly be so simple as that. Evidence is already at hand that the Anti-Saloon League, with the backing of a great many Dry Republicans, is bound to keep the question in politics. An independent candidate will be nominated against the Republicans if they bring forward one who is Wet on a Wet platform. That menace is plainly before the eyes of the Republican managers, especially up the State, and is causing them anxious days and haggard nights. No doubt they would like to drop the uncomfortable prohibition issue, but things have gone too far for that. The people have a way of deciding what the real issue is, no matter what the platform may say. They will this year keep an uncommonly keen eye on the manoeuvres of the Republican leaders in this State, and will be prepared to reward or punish them according as they think clear and see straight and speak without a forked tongue about the matter of prohibition repeal, or refuse to do so.

The big issue is here, in plain sight of all people, and those who seek to get rid of it by some shift, some artful dodge, some form of words that means nothing, will be in danger of themselves being got rid of when election day comes.

A BAD YEAR FOR FIRES.

Last year was in many respects the worst in the history of the New York City Fire Department. That sobering fact, hinted at in the figures given out some months ago, is now confirmed in Commissioner Dorman's annual report. All told, there were 29,723 fires, an increase of 13 per cent over the year before. Losses increased, injuries increased, incendiary fires increased. Arrests for arson doubled. There were 7,678 fires in tenement houses, an increase of 567 over 1928—most of them in old-law tenements, as usual. The community may take what comfort it can from the slight decrease in the number of deaths and in the average loss per fire, but it cannot blink the fact that the number of fires per thousand inhabitants—a trustworthy index of this ancient hazard—rose from 4.08 in 1927 to 4.31 in 1928 and 4.90 in 1929.

Commissioner Dorman lets the figures go with little comment. His report is the usual routine affair, balancing the dull chronology of the engine companies with brief accounts of individual deeds of heroism. He merely notes, as if it were an entirely casual fact, that the number of fires was the largest in the history of the city. Why? What caused the sudden increase? Chance? Lawlessness? Carelessness? All three seem to have been contributing factors. The man with the cigarette butt is still at large, and his children have not yet learned not to play with matches. Both did more damage than ever, according to the tables in the report. What about skyscrapers and traffic congestion? Have they added to the fire-fighter's difficulties? It would be interesting to have the Commissioner's answers to some of these questions. Meanwhile, he has a right to be proud of the recent finding of the National Board of Fire Underwriters that the New York department is "powerful, well manned "and equipped and efficient in "operation."

TWO VIVID PRIMARIES.

Turn from drabber States to where all the lights are colored and all the cowhorns blowing. As was expected, Senator Norris was renominated in the Nebraska Republican primary. Mr. Stebbins, the conservative hope, stood upon the great moral issue of "regularity." He and his stumpers deplored and jeered "wild jackassism," a divagation not only inconvenient for the Old Guard, but, for campaign purposes at least, positively immoral. So far as the outlander can trust to native wisdom of many sources, irregularity irregularly triumphed by the rush of Democrats to the polls. More than once Mr. Gilbert M. Hitchcock, who was to be the Democratic nominee for Senator, exhorted the Democrats to be good and not get into the wrong primary.

Mr. Stebbins called Mr. Norris a "bootlegger" of votes who was "begging the Democrats to stultify "themselves by surreptitiously slip-"ping into the Republican primary." Mr. Norris accused Mr. Hitchcock, the irrepressible "Sam" McKelvie of the Farm Board and other miscreants of conspiring to nominate Mr. Stebbins so that Mr. Hitchcock might have an easy man to beat. Undoubtedly, a certain number of Democrats were eager to thank Mr. Norris for his adhesion to Governor Smith. "Sam" had threatened or promised to vote for Mr. Hitchcock in the event of Mr. Norris's renomination. Democrats must abound in Nebraska if they are able to run their own show and control the rival performance.

Mr. Norris has always been hospitable to Democrats in the primaries. With or without extraneous aid, the crime of 1928 seems to be forgiven. The regulars will have their chance for revenge by voting for Mr. Hitchcock next Fall. Epithets flew so fast that it was no use to make a collection. An exception must be made in favor of our Democritean friend, Mr. Harry O. Palmer, that unhappily defeated Republican aspirant for Governor who believes that "the unimportance of things cannot be exaggerated":

> Out here we are twisting the tails of the political hippogriffs, those strange misbranded hybrids which infest the elephant herd in Nebraska.

From the Oklahoma "run-off" emerge two old Oklahomans. Mr. Gore was one of the State's first Senators and served from 1907 to 1921. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray was president of the Oklahoma Constitutional Convention and first Speaker of its House of Representatives. Two oil millionaires went down before these champions of the commonalty. Mr. Gore came to Democracy by way of Populism. That ought to make him as good as a Republican as the renominated Senator Pine. To judge from what "Alfalfa Bill" calls "the dope-sheet and chop-suey press," education, agriculture, industry, business and even the highways will be destroyed if he is elected Governor.

He was pictured as a woman-hater, discourteous, vulgar, ignorant, a stranger to baths. He offered to pass an examination with any of his editor-critics. He has been an editor himself. He knows the Oklahoma temperament. He is the friend of "the little man," the tenant farmer, the workingman, the under-dog. He takes no money from corporations. He began his campaign with $52 in his pocket. He compared himself to Grant and Lincoln. After looking at the State garage, he decided it was too small for him to live in as Governor, as he had intended. Impeachment is the natural fate of a Governor of Oklahoma. The Tribune of Tishomingo foresees it and will "fight it like a wildcat." No peaceful administration is to be looked for from him. That's the talk for Oklahoma.

Oklahoma loves State government as a melodramatic film; defiances, rows, trouble and plenty of it. "Bill" foresees "a magnificent bolt" next Fall. His curious proposal for a gross income tax must be just a part of his genius for attracting attention. No Legislature would approve it. It is possible that the Democratic State assembly or convention or whatever it is called will turn it down, as it did some of "Jack" Walton's mighty thoughts. Meanwhile, let us condole with fading Kansas and bask in the glow of Nebraska and Oklahoma.

RESURGENT GREECE.

A report from Greece by a correspondent of The Manchester Guardian almost leads one to believe that the reign of Saturn, distinguished for peacefulness and content, has come again in Hellas. "The vast world-process" of which Vergil sang, thinking of Augustus and Rome, has brought "a new-born time" to the land which Byron's hero, standing on the "Persian's grave" at Marathon, dreamt might still be free.

During the last five years the Greeks have succeeded in overcoming all their major difficulties with extraordinary success, though the final effort has taken place principally during the last two years since the accession to power of M. Venizelos.

The great body of refugees (1,400,000) from Asia Minor to whom the motherland, herself still in distress, gave shelter, have been finally established in industry and agriculture. Many millions a year have been added by them to the wealth of Greece. Steady development of resources now pervades the little land all the way from the Morea and Attica to the slopes of Pindus and Olympus, where the pest of brigandage is "almost obliterated." This happy state of things is attributed primarily to the improvement of communications which have linked Greek culture and commerce to the main centres of Europe. The Indian air mail calls not only at Saloniki and at the crowded port of the Piraeus, but also at Crete, where the modern Theseus finds his way out even without the aid of the "filament slender." Then there is the daily Orient Express with its through cars which makes Athens a European rather than a Balkan capital, and airplanes fly daily to and fro between Saloniki and Vienna over the site of the palace where Aristotle taught the boy who became Alexander the Great.

Local transport also has been greatly improved, and water has been brought to cities and even to villages. In highways Greece is still backward, but the Government is taking steps to complete a new program of roadmaking. Even now one can see the glories of Greece in comparative comfort—and in safety; for order has been established. With all the improvements, Greece has not lost her pristine charm, and a traveler may venture there without fear of losing the dreamt-of land in seeing the modern reality. "Once more the Virgin [Justice] comes and Saturn reigns."

OHIO'S DEMOCRATIC PUZZLE.

So far as the prohibition issue is concerned the Democrats of Ohio have nominated that first desideratum of political bosses, "a balanced ticket." Mr. Bulkley of Cleveland, the Senatorial nominee, favors repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. Mr. White of Marietta, named for Governor, had the backing of the Anti-Saloon League. If the Republicans charge the Democrats with a proposal to send to Washington a vote to cancel the Dry laws, the Democrats can retort that their State nominees, if elected, will see to it that Ohio keeps liquor out of its boundaries.

Prudent analysts will not try to decide from the Ohio Democratic primary whether the party is Wet or Dry. An elaborate theory could be worked out: that the Democrats chose a Wet Senatorial nominee because it is Congress which must sustain, modify or undo the prohibition laws; and a Dry candidate for Governor because his attitude has no effect on the national issue. But the probability is that intercounty deals were plentiful. Combinations of candidates for mutual benefit, without regard to their differences on issues, have been known in Ohio and other States. Mr. Bulkley faced four rivals, Mr. White one. Mr. Bulkley is from the lake country; Mr. White's county is on the Ohio River. What more natural than that their campaign managers should have made a private alliance looking to the nomination of both? This is the more likely explanation of the curious jumble than that the voters carefully discriminated between a national and a State candidate. For many years Mr. White, once Chairman of the National Committee, has longed to be Governor. Ever since he retired from the House of Representatives Mr. Bulkley has wished to return to Washington. Both are good vote-getters; the combination, from a standpoint of practical politics, was as natural as the mixed ticket is unnatural.

Generally Republican, Ohio this year is considered a battle-ground by political seers. How adroitly the two major nominees explain during the campaign the logic of their presence on the same party ticket will have a good deal of effect on the result. They can easily get together on the proposition that—since repeal simply means leaving control of the liquor question to the individual States—for Mr. Bulkley to vote to achieve that, and for Mr. White to help Ohio stay Dry, is perfect teamwork.

A FAMOUS SOUTHERNER.

Every time an aged Southern editor or publisher dies it is the fashion to proclaim that "personal journalism" has become a thing of the past. In 1923 the death of Henry Watterson was thus commented upon. Now comes news of the passing of Major E. B. Stahlman of Nashville, a personal journalist if ever there was one, a fighter, a downright man who stated his objectives without the slightest concealment and battled for them long and unremittingly. Defeats did not daunt him; personal animosity did not grieve him; being in a small minority did not discourage him. He had a strong opinion on virtually every subject, and that kept him alive and interesting to the age of 87. Only in the last year had Major Stahlman abated any of his physical activity; never did he relinquish even a small fraction of his mental force or acumen.

A penniless immigrant, crippled in youth, he became a successful railroad executive and bought a newspaper in middle age merely in order to express his railroad's views in a local controversy. But journalism proved a more fascinating career, and it was not long before Major Stahlman gave all his time and thought to it. Under his ownership The Nashville Banner became a real force in the newspaper world. Untroubled by doubt of any course decided upon, the publisher cast at his competitors every missile in a remarkably well-stocked arsenal. Like all men of his type, he had warm friends and bitter enemies, and kept them both. His death marks the passing of another "personal journalist," the type that predominated a generation ago.

NOMINATING OUTSIDERS.

The Constitution provides that a Representative in Congress must be a resident of the State from which he is elected. It does not say that he must reside in the district which elects him. Long political custom, of course, has made it seem almost obligatory that a candidate for Congress must have lived among the constituents to whom he appeals. Otherwise, it is said, he will not understand their "needs." This is the point which the present Representative of the Sixth Congressional District in Brooklyn makes against the decision of Mr. Norman Thomas to stand for election there. While welcoming him to the contest, and promising him that he will be treated with every courtesy, Representative Somers remarks that Mr. Thomas, an outsider, cannot know the wishes and demands of the people in the district. But if he is elected he will find them out soon enough. Delegations asking for favors and appointments to office will lose no time in giving him the necessary information.

Instead of deprecating or condemning the nomination of a Representative from without a given Congressional district, it ought to be approved and the practice extended. It would give a desirable flexibility to our system. It would enable a party, or its managers, in a particular locality to invite some strong man of recognized ability whose domicile is elsewhere to give them and the public service the benefit of his appealing candidacy. On the other hand, if it happened that a capable Representative should lose election in his own district, for reasons not at all reflecting upon his public service or his character, it ought to be possible for him—as it would be perfectly legal—to seek a return to Congress from another district. As is well known, English parliamentary methods admit of such a change. Mr. Gladstone, rejected at Oxford, could go to another constituency; so could Mr. Balfour when beaten in Manchester; countless other Englishmen in public life have done the same thing. It would be not a bad thing for us if we were to do it, within the limits laid down by the Constitution. Instead of resenting Mr. Thomas as a "carpetbagger," politically speaking, we ought to be glad that he has, in this respect, set an example that could profitably be followed.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Feeding Wheat to Cattle. Suggestion by the government's agricultural experts that, in this period of deficient corn supplies and superabundant wheat, farmers feed wheat to their live stock has been received with much incredulity. Yet there have been occasions when exactly that expedient was adopted. It could hardly have occurred in any recent corn shortage, in which even the rapid rise of the price still left wheat far higher. But it may have been done to a limited extent in the corn-crop failure of 1901, when the farm price of corn was only 2½ cents a bushel less than that of wheat, and it was undoubtedly done in the earlier famous shortage of 1894, when the average farm price of wheat was barely 49 cents and corn nearly 46.

Agricultural statisticians of that year declared that "in districts where corn was scarce and wheat very cheap it was thought that the latter was used to some extent for four-footed feed," and in some of the season's estimates 10,000,000 bushels were added to total wheat consumption on that account. Two years later the average farm price of wheat had risen 23 cents above 1894, while that of corn had fallen 24, whereupon the statisticians proposed to reverse their previous calculation and deduct a handsome percentage from the wheat-consumption figures, on the ground that wheat was then so relatively dear and corn so cheap that human consumption would, to an appreciable extent, be shifted from wheat to corn. The politicians of that excited year, 1896, bettered the proposal and intimated that, with corn selling at 21½ cents on the farms, it would soon be used for fuel.

Censorship on Broadway. It is to be hoped that the leaders of the religious forces in this city will not push their campaign for a clean theatre too far. By insisting too strongly on censorship from the outside they are likely to defeat their own ends. Mr. Brady, whose new play has been purified of profanity by him in deference to the present crusade, stated an obvious fact when he said that a theatre is crowded as soon as public protest is made at a real or fancied indecency in the show it houses.

The leaders of the clean-up movement should realize that a play brought to court is bound thereby to do better business. While its fate hangs in the balance—and it usually hangs for several weeks—the box office is swamped with orders. That it is difficult to get a conviction has just been proved in the case of "Vanities," which most people think dull enough to have folded up if it had not enjoyed the stimulus of a prosecution.

The Actors' Equity Association joins with the more sensible religious leaders in opposing outside censorship. Equity approves a system of self-regulation as being far more likely to lead to a cleaner theatre. The attack from the churches will have served its purpose if it stirs the producers and actors to take action themselves against doubtful productions.

Lookouts for Smoke Offenders. In all the army of pole-sitters who have been breaking records and necks recently, at least ten are to do useful work as well as lofty perching. These are a group of Department of Health inspectors who will mount to the top of skyscraper towers next week and maintain a lookout on the horizon. Every cloud of unseemly smoke and soot will be run to earth, and those responsible will be warned to mend their ways.

This campaign against the smoke nuisance is to be constructive. The smoke inspectors have been trained in proper methods of firing boilers, and when they find an excessive amount of soot produced by a plant, they will be in a position to advise and instruct as well as condemn.

Sooty smoke is not only a public nuisance but a private extravagance. The Edison plant has one man constantly on duty to watch the smoke from its fires so that he may send word to the engine rooms when soot belches forth too freely. Generally that means faulty firing, though in an emergency, such as a sudden rainstorm coming to darken the city, the fires must be forced to meet the sudden demand for current.

Health Commissioner Wynne holds that New York air can be made as clean as country air, and he means to make it so. If his ten men with ten pairs of binoculars can sweep some of the dirt out of the air, New Yorkers will be duly grateful.

The Spring of Arethusa. To many it is still of moment when the archaeologist reports that he has discovered the spring of Arethusa. Most of us have the will to believe that Ulysses actually roamed the seas and lived on the Island of Ithaca, where

"Soft rains and kindly dews refresh
the field,
And rising springs eternal verdure yield."

Scholars have long agreed that Homer, though sometimes weak in geography, was careful in topographical descriptions which lend themselves to identification. In 1806 Sir William Gell, after extensive study, made the journey to Ithaca, and to him goes the credit of localizing the spring of Arethusa, which gushes from the base of the Coracian Rock at the southern extremity of the island.

Today the great cliff, semi-circular in shape, still overlooks the sea and is known by the name of Korax. The spring of black water still flows over the strata of rocks disposed in steps. But the spring has grown increasingly difficult of access, owing to the landslides which are apparently a feature of the coast. An ancient structure composed of great stone blocks of "cyclopean masonry and a supporting wall" seems to have been in part precipitated into the ravine below.

Is this the spring of Arethusa referred to in the dispatches? Or has M. Kyparissis, director of the Acropolis Museum, found another spring? The dispatch speaks of the "gigantic cyclopean architecture" of the rocky countryside from which the spring flows. This would identify it with the one found by Sir William Gell. It may be that M. Kyparissis will really prove that the modern island of Ithaca is the Ithaca of the Odyssey.

COOLING SYSTEM VAGARIES.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the Topics of the Times about artificially cooled theatres, you helped the Board of Health knock the props from under the people who have complained about their being too cool. If the complainants had been more explicit, or the investigators for the Board of Health a little more discerning, some credence may have been given to their statements, and possibly a remedy found.

Personally, I have found the general atmosphere of an air-cooled theatre ideal, after passing through an arctic blast just inside the main part of the theatre and for a few moments after being seated. Then gradually one begins to feel either the right or left arm near the shoulder getting cold, from the side and rear. In some theatres it is the right arm and in others it is the left, but always the same arm in the same theatre and the seat location makes no difference.

I have tried shifting my position to get away from the opening between the backs of the seats, and even tried tying a couple of theatre programs around my arm, but not much relief can be obtained except by warming the cold area with your free hand, and that is awkward, tiresome, temporary and distracts attention from the show. Women's sheer dresses make them feel it more, but men have admitted feeling cooler on one side than on the other, and suppressed sniffling is heard all evening. One does not carry a wrap when the outside temperature is in the 80s.

Low-Priced Apartments.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I take exception to E. E. Wood's letter wherein she states that "the $5-a-room-a-month apartments are the oldest and worst of the tenements."

I, as architect, was recently instrumental in completely remodeling and renovating two tenement buildings on the lower east side, with a view of providing improved sanitary living quarters for the poor at the extremely low rental of $5 and $6 a room.

Yet despite the fact that these houses are kept in first-class condition and the apartments are freshly painted, with modern improvements such as electric, steam heat and hot water, I find that the people of the neighborhood are not taking advantage of said improvements. Renting is poor. Why? A. L. SEIDEN.

Gas Companies Alert.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a letter to The Times Mrs. A. J. Costa wrote of accidents happening as the result of the extinguishing of gas by the boiling over of the contents of pots and other vessels on gas ranges. Mrs. Costa also said she "often wondered" why manufacturers of gas ranges had not taken steps to prevent, so far as possible, the accidents which are due to carelessness from one cause or another.

On certain ranges there is now a top burner control which prevents liquids from boiling over, and is usable with special utensils. For a few cents a small utensil may be purchased at gas offices which protects the range burners from boilings-over and the clogging of burners by grease. Every step is constantly being taken by the gas companies to prevent accidents of every character.

Suggestion for Shooting Thugs.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am sorry to see frequently such items as that in The Times today: "Wild shot kills girl as gunmen battle in a crowded street. Thugs, unhurt, escape."

Every one who has ever practiced with one knows that it is the tendency of a revolver to overshoot. Why are not our police instructed to shoot at the lower leg when firing at a thug? They have his entire length to stop a bullet, and if they miss, the bullet would go only a short distance before striking the ground and would be less likely to injure other persons. S. B. STRONG.

LAMENT PICARESQUE.

There was a day, the greenwood legend tells,
When bandits robbed with chivalrous caprice.
That day is gone. The modern brigand dwells
Feared and preserved by impotent police,
A spider of the city, spinning tricks
For scarfaced cutthroats. In his gory care
He guards immune the slayers by politics
And bribes with booty of the millionaire.
With bootleg gold he laughs at court assaults.
Snug in his armored limousine he rides,
A merchant prince of murder. No hand halts
The massacre of glamour. Now abides
No nut-brown villain brave as Robin Hood
Who made theft merry in a Summer wood!

PLAYGROUNDS NEEDED TOO.

Central Park Cannot Suffice for All Children.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Perhaps Mr. Ide, whose letter opposes mine, would have a different viewpoint if he would only spend more time observing the thousands of children in happy play in Central Park, and the boy-proof fences to which he objects, as they surround beautiful grassy plots enjoyed by mothers and babies in the small parks.

He is very much mistaken in saying that I oppose the extension of playgrounds in Central Park "on the ground that they are ugly." There is no reason why any playground should be ugly. My studies for over twenty-five years have convinced me that children have more real joyous happiness, and through this happiness gain more benefit to health and spirit, when their play is most free and least artificial.

If it would not take too long, I would enumerate the innumerable activities of children in Central Park that I have myself observed. Only this week I held my breath while a string of children played tag across huge boulders. When they reached a spot where it seemed they must return unless they could take a step about four feet high, I remarked to my companion, "That is too dangerous." She replied, "That is how the mountain climbers learned." I watched, and, sure enough, the larger ones managed to clamber up, with another of the party in pursuit of all appearing in a different direction some distance away, but the smallest could not take the step. I thought they would leave him to be caught, but the middle one reached down a hand, and the little one stretched up and was pulled up the big rock.

When one of these strings of children has visited the farmyard and the duck pond and the Zoo, and slid down some of the grassy hills, where this is not forbidden (and there are lots of places), and climbed through the bushes down to the edge of the lake, and thrown in pebbles to make rings in the water, and explored winding paths, finding bridges and tunnels, and fed the pigeons, and slid down high rocks, and ate lunch on the picnic grounds, and competed in races on the walks, and roller-skated and played ball and hop-scotch and jumping rope, I think they might return home feeling the stimulating effect of a day in the country.

I wish all city children might visit Central Park at least once a week, if not every day, to enjoy real country exhilaration and fun. Alas! In the smaller parks there must be substitutes for the exciting fun of a country visit, with its natural play and companionship in home groups of three and four. For those who cannot go many miles to Central Park it is most necessary to fix up artificial devices in place of the mountain climb and slides. A plot in the small park is set aside for concentrated amusement. This neighborhood park is a poor substitute for Central Park, but better than nothing. We need many, many more of them. MABEL E. MACOMBER.

READINESS TO SERVE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The generation and distribution of electric current involve enormous expenditures on fuel, human service and equipment. When a consumer pushes a button or pulls a cord, the electric servant appears instantly for the full use and enjoyment of the consumer, be it in the broad daylight, in the evening or the "wee sma'" hours of the night; be it just to light a cigarette, a reading lamp, to light up a grand ballroom, or to start electric machinery for its daily task.

Yes, the electric company is at its post twenty-four hours of the day to watch that no undue interruption of service be met by the consumer.

Ordinarily, there are two classes of consumers. One uses a little current at one time, regardless of how long it is used. The other uses a great deal of current at one time, regardless of how long it is used. Both classes want the current instantly at the same time. Common sense will tell that the former class of consumer, say Class A, needs much less equipment to be served than the latter class, say Class B consumer. Hence, Class B consumer should pay a certain charge, much more than Class A. Under the existing electric rate, both classes of consumers are charged equally for this phase of service.

Next comes a charge for current actually used during the month. Under the existing rate, when 200 kilowatt hours are used by a consumer the charge will be the same. Something wrong is being done to Class B consumer, because he, as a big-demand consumer, is certainly entitled to a reduction in the price.

To receive payment for services rendered, the electric company must go through certain processes which are alike to all consumers, like meter reading, bill preparation, &c.

The electric company is a business, not a philanthropic undertaking. It desires to do business in accordance with 1930 methods. Modern scientific research in the utility field has proved that utility commodities should be sold on the basis of demand or readiness to serve, service and commodity. This is just a progressive way of charging each consumer for what he really gets. The so-called small consumer has no right to get something for nothing, nor should the large consumer pay more than his burden is. Under the existing rate the small consumer, whose bill may amount to a dollar or two, is a heavy burden to some one else, the utility company and the large consumer. This is not just.

THOMAS AND INSULL DEBATE UTILITIES

DRY DISCUSSION LIVELY

Cherrington, Dry Leader, Has Set-To With Mrs. Kelly of the Sabin Organization.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Aug. 13.—The power interests have every intention of continuing their propaganda activities as they conducted them prior to the inquiry held by the Federal Trade Commission, Martin J. Insull, president of the Middle West Utilities Company, declared at the Institute of Public Affairs today.

Mr. Insull's statement was made in reply to questions put to him after his debate with Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for Congress from the Sixth New York District, on the subject of the ownership and operation of public utilities, which drew a record crowd.

Mr. Insull gave it as his personal opinion that "the education of the public has become more necessary since the inquiry than it was before."

Asserting that the two greatest problems of the power industry concern finance and public relations, Mr. Insull said "the latter is the most important, for unless we create a favorable public opinion we cannot raise money."

Mr. Thomas, in the debate with Mr. Insull, took issue with arguments in favor of private ownership and operation advanced by Mr. Insull and challenged particularly the effectiveness of regulatory commissions, which he described as putting one set of men to work watching the other, with watchers less well equipped with experts than the corporations they watch.

Insull and Thomas Tilt.

"If you admit that government regulation has fallen down, do you expect government operation to succeed?" Mr. Insull asked.

"Where we have had a chance at government operation the results have been more successful than commonly supposed," Mr. Thomas replied. "Government operation of railroads under very unfortunate limitations during the war succeeded when private operation failed. The propaganda to the contrary, in so far as it doesn't arise from deliberate misrepresentation, arises from the fact that the government wisely preferred to pay a deficit out of taxes rather than to accelerate rising prices by raising rates. The Interstate Commerce Commission did raise rates for the private operators after the war."

Appearing before the institute again as the principal speaker at the evening meeting in the crowded open-air amphitheatre Mr. Thomas set forth his views on "democracy and the individual in a machine age."

"Herbert Hoover talked bravely in the campaign of the virtues of 'rugged individualism,' but rugged individualism has not been the keynote of his administration by commissions," Mr. Thomas declared.

"It is absurd to talk of economic individualism in the old sense in a land of chain stores, chain banks and even chain farms, a land where a roomful of men control the credit resources of the country, and about the same number the major part of our electric power."

Enumerating what he termed the essential liberties which must be respected in a machine age, he said: "Among these essential liberties the America of the bitter wet-dry controversy will notice I have not classed the right to drink with the right to think. Society has a right to deal with any traffic that does social harm, with liquor as with worse narcotics.

"Society should not exercise that right without a disinterested ascertainment of fact about the social effects of alcohol as may be possible and it should not and cannot enforce laws affecting widespread habits without widespread support. It is for these reasons and because of them, to mind, demonstrated failure of prohibition to do more good than harm, that I am not a prohibitionist."

Prohibition Is Debated.

Mr. Thomas's statements regarding prohibition were a reflection of the forum discussion he attended at noon when possibilities of enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment were debated by Mrs. Marion Booth Kelly, lieutenant of Mrs. Charles H. Sabin's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, and Ernest F. Cherrington, secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism.

"Many of us believe," Mrs. Kelly said, "that it is legislation based on the needs of the weakest and most degraded of us. We believe that the form of American life is the healthy in body and mind and that to make the basis of law the necessity of the maladjusted, the vicious and the diseased is false psychology."

If the prohibition problem is solved it will be through scientific principles of education, Dr. Cherrington stated in replying to the arguments of Mrs. Kelly for repeal of the amendment, bringing applause from the audience when he said that "any individual or any group has a perfect right to seek the repeal or the change of the law, but no American citizen has any right to disregard or violate that law or to lend his influence toward its violation or its nullification."

CONFER ON PLANS TO CUT STAGE COSTS

NATION-WIDE MOVE STARTS

Relief Sought by Managers From Operating Expenses—Workers Ask Changed Conditions.

The first of a series of nationwide conferences between motion picture and vaudeville interests and stage hands' unions, with a view to reducing labor costs and changing working conditions, began here yesterday when representatives of five leading circuits presented demands to Locals 1 and 4, Theatrical Protective Unions.

Officials of Radio-Keith-Orpheum, Warner Brothers, Publix, Fox and Loew picture and vaudeville houses presented a joint demand for "relief" from present operating expenses. While details of the conference, which was held in the Loew executive offices, 1,540 Broadway, were not made public, it was understood that the relief is sought in the modification of overtime pay and other extras, and in the reduction of crews. Local agreements expire Sept. 1.

It is expected that similar efforts will be made in the legitimate theatres here and also on the road, in burlesque houses and among motion picture projectionists. Every theatre in the country will be affected, it is said.

Theatre owners contend that the retention or the increase in the use of variety acts depends largely on the degree to which the stage hands will cooperate in reducing labor costs. It is understood that the owners are not seeking direct wage cuts, but a rearrangement of wage and overtime schedules.

The situation in motion picture houses recently became complicated by the addition of variety acts to the programs.

Thousands of stage hands are idle, it is reported, because the talking pictures temporarily eclipsed legitimate, vaudeville and burlesque productions.

At yesterday's conference the following theatre representatives were present: Harry Sherman, Publix; Major Leslie E. Thompson, RKO; Harry L. Charnas, Warner Bros., C. C. Moskowitz, Loew, and H. M. S. Kendrick, Fox. The stage hands were represented by Walter Maher, president, Local No. 1; John Fay, Local No. 4, Brooklyn, and members of their committees.

Union officials indicated that they felt they would be able to reach an understanding with the theatre owners without recourse to a strike.

THERESA HELBURN BACK WITH 2 FRENCH PLAYS

Guild to Produce 'Lui' and 'The Coward'—Censor Passed 'Strange Interlude' for London.

Theresa Helburn, executive director of the Theatre Guild, who arrived from Europe late Tuesday night, brought back two plays by French authors for Guild production, but reported that only in Germany is the theatre as alive as it is in America. In Berlin, she said, "the new generation is making its own tradition."

Miss Helburn also arranged for the London production of "Strange Interlude," which, she declared, had been passed by the Lord Chamberlain without a single deletion. The play will be produced over there in November, and will be played by an English cast. Gilbert Miller will be associated with the Guild in making the production.

The two French plays brought back by Miss Helburn are "Lui," by Alfred Savoir, and "The Coward," by H. R. Lenormand. Miss Helburn reported that Eugene O'Neill is working on a play that he hopes to have ready for production some time during the season after this.

The Theatre Guild will start its season on Oct. 13 with the production of Maxwell Anderson's "Elizabeth the Queen," which will have Lynn Fontanne, Alfred Lunt and Albert Carroll in its chief rôles.

"Torch Song" at Plymouth Aug. 27.

"Torch Song," Arthur Hopkins's first production of the season, is announced to open at the Plymouth Theatre on Wednesday night, Aug. 27. The leading rôle is now being played by Mayo Methot.

"Torch Song" is the work of Kenyon Nicholson. There will be a preliminary performance in Great Neck on Saturday night of next week.

THEATRE GROUP OPENS TELEGRAPH SALE PLAN

2,000 Offices of Postal Company Instructed to Obtain Tickets for Out-of-Town Patrons.

Reservation of seats for shows in New York City by out-of-town theatregoers, as announced by the League of New York Theatres in its plan for operating a system of selling tickets by telegraph, became effective yesterday when Colonel A. H. Griswold, executive vice president of the Postal Telegraph and Cable Corporation, issued an order placing about 2,000 of the company's offices at the disposal of the league as its agents.

The new service will be in direct charge of A. B. Allsopp, vice president of the telegraph company. Under the plan the offices will receive a list of the current productions and the box office prices.

Only orchestra seats will be available under the plan. There will be no brokerage fee charged, the tickets to be sold at the box office price plus the cost of the money order transfer and a confirming telegram. If the patron wishes to have the tickets delivered to a New York City address a messenger will complete the service.

POLICE EVICT HOBOES IN DOWNTOWN 'LODGE'

'Jungle' Near Civic Centre Had Catacomb Comforts, but It's in Ruins Now.

Two dozen gentlemen, members of a very old profession indeed, returned to the sordid world yesterday convinced that New York is not so much of a Summer resort after all. They left behind them four or five cakes of soap, a clothesline, two scrawny cats and a number of aged shoes. They had been driven from their rustic lodge, a taterdemalion set of caves which—after the police had finished with them—looked like the ruins of Carthage.

Situated in the middle of New York's civic centre, the hoboes' homestead boasted park exposure on its longest side. Across from it was a stately building and on the west a wide street. Finally, there was what must have seemed a monumental jest. For just to its north towered the architecture of the Tombs, a constant reminder that life sometimes can be difficult.

It was early in June that the first of the inhabitants trooped into town. They looked round a bit and then discovered the block between Centre and Lafayette Streets. The buildings there—including one of the late Eads How's lodges for hoboes—had just been torn down and the subterranean runways looked charming under the moon. The visitors decided to stay a bit.

As the tourists' rest became known it increased in population and in the decorative arts and crafts. Bungalows were built amid the scattered brick foundations. Doors were obtained from here and there, and two of the swankier places boasted mirrors. There was a bed for practically every resident, a soft couch made of straw, newspapers and crushed stone.

Then came the depression. Some one reported the tenants to the Elizabeth Street station and yesterday three patrolmen were sent on an eviction party. They arrived, spoke and conquered in the space of about ten minutes. Then, while the late residents gathered in the park across the street for a little unofficial hissing, the officers tore down all the wooden homes.

ADOPT CHILD LABOR ACT AT CHICAGO MEETING

Uniform Law Commissioners Approve Restrictions for Children Under 14 Years.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13 (AP).—A model child labor act was adopted today by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, and will be recommended to State Legislatures for approval.

It provides that no person less than 14 years of age shall be employed for gain, except that boys between 9 and 14, provided they fulfill school requirements, may distribute or sell newspapers or periodicals. Gainful employment was defined as gainful pursuit of any trade, occupation or labor except agriculture, domestic service and athletic games. Subject to school and health regulations, boys could work on a farm or caddy on a golf course.

In necessary cases boys and girls between 14 and 18 years could get permits to work, except in a list of prohibited occupations deemed detrimental to health, provided they fulfilled school and health requirements. Any firm or organization employing children between these ages would be required to post a conspicuous notice.

SHANOVER IS DEMOTED.

Detective Penalized on Charge of "Framing" Robbery Suspect.

It was learned at Police Headquarters yesterday that Detective William Shanover of the Bedford Avenue police station, who has been on trial before Third Deputy Police Commissioner John A. Leach in the Police Disciplinary Court, on charges growing out of criticism by County Judge Franklin Taylor of Brooklyn, had been demoted from detective third grade and ordered to patrol duty.

Judge Taylor accused Shanover of obtaining promotion and a citation for bravery by telling a false story, which caused Benjamin Wagner, a pugilist, to be sentenced to a thirty-year term on a charge of robbery.

No decision regarding the findings of the Disciplinary Court has as yet been made public. But it was learned that Shanover had been ordered to report for patrol duty at the Hamilton Avenue police station at 8 o'clock this morning. It was also learned that he had been passed over on the sergeant lists, on which he stood 347th.

RUFFU WILL IS PROBATED.

Value of Former Atlantic City Mayor's Estate Still Unrevealed.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 13.—The will of Mayor Anthony M. Ruffu Jr., victim of a grade crossing accident, was admitted to probate by Surrogate Albert C. Abbott today. It was offered by two executors, Charles J. Harrold and Ernest Curtis.

Their next step will be to appoint several appraisers to go over the estate and submit an inventory. The Bankers Trust Company recently declined to act as administrator because the estate, consisting mostly of real estate, was being subjected to heavy mortgage foreclosures and was shrinking as a result.

While it has been estimated in some quarters that the estate is worth $1,228,000, no appraisal has been made. Mr. Harrold said an estimate could not be made until the appraisers had finished their work.

Questioned concerning the liabilities, Mr. Harrold said he was equally in the dark concerning them.

Application of Rockwell Kent, painter, author and explorer and a group of residents of the Ausable River Valley for immediate resumption of service on the Ausable Forks-Plattsburg branch of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad has been denied by the Public Service Commission, according to an announcement yesterday.

Mr. Kent, who owns a 200-acre farm at Ausable Forks, N. Y., was joined by the other residents in his application for rehearing on another general application for restoration of service. Public Service Commissioner George R. Lunn began hearings on the latter application in June and another session has been set for Sept. 5 in Albany.

Philip W. Lowry, attorney for the petitioners, announced after the decision had become known that Supreme Court Justice Carew had granted an order compelling the Public Service Commissioners to show cause before Justice Staley in Albany on Saturday why a peremptory mandamus should not be issued, directing them to order the railroad to restore service at once.

DR. S. C. SWALLOW, NOTED DRY, DIES, 91

WAS METHODIST MINISTER

An Ardent Foe of Liquor and Tobacco—Fought Pennsylvania Political Machines.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 13 (AP).—The Rev. Dr. Silas C. Swallow, whose work as a prohibitionist many years ago gained nation-wide attention, died suddenly at his home here today. He was 91 years old. In 1904 Dr. Swallow was nominated for President by the Prohibition party. He retired from the Methodist ministry a number of years ago.

Dr. Swallow married Miss Rebecca Louise Robins of Elysburg, Pa., on Jan. 20, 1886. They observed their sixty-fourth wedding anniversary this year. Mrs. Swallow is in a hospital, having fractured a hip in a fall several weeks ago.

As a reformer of another age, Silas Comfort Swallow was probably one of the most ardent enemies of liquor, tobacco and secular amusements this country has ever seen. He was known in Pennsylvania as "the fighting parson," and, although he had many opponents, was consistently respected and even feared by the political leaders of the State. He made many attacks half a century ago on the State political machines, calling his foes "the Capitol-burning gang at Harrisburg."

Dr. Swallow was born near Wilkes-Barre, Pa., in March, 1839, and spent his early life on his father's farm. His father became ill, and the son, then only 14 years old, was obliged to take over the management of the farm, doing most of the work himself. Eventually, teaching school at odd times, he managed to get enough money to pay for his education in law at Wilkes-Barre.

A religious revival which he attended during his school days, however, made him change his mind and he decided to take up theology. In 1862 he entered the Methodist Episcopal ministry at a salary of $100 a year, preaching on a circuit of sixteen towns. He later took up religious work in Harrisburg and there edited The Pennsylvania Methodist.

He was the author of a book, "III Score & X," published in 1911, in which he told of his experiences as a preacher and reformer. He wrote that he threw his tobacco box away in 1864 and vowed never to smoke thereafter except on the written order of two physicians that he must do it to save his life.

PATRICK A. ROCHE DEAD; NOTED ON BROADWAY

Sportsman and Cafe Owner of Days of John L. Sullivan Is Victim of Heart Attack at 72.

Patrick A. Roche, noted café proprietor and fight enthusiast of the Broadway of thirty-five years ago, a sports enthusiast and friend of needy actors and pugilists, died of heart disease last night in his suite at the Hotel Breslin, Broadway and Twenty-ninth Street, where he had been living for the past twenty-five years.

Mr. Roche, whose friends called him "Senator" because he had served a term at Albany, representing the old First District of Manhattan, was 72 years old. Formerly he operated Roche's Cafe, on the site of the Hermitage Hotel, which was a rendezvous for actors, sportsmen and politicians and which was said to be the first establishment of its kind in the city that was furnished with plush carpets. He also was a fight promoter and fight announcer. As an announcer he officiated at the seventy-two-round bout between John L. Sullivan and Jake Kilrane many years ago.

In recent years Mr. Roche spent every afternoon in a certain chair in the Hotel Breslin lobby, where guests, some of whom knew him only as "the little white-haired man," saw him receiving calls from a host of old friends, to the needier of whom he was wont to lend a helping hand. He was well-to-do, having been successful in real estate ventures. He built the old Brighton Beach Hotel which was burned down about ten years ago. He owned a collection of thirty-five paintings, which are in a Manhattan storage warehouse.

Last January Mr. Roche's health broke down and he went to Florida for five months. After his return to New York he never went far from his hotel. This was the first year that he had missed the races at Saratoga, according to a friend, James Aarons, also a hotel guest.

Mr. Roche is survived by two nephews, Tom Drum, an employe of the Water Department, and John Drum of 9 Madison Street, an insurance agent. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

JAPAN'S NAVY RATIO AROUSES CONFLICT

Admiral Richmond Asserts That Oriental Nation Was Best Judge of Her Own Needs.

Legation Secretary Says Policy Toward His Country Is Generally Friendly.

By LOUIS STARK.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 13.—Sharp differences of opinion on Japan's cruiser ratio demands at the London Naval Conference were brought out at the Institute of Politics today between William R. Castle Jr. Special Ambassador of the United States to Japan for the period of the naval conference, and Admiral Sir Herbert Richmond, K. C. B., of Great Britain.

Sir Herbert disputed Mr. Castle's contention that the 10-10-6 ratio gave Japan the necessary security, and argued that Japan was as well qualified to judge of her needs as was Mr. Castle.

Mr. Castle, who is an Assistant Secretary of State, was unable to be present. In his paper, which was read, he asserted that in Japan the United States was held to be solely responsible for the refusal to agree to the Japanese terms, "although it was perfectly clear that Great Britain would not agree to the 10-10-7 ratio in large cruisers, wheatever we might do."

The aim of the London Naval Conference, which Japan at last realized, was, according to Mr. Castle, "the security of the nations concerned, a security resulting from the fact that no nation could be challenged by any other nation in its territorial waters."

Mr. Castle said he regarded the 10-10-6 ratio as giving Japan the necessary security which she demanded. Referring to the impasse on the technical questions arising from the demands of Japan and those of the United States and England, Mr. Castle declared that at a conference such as the one in London technical consideration was not the only problem.

Love of Peace Called a Factor.

"Whatever professional naval men may think of the matter, the fact remains that the safety of the nation does not depend solely on its fighting ships," he said. "A nation with no fleet worthy of the name that is bumptious and quarrelsome is likely to be quickly brought to heel. A nation that is peace-loving, that honestly tries to get on with its neighbors, is not in so much danger of being attacked, even if it has a small fleet. If carried too far, of course, this idea becomes pacifism and foolishness in a world that is not governed solely by morals, but within reason it is merely common sense.

Mr. Castle minimized the points of difference between Japanese and American policy which had been generally regarded as holding the seeds of a possible conflict.

Admiral Richmond attacked Mr. Castle's argument against the Japanese demand for a 10-10-7 cruiser ratio. This reasoning, he said, might have been used by Great Britain to oppose the 10-10 cruiser ratio between the United States and Great Britain.

"There is no doubt that if the United Kingdom were to say, as Mr. Castle says of Japan, that a 6-10 ratio would be enough because it is our opinion that that figure would render the United States safe in her own waters, the States would, and very properly, resent any such assumption that any other power could or might dictate what she needed," the Admiral asserted.

To Mr. Castle's observation that even if the United States had agreed to a 10-10-7 ratio, Great Britain would have objected, Admiral Richmond would express no opinion, but he doubted whether one could rightly introduce "such hypothetical issues into a discussion of this kind." He said he did not believe that the attempt to throw the burden of opposition on Great Britain's shoulders was a very happy one, as the only things that mattered were the facts, "and the facts are that the opposition came from the United States."

Japanese and Chinese Speak.

The general conference at which Japanese-American relations were discussed, was conducted by Professor George H. Blakeslee of Clark University. The other speakers were Yusuke Tsurumi, former member of the Japanese Diet; Dr. Roy H. Akagi, author; Judge Yuen Li Liang, secretary of the Chinese Legation in Washington; Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, U. S. N., and Commander T. C. Kincaid, U. S. N.

Mr. Tsurumi supported Mr. Castle's view that America and Japan have no conflicting interests in China, also that Japan was not interested in the Philippines.

Mr. Tsurumi made a plea for cooperation between the liberal nations of the West, especially the United States and Great Britain, and his country. He asked the Western nations to recognize the difficult economic situation in Japan and to take a liberal attitude toward his country in the matter of equality of economic opportunity.

Dr. Liang said the present Japanese policy toward China, except perhaps as regards Manchuria, was generally one of friendliness, and the indications were that Japan was falling in line with the United States in its fundamental policies toward China.

Admiral Hepburn also scouted the idea that war between Japan and the United States might result from a clash of interests in China or the Philippines.

Japan Immigrant Quota Urged.

Professor Blakeslee maintained that the one issue which stands in the way of a complete understanding between Japan and the United States was the immigration situation, which, he said, may possibly be adjusted by placing the entrance of Japanese on a quota basis. Due to the political situation in this country Professor Blakeslee suggested that the initiative in any movement to change the immigration laws regarding the Japanese must come from the Pacific Coast.

BROKER'S WIFE ROBBED OF $25,000 JEWELRY

Looting of Mrs. R. T. Stone's Apartment at Montauk Hotel Revealed—Barry Suspected.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTAUK POINT, L. I., Aug. 13.—Mrs. Robert T. Stone of 885 Park Avenue, the former Miss Carolyn Frances McCoon, lost between $25,000 and $75,000 worth of jewels at the Montauk Hotel a week ago Saturday, it was revealed here today. The police suspect Arthur Barry, fugitive from Auburn prison, of having stolen the jewels.

Mrs. Stone, her husband, who is a Wall Street broker, her sister, Miss Edith McCoon, and a party of friends who were on a yachting trip, put into Montauk Harbor on Aug. 2 to spend the week-end at the hotel and retired rather early, according to the police. During the night a thief entered the Stones' apartment and gathered up all the jewelry on the dressing table without disturbing the sleepers.

Chief Michael Glynn, head of the Montauk police, seemed reluctant today to discuss the robbery and no details were forthcoming from him. The hotel management admitted, however, that the thief had entered Mrs. Stone's room and made off with the jewelry. The management put the loss at $25,000.

Barry has been at large since the prison break at Auburn about fourteen months ago and for the past five months Nassau County detectives and detectives in Suffolk County have been forced to admit that the series of robberies in the homes of the wealthy residents during that period seemed to be his work. The thief has an accurate idea, in every case, of where the jewels are kept and when the owner will be out or asleep.

MT. VERNON BUS PLAN ADOPTED BY COUNCIL

Substitution on Five Trolley Routes Approved After Measure Is Amended.

Ordinances providing for the substitution of buses on five trolley routes leading out of Mount Vernon, effective next Jan. 1, were passed last night by the Common Council of that city. Similar ordinances passed by the council several weeks ago were vetoed by Mayor James Berg, who objected to certain clauses concerning trackless trolleys. The objectionable clauses had been removed from the new ordinances, however, and they were understood to have the Mayor's approval.

The routes on which the substitution will be made are: the Lincoln Avenue-Pelham line, the East Third Street-Pelham line, the Fifth Avenue line, the Tuckahoe line and the Bronxville line. These lines are operated by the Westchester Electric Company and the New York, Westchester and Connecticut Traction Company. The ordinances provide that the substitution shall be made subject to the approval of the towns of Bronxville, Tuckahoe, Pelham and North Pelham, which will be affected by the change.

Another ordinaance passed by the Common Council provides for the removal of trolley tracks from Fourth Avenue, Mount Vernon's busiest thoroughfare. To make this possible double tracks will be laid in Fifth Avenue and the cars now running through Fourth Avenue will be routed through Fifth.

LOCKED UP IN LOT DEAL.

Two Realty Men Accused in $10,000 West Englewood Sale.

Thomas A. Ross and Arthur A. Beckwith, president and treasurer, respectively, of the real estate firm of Ross, Beckwith & Todd, 4 West Thirty-first Street, were locked in the East Sixty-seventh Street station last night on charges of grand larceny growing out of an alleged real estate deal.

The complainant, Morris Moskowitz, a glazier, of 1,136 First Avenue, said he purchased two lots in West Englewood, N. J., from the prisoners on July 16, paying them $2,500 in stock certificates and $100 in cash and agreeing to pay an additional $100 monthly to make up the price of $10,000. Moskowitz said he learned on Tuesday that the property he thought he owned title to was not for sale and never had been. The men told the police they were the authorized agents for the property.

TWO FREED OF WINE PLOT.

Case Against "Bishop" Mrzena and Six Others Goes to Jury Today.

After the government had rested its case yesterday in the trial of Charles Mrzena, self-styled Bishop of the Czechoslovak Orthodox Old Catholic Church, and eight codefendants for alleged conspiracy to divert sacramental wine to bootleg channels, Federal Judge Edwin S. Thomas dismissed the charges against Frank Pellino and the B. R. B. Trucking Corporation.

The defense called no witnesses. The case is expected to go to the jury today. Moses Polakoff, attorney for the defendants other than Mrzena, in summing up addressed Bruce Barton, juror, who when questioned as a talesman last week said he thought that the prohibition law was bad but that it should be enforced.

"I can't disagree with that proposition," Mr. Polakoff said, "but, as a matter of fact, there are dozens of laws affecting personal habits, personal regulations, personal liberty, that are unenforceable."

FREED IN NICOTINE DEATHS.

Proprietor of Alleged Speakeasy Cleared After Liquor Tests.

Richard Geratano, proprietor of an alleged speakeasy at 1,786 First Avenue, was discharged in Homicide Court yesterday when toxicologists testified that liquor said to have been found in his establishment did not contain nicotine. Nicotine poisoning caused the death of two men in his place on Aug. 3, according to physicians.

The victims. William Peters of 327 East Ninety-third Street and John Reichel of 1,656 Third Avenue, died a few minutes after drinking some "rye whisky" in the place, the police asserted.

WETS IMPARTIAL ON RIVALS.

Westchester Women's Group Approves Two in Congress Race.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Both Supervisor Charles D. Millard of Greenburgh and John W. Holzworth of Port Chester, candidates for the Republican nomination for Congress from the Twenty-fifth District in Westchester, are satisfactory to the New York State division of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, it was announced today.

Mayor Walter G. C. Otto of New Rochelle will not be the Democratic candidate in the Twenty-fifth District Congressional race, it was announced today by Chairman Harry T. Foley of the County Committee. Mr. Foley said he was informed of Mayor Otto's decision last night. The Mayor said a clause in the New Rochelle charter forbade him to hold both the Congressional and city positions and he felt he could not give up his work for the city.

Savings Bank Tax 1% of Surplus.

A typographical error in THE NEW YORK TIMES of Aug. 10 quoted Henry Bruère, vice president of the Bowery Savings Bank, as saying savings banks were taxed at the rate of 4½ per cent on net income. This rate should have been 1 per cent of surplus.

$141,296,636 BUDGET SOUGHT FOR SCHOOLS

READY FOR ESTIMATE BOARD

$39,000,000 Building Program, $4,000,000 More Than for 1930, Also Recommended.

CLINIC FOR THE BACKWARD

$161,078 to Be Spent on Retarded Pupils—Budget Rise Laid to Growth of System.

The largest school budget in the history of the city, calling for an expenditure of $141,296,636.81 in 1931, was adopted by the Board of Education yesterday afternoon in the form of a proposed departmental estimate subject to the approval of the Board of Estimate. The budgetary estimate represents an increase of $4,883,079.52 over this year's.

Debt service expenditures and expenses incurred by other city departments for various school purposes will bring the total cost of elementary and secondary education in 1931 to more than $175,625,000, a record figure.

The board, acting at a regular semi-monthly meeting, created the new post of Deputy Superintendent of Schools in order to provide for emergencies in the absence of the Superintendent. Dr. Harold G. Campbell, an Associate Superintendent, was thereupon named to the position.

The contract for the construction of the Brooklyn Technical High School, the cost of which led to temporary opposition to the project by the Board of Estimate, was finally awarded. The board provided for the assignment of teachers to registration booths for the giving of literacy tests to new voters. That will obviate the necessity on the part of voters of taking the examination in one place and registering in another.

$39,000,000 Building Program.

In approving the budgetary proposal, the board submitted a memorandum showing that the building program for 1931 will call for an expenditure, out of corporate funds, of $39,000,000, an increase of about $4,000,000 over this year. That estimate was not, however, included in the departmental estimate.

The record increase in the budgetary estimate is due, for the most part, to the natural growth of the system, which, according to Frederick Chambers, the board's auditor, would automatically have called for an extra outlay for 1931 of between $3,500,000 and $4,000,000.

The additional allowance is making it possible for the board to launch the first comprehensive effort to deal with the most perplexing problem of the elementary schools—the retardation problem.

In the first place, an appropriation of $100,000 was made for the establishment of a behavior clinic to deal with "problem" children.

The clinic will be divided functionally into three divisions. There will be a clinic "as such, for curative work with acute and chronic cases which arise from day to day," headed by a psychiatrist at a salary of $10,000 and an appropriation of $27,332. Then, provision was made for a branch for "preventive work among younger children when signs of maladjustment first appear," supervised by a psychiatrist as assistant clinic director at an annual salary of $7,000 and additional outlays of $25,486.

An appropriation of $16,428 was made for a third clinical division for "follow up work with employed paroled children." One district supervisor, six case workers and two clerks will be in charge of the follow-up work. Altogether the clinic will employ thirty-nine persons.

The establishment of the clinic was urged by President George J. Ryan of the board and recommended by a special committee on retardation which reported that similar clinics were operating in practically every large city.

Plans Study of 1,000 Children.

Further providing for the reduction of retardation, the board, adopting the recommendation of the special committee, approved an appropriation of $20,428 to enable the Bureau of References, Research and Statistics to conduct a case study of "approximately 1,000 retarded and non-retarded pupils in five to ten selected schools with high and low per cents of retardation."

Two psychologists, five visiting teachers, two psychiatrists and clerks will be employed for the study.

In addition, the bureau will make a survey to determine the "level of intelligence of pupils throughout the city." An appropriation of $6,000 was made for test materials to be used for a group of 50,000 pupils.

A similar sum was provided for the assignment of five teachers to the bureau for the purpose of training other instructors in the administration of mental tests so as to provide one or two teachers with special knowledge on the subjects to every school.

Provision was also made for the assignment of skillful teachers for individual instruction to retarded groups in twenty schools.

Cost of Fight on Retardation.

Altogether the initial battle against the retardation difficulties will cost the city $161,078 in 1931.

	Teachers.
Elementary Schools.
Fall of 1930	246
Spring, 1931	236
Fall, 1931	264
Total	746
Junior High Schools.
Fall, 1930	23
Spring, 1931	20
Fall, 1931	20
Total	63
Senior High Schools.
Fall, 1930	120
Spring, 1931	328
Fall, 1931	57
Total	505

In connection with the appointment of additional elementary school teachers the finance committee reported:

"As a result of the policy of the board during past years in allowing extra teaching positions for reduction of oversize classes in day elementary schools, the average register for the entire city for the regular grades is now 37.9 pupils per class. However, there are still a number of classes with excessive registers and the committee has allowed 200 extra teaching positions to make further reduction of such oversize classes. In addition, the committee has allowed 154 extra teaching positions for 28 new buildings to be opened during 1931 and the necessary overhead positions for such buildings."

The training school staff was left at its present level, as the pupil registration has been decreasing, and ten vacant positions have been abolished in the past year.

The budget provides for the assignment of 36 teachers to the new Brooklyn Industrial High School for Girls, which is expected to be completed during 1931. The general industrial staff in the city was, in addition, increased by two instructors.

Other new teaching positions approved were:

Compulsory continuation schools	39
Home teachers for home-bound pupils	7
Ungraded classes	50
Open air classes	10
Sight conservation classes	6
Classes for the deaf	1
Speech improvement groups	8
Vocational guidance	5
Adult illiteracy	10
Health education classes	6

Included in the budgetary allowances was an appropriation of $22,007 for the establishment for the first time of a Summer evening high school. The board also approved an increase of the number of day high schools in the Summer from ten to eleven.

No provision was made for the decrease of the pupil load of evening elementary schools, and evening high schools also were left at the present financial level.

An increase of thirty vacation playgrounds was approved. Forty-three new locations for after-school athletic centres were also provided for. The appropriation for school garden activities was increased by $2,125.

Custodial service will cost $174,777 more in 1931 than this year, and coal expenditures will rise by $269,600.

For repairs to school buildings and equipment the board asked $4,350,000, an increase of $312,000 over 1930, and for new supplies and equipment $237,003 more than last year. The sum of $125,000 was provided for the improvement and extension of the continuation school buildings.

One of the few items which register a positive decrease is that for transportation of crippled children and of normal children in outlying districts to schools. The decrease is estimated as in excess of $12,000, and is due to the rerouting and reduction of bus routes.

The board intensified its efforts to reduce the ranks of the unemployed licensed elementary school teachers. It called for the granting of a larger number of extended sabbatical leaves of absence.

The board anticipates an increase in State money allowances.

A committee was appointed to study the requests for an increase in the salaries of Board of Education clerical workers.

The Brooklyn Technical High School will be constructed by the Fredburn Construction Corporation at a cost of $2,496,401.

25% of All Accidents Caused By Automobiles, Records Show

Automobiles figure in 25 per cent of the accidents occurring nowadays, according to an analysis of style changes in accidents made public yesterday by W. McK. Hillas, vice president in charge of the accident bureau of the Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York. Injuries due to operation of motor cars average 700 a day.

Things were different two decades ago. In 1911 only one in every forty accident cases involved the automobile, whereas the major cause of street accidents was the horse-drawn vehicle, with the bicycle as runner-up.

"Airplanes have not yet become sufficiently common to figure prominently in our statistics," said Mr. Hillas, "but travel by air is on the increase, so that the hazards of aviation are certain to have a definite effect upon the accident records of the future."

MARKETS BUDGET $1,262,991.

Dwyer Says Increase of Nearly $500,000 Is for Improvements.

Thomas F. Dwyer, Commissioner of Public Markets, announced yesterday that he had submitted to the Mayor and the Director of the Budget his 1931 budget in which he asks for appropriations of $1,262,991.50, an increase of almost $500,000 over the $765,250.50 allowed the department for 1930.

The increase, he said, was requested to improve the public markets. The largest item, $186,330, is for improvements at Wallabout Market, Brooklyn, where new sheds and other facilities need to be built, according to the commissioner.

For repairs and replacements at the Queensboro Bridge Market at the foot of East Fifty-ninth Street, Manhattan, $54,850 is asked, and another $50,000 is for reconditioning the Bronx Terminal Market, Mr. Dwyer said.

Commissioner Dwyer said also that his budget request included a provision to increase the personnel of his kosher squad from five to ten.

Other public markets to be improved if the budget is adopted are the Washington Market, Manhattan, for which $17,975 is asked for repairs, and West Washington Market, Manhattan, for which $12,500 is requested.

SEEK STOLEN REYNOLDS.

Boston Police Get "Tip" Minto Portrait May Be There.

BOSTON, Aug. 13 (AP).—The Boston police today received word from New York which caused them to start a search here for a painting by Sir Joshua Reynolds, valued at $150,000, which was stolen from the home of the Earl of Minto in London in July. The information received here was to the effect that the painting either had been smuggled in through this port or that an attempt might be made to do so.

The painting is that of the first Lady Minto. A reward of $10,000 had been offered for its recovery.

The portrait of the first Countess of Minto was stolen the morning of July 27 from the home of the Earl and Countess of Minto in the Mayfair district of London. The thieves also took jewels valued at $110,000.

Some experts put the value of the Countess of Minto portrait at $50,000. It had been in possession of the family for several generations.

TWO HELD FOR DUEL THAT KILLED A GIRL

SIMILAR CASE IS RECALLED

Brother of Mileto Arrested Three Years Ago by Same Detectives When Stray Bullet Hit Child.

Two alleged gangsters who, the police assert, participated in a pistol duel which resulted in the killing last Sunday of Sandino Cammorato, 11 years old, as she was entering her home at 347 East 114th Street, were arrested late Tuesday night and held without bail in the Homicide court yesterday for examination Monday. By a coincidence, two of the detectives who made the arrests on Tuesday arrested a brother of one of the suspects three years ago after a chase during which a stray bullet killed a 9-year-old girl.

The prisoners taken Tuesday were Louis Mileto, 29 years old, of 305 East 115th Street, known as "Cheesecake," and Frank "Zip" Marrono, 32, of 413 East 114th Street. Both have police records, the detectives said.

Detectives Andrew O'Connor and G. Cavone, who aided in the arrests, three years ago arrested Solly Mileto, brother of Louis, who was wanted for a payroll robbery and murder in Mount Vernon, N. Y. At Broome and Mulberry Streets he broke away and ran. The detectives fired five shots after him. A stray bullet struck and killed Pauline Giannattion, 9 years old, who was returning home with her grandmother from a moving picture theatre. This shooting was in front of the Church of the Holy Crucifix. Solly was caught and, according to the police, received a sentence of twenty years in Sing Sing.

Mileto and Marrono were questioned by Inspector Vincent Sweeney in the police line-up. Mileto denied that he had a weapon or that he did any shooting. He said that he saw an automobile pull up to the curb at 114th Street and First Avenue on Sunday afternoon. Four men got out and opened fire on him, he declared. He explained that he ran from one side of the street to the other and that when the Cammorato girl fell the four assailants re-entered the car and drove away.

Marrono, who said he worked as a bartender in a speakeasy on Lenox Avenue, denied he was at the scene of the shooting on Sunday.

Although the detectives have questioned more than 100 persons in the vicinity of the shooting, none was able or willing to identify the two suspects as the participants in the duel. The arrests were made after a tip had been telephoned the police.

Captain Louis Hyams, in charge of the Harlem detectives, said yesterday he was certain that Mileto and Marrono were the two who fired at each other in the crowded street and caused the death of the Cammorato girl. He said it was the belief of the detectives that the two had quarreled over a woman. No trace of the weapons used in the duel has been found.

ANTI-SEMITE ACQUITTED.

Students Demonstrate Outside Prison for Rumanian Leader.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUDAPEST, Aug. 13.—The trial of the anti-Semitic leader, Celea Cordreanu, ended today in his acquittal, as was expected.

The verdict was preceded by disorderly scenes outside the prison, where masses of students demonstrated for Cordreanu, threatening vengeance if he were found guilty.

Cordreanu was charged with glorifying the anti-Semitic attempt to assassinate Secretary of State Angelescu. The public prosecutor took an appeal from the verdict.

The Marmorosch Synagogue was burned to the ground, according to reports made today, contradicting the government's statement of yesterday. Manolacha, a court official at Marmorosch, was arrested and charged with setting fire to the synagogue, but friends established an alibi for him and he was released.

ACTRESS ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Lina Basquette, Widow of Sam Warner, Craves for Lost Child.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13 (AP).—Lina Basquette, stage and film actress and widow of Sam Warner, motion picture executive, was treated for a slight case of poisoning at the receiving hospital late last night after police said she admitted a suicide attempt. Miss Basquette was registered at the hospital as "Eleanor Copeland," but later admitted her identity, police said, after her maid, Irene Zastro, had broken down under questioning and given her employer's true name.

Police surgeons found the actress had not been seriously poisoned and released her to her personal physician. They said she told them her act was prompted by her failure to obtain the custody of her 11-year-old daughter, Lita Warner. The child was adopted by a brother of Sam Warner after the latter's death.

SUICIDE PUZZLES POLICE.

They Find No Motive to Explain Death of A. A. Kenyon in Newark.

Examination of the personal effects of Adelbert A. Kenyon, who slashed his throat and leaped from his fifth-floor room at the Newark Athletic Club Tuesday night, revealed no motive for his suicide, Detective Captain Philip Sebold of Newark said yesterday.

Among the effects were letters from the man's wife, summering with his children at Edgartown, Mass., but these gave no clue to the motive.

Mr. Kenyon was 62 years old and lived at 303 Elmwynd Road, Orange, N. J. He was living at the athletic club while his family was away. He was secretary of the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company and was reputed to be wealthy.

Captain Sebold said there was nothing to substantiate rumors of financial difficulties.

Receiver Named for Newark Bank.

Theodore Ackerson, president of the Franklin Washington Trust Company of Newark, was named equity receiver for the Port Newark National Bank by Federal Judge Runyon in Newark yesterday, under $100,000 bond. The bank was closed last Friday by the Controller of the Currency after receivership proceedings had been filed by Edward M. Waldron, a stockholder.

Drive to Purify City's Air Started by Wynne; Aides Sent Atop Skyscrapers to Trace Smoke

Health Commissioner Wynne believes that New York's atmosphere can be made as pure as country air, and acting on this belief the Health Department will begin next week a study of means to abate the city's smoke, which now cuts off about 40 per cent of the sunshine.

Ten Department of Health inspectors will view the city from the top of skyscrapers to see where the bulk of the smoke comes from. Three of these inspectors will work in Manhattan, three in Brooklyn, two in the Bronx and one each in Queens and Staten Island.

Smoke has an "insidious" effect upon the health of the city, Dr. Wynne asserted, pointing out that by shutting out a large percentage of the sunlight, large quantities of the beneficial ultra-violet rays are prevented from giving their "invaluable health benefits to the city's millions."

"These rays, it is now known, prevent rickets in children, being essential for the formation of strong bones, properly shaped skulls and sound teeth," Dr. Wynne said. "They also seem to protect both children and adults against the respiratory diseases, such as colds, pneumonia, influenza and tuberculosis."

The Health Commissioner announced that punitive measures will be taken against persistent offenders under the sanitary code. Dr. Wynne said that he felt satisfied that strong measures will not be necessary and that good results would be obtained by simply calling the attention of offenders to the smoke nuisance. Health Department experts will advise on best methods of getting rid of smoke, once the offending sources have been located.

NEW GAS RATE FOES ARGUE CITY'S STAND

Hotchner Accuses Taxpayers' Counsel of Misinterpreting Testimony to Hilly.

SAYS HE ASKS FLAT CHARGE

Special City Attorney, at Brooklyn Hearing, Resents Hint He Favored Minimum Bill.

A dispute between counsel representing opposition to the proposed initial charge of 95 cents for the first 200 cubic feet of gas supplied by the Brooklyn Union Gas Company was renewed yesterday at the rehearing before the Public Service Commission on the company's application for a change in its rate schedule.

At the hearing last week, Robert J. Schneider, representing the Ridgewood Taxpayers' Association, and Cornelius M. Sheehan of the People's Civic League expressed "surprise to hear that the city favored a minimum bill," although Dr. John Bauer, rate expert for the city, explained that he did not favor a minimum bill but rather a flat rate, conceding, however, that a "moderate minimum bill would not be unreasonable" if the commission overruled the plea for a flat rate.

When the hearing opened yesterday, Mr. Schneider told Chairman Milo R. Maltbie and Commissioner Maurice Burritt that Corporation Counsel Hilly, whom he had visited in the meantime, was opposed to any form of minimum bill and would be satisfied only with a charge for the actual amount of gas consumed.

"Mr. Hilly told me," Mr. Schneider said, "that he stood with us and would be satisfied to pay only for the gas we burn."

"We do not accept Mr. Schneider's interpretation of what was said here last week," Maurice Hotchner, special counsel for the city, interrupted. "The city has favored a flat rate from the beginning. The record speaks for itself."

Mr. Maltbie intervened to say that "if Mr. Hilly is not satisfied when he reads the record he can correct it."

Several employes of the company testified concerning the functions of their departments and the costs of conducting work supervised by them. It has been the contention of the company that it served apartment house customers at a loss because of the small quantity of gas they consume.

Phineas S. Berry, manager of the company's Flatbush branch, said only 10 to 15 per cent of the apartment houses were covered by personal collectors and about 85 per cent of the bills were collected by mail. The method was reversed with respect to single-family houses, he testified. The average cost of personal collections was estimated at 10 cents each.

Other witnesses were Ira C. Temlet, supervisor of customers' accounts for the Flatbush branch; Emil J. Bartell, superintendent of meter repairs, and Thomas J. Perry, superintendent of the customer service division.

The hearing was adjourned to Sept. 4 at 10:15 A. M.

SALMAGGI HURT IN CRASH.

Manhattan Opera Director in Auto Mishap at Montreal.

MONTREAL, Aug. 13 (AP).—Alexandre Salmaggi, director of the Manhattan Opera Company, who is to put on an open-air performance of "Aïda" here late this month, was injured in an automobile accident tonight. He suffered a dislocated shoulder and scalp wounds.

The director was riding in a car with Wladek Zbyszko, wrestler, when their vehicle collided with another. Physicians said Salmaggi probably would be able to go through with the scheduled performance.

GAS KILLS MRS. GILPATRIC.

Ex-Connecticut Treasurer's Mother's Death Believed Suicidal.

PUTNAM, Conn., Aug. 13 (AP).—Mrs. Jessie Hodges Gilpatric, mother of the late G. Harold Gilpatric, former State Treasurer, was found dead in a gas-filled room of her home here this morning under circumstances which indicated suicide. She was 74 years old.

Her son served as State Treasurer until he was convicted in 1924 of embezzling a large sum of money from the First National Bank of Putnam, of which he also was cashier. He died in the Atlanta penitentiary.

G. P. PUTNAM QUITS PUBLISHING FIRM

Vice President Resigns as Minton, Balch & Co. Is Merged With Concern.

COUSIN ACQUIRES HIS SHARE

Reorganization of Old-Established House Places Newcomers on Board of Management.

The resignation of George Palmer Putnam, vice president and treasurer of G. P. Putnam's Sons, publishers, of New York and London, was announced yesterday by the firm. Mr. Putnam has disposed of his interests in the business, it was disclosed, to his cousin, Palmer Cosslett Putnam, son of the late Major George Haven Putnam and grandson of the founder of the house.

Simultaneously it was announced that Minton, Balch & Co., one of the younger publishing firms, at present located at 205 East Forty-second Street, will become a part of G. P. Putnam's Sons. The management of the latter firm will hereafter rest in a board consisting of Irving Putnam, president, brother of the late Major Putnam; Melville Minton, vice president; Palmer Cosslett Putnam, treasurer, and Earle H. Balch, secretary.

Edmund W. Putnam, son of Irving Putnam, will become vice president and director of the Putnam bookstore. Both the publishing offices and the bookstore are located at 2 West Forty-fifth Street.

George Palmer Putnam, who was reached at Oyster Bay, L. I., last night, said his resignation would take effect at once. He had no definite plans for the future to announce at this time, he said.

Mr. Putnam, a nephew of the late Major Putnam, has been an official with the Putnam firm since 1919, and is widely known as an explorer as well as a publisher.

The publishing house of Putnam is the oldest firm in America under continuous ownership and management. It was founded in 1837 by the first George Palmer Putnam, one of the pioneers of American publishing, the friend and publisher of Washington Irving and James Fenimore Cooper.

Minton, Balch & Co., which is to remain as a separate entity in the new organization, was formed in 1924 and is at present sponsoring the first biography of former President and Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court William Howard Taft.

APPEALS TO ROOSEVELT TO EXTRADITE PIZZINO

Michigan Governor Ready to Come for Hearing on Man Wanted in Buckley Killing.

DETROIT, Aug. 13 (AP).—Governor Green of Michigan tonight made a personal appeal to Governor Roosevelt of New York to honor a requisition for return to Detroit of Theodore Pizzino, under arrest in New York City as a suspect in the killing of Gerald Buckley, radio political commentator.

Governor Green said, after sending the telegram, that he was holding himself ready to proceed to Albany at any time if Governor Roosevelt should find occasion to accept his suggestion of a personal hearing. In the telegram he told the New York Governor that "the reputation of the courts of Michigan for justice is a guarantee that Pizzino will receive a fair trial."

Police allege that Pizzino was one of three men who fired eleven bullets into the radio operator's back in the lobby of the La Salle Hotel here the night of July 23.

Pizzino, wanted in Detroit for the murder of Gerald Buckley, radio announcer and anti-vice campaigner, began a fight to avoid extradition to Michigan yesterday when his attorneys, former Magistrate Michael N. Delagi and H. Bennett Solomon, obtained a writ of habeas corpus from Supreme Court Justice John E. McGeehan in the Bronx.

At the request of Acting District Attorney Barney Mogilesky, Justice McGeehan postponed hearing on the writ until Tuesday noon. Mr. Delagi said that he had witnesses who would testify that Pizzino was in New York at the time of the murder of Buckley on July 23 and that he would oppose extradition on the ground that his client could not get a fair trial in Detroit because of the feeling aroused by the shooting there.

"Pertinax," After His Visit, Diagnoses the United States

Andre Geraud—"Pertinax"—the French expert on international affairs, recently toured the United States. In The New York Times Magazine, next Sunday, he gives his impressions.

M. Geraud does not take the view of others that the image presented today by the American people will be before long that of all peoples, swept on irresistibly in imitation. He sees us suffering from a "malady of youth," which is but a passing phase of a rapidly-growing civilization.

ASKS 3-STATE DRIVE TO CLEAN HARBORS

PLANS PLEA TO HOOVER

Decides After Inspection Trip to Ask Action by Governors of New York, Connecticut and Jersey.

The menace of polluted waters and floating derelicts in New York Harbor and in 150 miles of adjacent waterways will be the subject of a Federal grand jury presentment to be drawn next Tuesday and offered with recommendations for speedy action to President Hoover, Governor Roosevelt, Mayor Walker and to the Governors of New Jersey and Connecticut.

This was announced yesterday following an inspection of the harbor and the East River by the Federal grand jury in Brooklyn under the direction of United States Attorney Ameli. Simultaneously, United States Attorney Tuttle announced that he would call on the Federal grand jury for an inspection of Manhattan waters within the next few days, with a view to drafting a similar presentment.

Tomorrow afternoon officials representing the three States, including health officers, Mayors, Representatives in Congress, county prosecutors and sewage experts, will meet at the Hotel Astor to adopt a program for cleaning up the harbor and adjacent waters. The conference was called after a meeting of Mr. Tuttle and Mr. Ameli with United States Attorney Philip Forman of Trenton, N. J., and Captain Drake R. White, supervisor of the Port of New York. A telegram was sent to the Federal Attorney at Hartford, Conn., asking that he cooperate in the tri-State drive.

Grand Jurors View Wrecks.

The grand jurors felt a stiff, chill wind on their morning trip up the East River on Captain White's steamer Lamont. Mr. Ameli and Captain White pointed out dozens of half-submerged hulks, cut adrift in defiance of the harbor law and allowed to float with the tides.

The grand jurors also heard reports from Dr. Daniel D. Jackson of the chemical engineering department of Columbia University and Commodore Edwin B. Lapham, first vice president of the Waterway League of America. Dr. Jackson, who has been prominent in fighting harbor pollution since 1903, warned that the city's millions faced a possible epidemic because of the accumulation of sewage in the surrounding waters, and urged that the authorities dispose of sewage more scientifically. Commodore Lapham said that some 2,000 derelicts were in the New York waterways and were a serious menace to ferryboats, hospital ships and pleasure steamers, as well as to smaller craft.

"Hitherto," Dr. Jackson declared, "the oxygen in the water has been sufficient to absorb the poisonous wastes by proper redistribution of sewage, but at the present time the oxygen is down to zero in many places."

Dr. Jackson said, in answering questions, that present plans call for an up-to-date sewage plant on Ward's Island, which will relieve the situation as far as upper Harlem and Bronx sewage is concerned, but declared such modern equipment should be used for all city waste.

"The situation," he concluded, "involves more than an appropriation by the city or a recommendation by the Mayor. It involves New York State, Connecticut, New Jersey as well as the Federal government. Measures for relief should come out of the authority vested in those States. It is really a tri-State project, except for the filling in of the harbor, which is a Federal matter. More plants should certainly be built."

Tells of Damage to Propellers

Commodore Lapham spoke next at the invitation of Mr. Ameli. He discussed the menacing condition of the harbor and adjacent waters caused by floating hulks, timbers from decaying piers and driftwood generally. In addition to endangering the lives of many thousands who use the rivers, he said the wreckage caused damage to propellers alone of more than $1,000,000 annually.

"I should estimate that 2,000 derelicts are floating with the tides in New York waters, and some 200 around the Weehawken area.

"Ferryboats and hospital ships carrying thousands of poor children for a little fresh air outing are continually threatened by this menace. Recently engineers found a depth of ten feet instead of the usual twenty at the McComb's Dam Bridge. They investigated, expecting to find a shoaling, and instead found an accumulation of timbers."

Both Dr. Jackson and Commodore Lapham will offer written reports to the grand jury to aid that body in drafting its presentment. Dr. J. Richard Kevin, who attended as representative of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, announced afterward that he would lay the situation before that body.

SAVED FROM MURDER TRIAL

Meshel, Once Spared From Life Term, Wins Again on Legal Point.

Legal technicalities, which once rescued David Meshel from life imprisonment, yesterday saved him from facing trial for murder when an indictment charging that crime was dismissed by Judge William Allen in General Sessions. Meshel, who lives at First Street and Second Avenue, had been accused of shooting Harry Zuckenburg in a card game last March 3. Dismissal was granted when Max Rothenberg, Meshel's lawyer, satisfied the court that the grand jury minutes did not link the defendant with the crime.

Court records showed that Meshel received a suspended sentence on a misdemeanor charge in 1919, a sentence to Sing Sing for burglary in 1923, sentence to Dannemora for felony in 1926 and to life imprisonment there as a fourth offender the following year. The Supreme Court, however, amended the life term to a shorter one on the representation that a suspended sentence was not equivalent to a conviction.

Will Rogers Sees Respite For the Glacier Park Fish

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 13.—See where Mr. Hoover has given up his trip to Glacier Park. They can start in letting those fish eat regular again now. Any man that can stay in Washington this long during such a Summer, why really there is not enough left of him to take a vacation.

Sure glad to see Joe Robinson come through so strong in Arkansas yesterday. Those men that he was associated with in London on the conference thought Joe was just about one of the biggest men in the country. About 1932 you are going to hear an awful lot about this guy if the Democrats decide to enter a man at all.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

I. R. T. FIGHTS RAZING OF 6TH AV. ELEVATED

Asserts Removal of Line Would Cost the Abutting Property-Owners $26,700,000.

DENIES OPERATING LOSS

Arguments in Summary to Be Presented at Estimate Board Hearing on Sept. 4.

A denial that the Sixth Avenue elevated line is operated at a loss and the assertion that its condemnation and removal will cost abutting property owners from $26,700,000 to $40,000,000 are contained in a summary, made public by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company yesterday, of its arguments against Borough President Miller's plan to raze the structure. The summary contains many arguments already advanced before the Board of Estimate and to be restated at Transit Commission hearings, which begin on Sept. 4, dealing with the question of whether or not public convenience and necessity warrant retention of the line while the new Sixth Avenue subway is being built.

The summary, entitled "Demolition of the Sixth Avenue 'L' a Public Calamity," will be distributed to civic associations and individuals and, according to Frank Hedley, president of the company, was prepared "in response to numerous requests for information concerning the proposal to deprive the public of an important rapid transit facility."

The company repeats its assertion that no insuperable engineering obstacle stands in the way of safe operation of elevated trains while the new city subway is being dug, and repeats its declaration that the line is a vitally needed transit link. Opening of the city's new Eighth Avenue line, it declares, will not take care of passengers now using the elevated route.

The Sixth Avenue line, the company says, yields enough revenue from all sources to pay in full all operating expenses, including taxes and maintenance, with enough left over to apply about $1,600,000 to the rest of the elevated system annually. This, the company holds, is equivalent to a return of 4 per cent on $40,000,000 or 6 per cent on $26,700,000, and means that removal of the road will cost the taxpayers something between those two amounts.

"Fantastic and roseate plans for the improvement of Sixth Avenue are adroitly made dependent on the removal of the L in order to enlist the support of property owners, speculators and others who pretend to believe that thoroughfare can be made to eclipse Fifth Avenue as a business street," the pamphlet declares. Such a result, it adds, is only "a tax upon the imagination, and cannot come to fruition."

Mr. Hedley uses the pamphlet to reiterate his belief that the only real relief for present traffic congestion is to be found in the construction of new trunk subway lines. He again voices his doubt that the elevated lines can be spared if at all, for many years to come.

TEMPERATURE HERE DROPS TO 56 DEGREES

New Low Record Established—Frost in New England and Pennsylvania Hurts Crops.

Dropping to 56 degrees at 6 A. M. yesterday the official thermometer added another new record to the numerous ones established in the recent heat wave and served to continue the almost unprecedentedly topsy-turvy weather which so far has marked the month of August. Partly cloudy and somewhat warmer weather may be expected today, with possibly local showers tonight, the Weather Bureau said last night.

Yesterday's low mark surpassed by one degree the record low for Aug. 13, established in 1902. The highest point reached by the official thermometer yesterday was 74 at 2 P. M., and the day's average was 65, nine degrees below the normal for the forty-six years in which the local Weather Bureau has functioned.

Frost was reported from numerous localities in New England and Pennsylvania and dispatches to The Associated Press showed that the cool weather extended over most of the East and much of the Middle West. The lowest temperature reported yesterday was 33 degrees at Brimfield, Mass., not far from Springfield.

The second frost in as many days settled over Venango County, Pa., and caused widespread damage to tomatoes, cucumbers, corn and many vines. Bloomsburg and Delano, Pa., were other points visited by the frost.

DELANY SUCCESSOR NAMED.

Dr. G. M. Williams Accepts Rectorship at St. Paul's Church, Brooklyn.

The Rev. Dr. Granville Mercer Williams, rector of St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church, Clinton and Carroll Streets, Brooklyn, has accepted election as rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Forty-sixth Street between Broadway and Sixth Avenue. His election and acceptance were announced yesterday by Newbury Frost Read, secretary of the board of trustees of the church.

Dr. Williams will enter upon his duties Oct. 1 next. He will succeed the Rev. Dr. Selden P. Delany, who a few weeks ago resigned and shortly afterward entered the Roman Catholic Church.

TESTIMONY REVEALS $421,925 DOYLE FEES

Eight More Clients and Expert Accountant Tell of Payments Increasing 3-Year Income.

DEFENSE OPENS TODAY

Will Ask Dismissal on Ground Indictment Was Drawn in Wrong Jurisdiction.

TO TELL OF SHARING FEES

Deduction of Large Amounts From Gross Income Indicated as the Basis of Defense Plea.

United States Attorney Tuttle completed presentation of evidence against William F. Doyle in the Federal court yesterday by introducing testimony to show that the veterinarian received a total of $421,925 during the past three years, as compared with the $229,075 he declared in his tax returns.

Mr. Tuttle called to the stand the last eight of a group of ninety-eight clients whom Doyle represented in his practice before the Board of Standards and Appeals during the chairmanship of William E. Walsh. He also recalled a Department of Justice accountant to put in the record additional deposits of $48,463 not previously sworn to by clients who told of fees paid to Doyle. Doyle is charged with income tax evasion and perjury.

At the announcement of government counsel that they rested their case Judge John E. Martineau adjourned court for the day and the defense prepared to open this morning.

Mr. Falk said last night that he would move this morning for the dismissal of the indictments on two grounds, lack of proof and failure to show that the action was brought in the proper jurisdiction. The attorney said that while the 1928 and 1927 tax returns were sworn to in Manhattan, they were filed in Brooklyn, which is in a different Federal court district.

"Mr. Doyle may take the stand," he said. "That remains to be seen."

Doyle, it was said, would present evidence to show that he split a large number of his fees with persons who brought clients to him and that when the total of these splits was deducted from the gross fees his actual income was that which he swore to in his tax returns.

Doyle May Not Take Stand.

Defense counsel declined to say whether the veterinarian would take the stand in his own behalf and it was understood that a decision on this would await developments during the testimony. If Doyle should go on the stand he would be subject to cross-examination by Mr. Tuttle which would have a wide latitude and might open the way for the United States Attorney to examine him closely about the details of his activities before the Standards Board, which has been under fire for some months.

During the examination of government witnesses Mr. Tuttle was prevented from asking Doyle's clients about anything but the amount of fees they paid and the form the payment took and his original effort to indicate possible reasons for the veterinarian's unusual power before the board was halted at the beginning of the trial by a ruling of Judge Martineau. If Doyle takes the stand in his own defense the door might be opened wider for cross-questioning about more phases of his work before the Standards Board.

Here is a list of the eight additional clients who testified to fee payments to Doyle, the amount of fees and the types of case in which he represented them:

Client.	Fee.	Case.
Murray Kellner	$4,250	Zoning.
Robert Martinelli	250	Filling station.
Joseph M. Eisen	250	Garage.
Dr. H. D. Pasachoff	500	Zoning.
Joseph Steinberg	250	Zoning.
David Rosenbloom	150	Filling station.

These witnesses all testified to paying Doyle by check, the smaller checks constituting retaining fees in actions which were not successful, Doyle fixing the remainder of his fees on a contingent basis and not collecting if the action failed. A majority of the ninety-eight clients called to the stand during the trial said they made their payments by checks, although some, including Ely Maran, a Bronx builder, said they paid partly in cash at the request of Doyle. Mr. Maran said he paid $31,500 of his $52,300 fees to Doyle in cash.

Said Doyle Cashed $71,250 Checks.

Herbert J. Flesher, the Department of Justice accountant, was recalled by Mr. Tuttle for further questioning about the deposits in Doyle's account in the Flatbush branch of the Corn Exchange Bank. During the early portion of the trial Mr. Tuttle brought out that in a number of instances Doyle took checks received from clients to this bank and instead of depositing them, cashed them at the window and then either deposited a share of the cash or none at all. In his testimony Mr. Flesher said that his analysis showed that $71,250 of such checks received by Doyle from clients had been handled in this way.

"In view of the testimony of bank tellers cashing checks at the bank," asked Mr. Tuttle, "would it be your deduction as an expert that Doyle cashed these checks which were not deposited?"

Samuel Falk, associate defense counsel, was on his feet with an objection to any "deduction" and Judge Martineau interposed, "I think that's a conclusion which the jury can reach as easily as this witness can."

Mr. Tuttle then questioned the accountant further about his analysis and brought out the testimony about additional deposits not covered in checks or testimony offered by the clients who took the stand. During 1927, he testified, these deposits totaled $23,212.81, during 1928, $17,287.30, during 1929, $7,963.76—a total for the three years of $48,463.87 which Mr. Tuttle added to the $373,462 testified to by the clients, to give a total income of $421,925 for Doyle during the past three years, or $192,850 in excess of the income he declared.

TESTS MALL THRONG ON MUSIC MEMORY

SHORT EXCERPTS PLAYED

Prizes to Be Given Tomorrow, Based on Written Answers—Boy Scout Ushers Rewarded.

Music-lovers of the city had an opportunity to test their ability to identify standard selections at the annual music memory contest held last night on the Mall at Central Park by the Goldman Band, Edwin Franko Goldman conducting. One of the largest crowds of the season was present and, armed with pencils and blank programs, competed in the test.

The band played short excerpts from thirty selections which have been played on the Mall during the season. The excerpts ranged from passages from symphonies and classic overtures to more popular music of a lighter vein. On one occasion, when the band began the melody of the "Blue Danube Waltz," a titter from the audience indicated that it was unanimously recognized.

1. Tannhaeuser	Wagner
2. The Barber of Seville	Rossini
3. Wachet Auf	Bach
4. Fourth Symphony	Tchaikovsky
5. Egmont Overture	Beethoven
6. Second Hungarian Rhapsody	Liszt
7. Judas Maccabaeus	Handel
8. Rienzi Overture	Wagner
9. Beautiful Blue Danube Waltz	Strauss
10. Overture to Ruy Blas	Mendelssohn
11. Faust	Gounod
12. Dance of the Tumblers	Rimsky-Korsakoff
13. Bamboula	Coleridge-Taylor
14. La Traviata	Verdi
15. Pinafore	Sullivan
16. Spring Song	Mendelssohn
17. Punchinello	Herbert
18. The Deluge	Saint-Saens
19. Stars and Stripes Forever	Sousa
20. Tales of Hoffmann	Offenbach
21. The Bohemians	Hadley
22. Anvil Chorus	Verdi
23. Moment Musicale	Schubert
24. Flight of the Bumble Bee	Rimsky-Korsakoff
25. Humoresque	Dvorak
26. Miserere from Il Trovatore	Verdi
27. Kiss Me Again	Herbert
28. Song Without Words	Tchaikovsky
29. The Swan	Saint-Saens
30. Stepping Along	Goldman

Prizes consisting of one silver and two bronze medals will be awarded to the winners, whose names will be announced by Mr. Goldman tomorrow evening.

Before the concert a special meeting of about 100 Boy Scouts representing fourteen troops who have served as ushers at the concerts was held, at which prizes were awarded to those who had attained the highest percentage of efficiency and courtesy during the season. The first prize, a gold watch donated by Mr. and Mrs. Daniel and Mr. and Mrs. Murry Guggenheim, was presented by Mr. Goldman during the intermission to Scout Kenneth Arnold of Troop 534, Manhattan. Second prize, consisting of a vacation in the Greater New York Scout Camps in Sullivan County was awarded to Scout Edward Nelson of Troop 566, and honorable mention was accorded to fifteen others.

"PROSPERITY STREET,"—"a mean road of narrow, cramped houses, in a growing industrial city of the North of England," which forms the background of Barnaby Brook's story of a modern statesman and his rise from obscurity.

"THE CHRIST OF THE FOREST," by Robert Michel—permeated by a simple pastoral folk. Its author is a German poet and the book was originally written in his native language.

"APRIL FOOLS," a comedy of bad manners by Compton MacKenzie.

"THE WOMAN IN THE SHADOW," in which Louis Joseph Vance gives us a romance with a setting in Hungary—the story of an American girl adopted by a prince.

"MONARCHY OF PASSION," by James Clark Bennett—"a gaudy, artificial story of a wealthy physician who married a poor beautiful girl."

The ninth annual flower show opened today in the Community House at Bridgehampton. Proceeds from the show, including sale of all cut flowers, vegetables and fruit, and sale of cakes, pies and preserves, will be given to the Community House.

An impressive display of homespun bedspreads included many family heirlooms. Many of them were made in Bridgehampton a hundred or more years ago. A class for miniature gardens had ten entries, many of them cleverly worked out. One had a tiny vine-covered stone wall around it. Another, a "Creole Garden," boasted many varieties of cactus, as well as miniature palms and exotic plants, surrounded by a pink stucco wall with a green gate at either end.

One of the most interesting exhibits was a potted cotton plant grown out of doors this Summer. Ernest Clowes, a Summer resident of Bridgehampton, who raised the cotton plant, was chairman of the flower show committee; Mrs. Clarence E. Peck was vice chairman, Carroll Rogers, secretary, and Mrs. Charles Wiley, treasurer.

The Nation's Electric Bill

for commercial and domestic purposes last year was in excess of $2,000,000,000. Yet less than 10% of our farms have electric service, only about 1% of our 250,000 miles of steam railroads are electrified, only about 55% of the total power requirements of the country are supplied electrically and domestic consumption is growing at a rate in excess of 10% annually.

The electric light and power companies are destined to benefit materially from the ever-increasing demands for electric service which must eventuate in the course of our normal national growth and expansion.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Recover as Wheat and Corn Decline—$8,800,000 Gold Taken for Paris.

Yesterday's stock market, after an early brief decline, advanced in the later trading, the later recoveries ranging in numerous stocks from 4 to 14 points. The rise was very commonly ascribed to the day's continued fall in corn prices, from which the inference was drawn that the grain trade did not believe the corn-crop situation to be as bad as corn-belt dispatches had appeared to indicate. Neither the day's unfavorable reports from trade nor the engagement of $8,800,000 more gold for Paris—making total shipments since the outflow began, almost exactly a month ago, $76,300,000—appeared to receive attention.

The market's response to the course of grain prices showed how greatly the point of view has shifted in a fortnight. Two weeks ago, declining wheat prices were the chief source of apprehension, but yesterday's recovery in stocks occurred along with a further 2⅝-cent fall in wheat, whose price closed yesterday 11 cents under the price to which, last Thursday, it had risen from the low figure of the season. Wheat in Chicago now stands only 3¾ cents above the lowest. But the simultaneous 6½-cent fall in corn from last week's highest price attracted far more notice, and the stock market acted accordingly. In some respects the action of grain prices is bewildering. Corn for September delivery, notwithstanding yesterday's decline, is now selling very nearly 8 cents a bushel above wheat; something which is probably without precedent on the Chicago market's record.

Sterling held firm, but exchange on Paris closed at the lowest rate in more than a month; possibly foreshadowing reduced requisitions from that market on our own gold supplies or London's. The statement of Great Britain's foreign trade last month reflected the difficulties under which that country is laboring on the international market. That exports and imports should both decline in total value from a year ago, when average British prices have been reduced 13 per cent or more in the period, followed necessarily. But the value of the month's import trade has fallen only 9 per cent from 1929, whereas exports have been reduced 23 per cent. Our own latest foreign trade report showed 24 per cent decrease in value of exports but 26 per cent decrease in imports also.

The midweek trade surveys give evidence of slackening activity. In most of them, this is a natural incident of the vacation season, but not in all. Movement of goods by railway ought normally to be increasing at this time of year, in preparation for Autumn trade. But the carloadings reported yesterday, covering the week ending Aug. 2, are with one exception the smallest of any unbroken week since April, and they are also, except for 1921 and 1922, the smallest for the period since the war. Their decrease from 1929 is 17 per cent, as against 14½ per cent decrease in July, 13⅜ in June and 11¼ in May. In the week, even loadings of merchandise and miscellaneous freight were 17 per cent below last year.

That steel production should decrease is not unusual for midsummer; but the trade journals now place the rate for the industry as a whole at 52 per cent of capacity, as against 54 last week, about 56 in July and 72 at the opening of June. Actual July production, according to last week's Iron and Steel Institute figures, was the smallest of any month since 1922 except for the period May to September, 1924, inclusive. The Iron Age frankly ascribes the absence of recovery from July's inactivity to "a renewed spirit of caution" created by the crop-damage news.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Wall Street's shifting moods were reflected yesterday in a stock market that blew hot and cold by turns and which closed with a burst of confidence that was in striking contrast to the earlier weakness. Most of the leading issues on the Stock Exchange were lifted sharply in the late rally and the final quotations were at or near the best levels of the day. In many instances substantial losses were turned into gains, although a considerable number of issues had lost ground when trading ended. The recovery seemed to Wall Street to have its inspiration in a rush of short covering, but this impression probably was based on the absence of any "constructive news" to account for the late buying. Indications of fright on the part of speculators for the decline were seen in the swift rise in the last hour of some of the volatile issues such as J. I. Case and Vanadium. Other stocks which closed with respectable gains on the day were United States Steel, American Can, North American, Worthington Pump, Peoples Gas, Eastman Kodak, Auburn Auto, General Electric and Johns-Manville. Transactions on the Stock Exchange totaled 2,289,210 shares.

Through the Looking Glass.

Traders who have been nurtured in the old bull market school of Wall Street procedure are finding current events a little topsy-turvy. The short interest is now the dominant factor in the market, just as the long interest was last year, and as a result everything works in reverse. When a sudden rally in the market is ascribed to "profit-taking," the effect is confusing to those who always have associated the closing out of commitments with weakness in stock prices. Similarly the present tendency—noticeable after yesterday's publication of the lower ratio of steel operations—for the market to rally somewhat on bad news as shorts cash in represents a surprising reverse of the well-known process of "selling on the good news."

High Speed Tickers.

The announcement by the New York Stock Exchange that its high-speed ticker service will be placed in operation on Sept. 2 comes at a time when the morale of most brokers is at low ebb. A year ago, one broker remarked, the Stock Exchange had a low-speed ticker and high-speed trading. The cycle has now been completed, under current conditions, with low-speed trading prevailing and with prospects of a high-speed ticker next month.

Foreign Exchange Transactions.

There has been much speculation in foreign exchange circles as to the nature of the recent gold shipments to France. Those who have contended that the shipments could not represent straight exchange transactions pointed yesterday to the fact that $8,809,000 gold was sent out with the franc down to 3.93⅜ cents, a level well below the gold export point. According to one theory, the shipments are special transactions on behalf of the Bank of France arranged by operating against sterling. It is suggested that the bank has purchased sterling with which to buy dollars with which to obtain gold for the shipments. Another group of foreign exchange experts considers it unnecessary to seek so elaborate an explanation. Convinced by the fact that there has been no great selling of francs in this market, that the deals are not ordinary exchange transactions, this group believes the movement represents simply the withdrawal by the Bank of France of some of its heavy balances in this market. Such withdrawals, it is remarked, could be made with the franc at any level.

Today's Reserve Bank Statement.

The extent of the purchases of United States Government securities made at the close of last week will be revealed in today's statement of the Federal Reserve Bank. While the purchases are understood to have been substantial, they have not succeeded in preventing a firmer tone in the call-money market during the last few days. As a result of this firmer call rate, the bank probably has received larger offers of bills this week, and a rise in the acceptance portfolio should be shown. Discounts are not expected to show much change and may be somewhat lower, it is thought, since there was an increase in member borrowing last week, following the first-of-the-month demand for funds.

An Unusual Visitor.

New York & Harlem preferred paid yesterday one of its unusual visits to the Stock Exchange. Fifty shares sold at 167½, down 60 points from the previous sale, which was made in April, 1928. The road controls the site of the Grand Central Terminal and is leased to the New York Central. Minority interests brought action to better the terms of the lease for the N. Y. & H., but nothing has been heard of these efforts recently.

Missouri Pacific.

Declaration of the regular Missouri Pacific dividends served to recall that arrangements for the payment of back dividends on this issue have yet to be completed. Under the management that went out of office recently, it was planned to pay the overdue dividends with common stock. This plan, however, did not meet the approval of the Van Sweringen management when it came into power. It was at one time considering the issuance of a new preferred stock to pay off the arrears, but no plan has as yet been completed.

The Drought and Business.

The theory advanced yesterday in the weekly steel reviews that the seasonal revival in business had been delayed by the drought is accepted by many authorities in Wall Street. At the same time, several observers said the drought was not altogether a bearish development. One statistician calculated that the value of farm crops was substantially the same today as it was a month before the drought began, despite the decreased yield of many crops. "The drought," one banker said, "is nature's way of correcting a very bad situation which the government had vainly attempted to improve by an uneconomic program."

MONEY.

SOURCE OF INCOME & YIELD: Cash dividends and the net proceeds from the sale of stock dividends, stock rights, split-ups, etc., are received by the Trustee and are credited to the distribution fund and paid to shareholders semi-annually.

MARKETABILITY AND CONVERTIBILITY: The sponsors and distributors expect to maintain a close spread between bid and asked prices of National Industries Shares, Series A.

Each five hundred National Industries Shares, Series A, may be converted through the Trustee into ¼ of a stock unit and a pro-rata equity in other property comprising a deposited unit. Through a Revolving Fund established by the Depositor any smaller number of shares may likewise be converted, except that the holder receives a sum in cash equal to the pro-rata share of the market value of the deposited stocks and other property, as provided in the Trust Agreement.

REINVESTMENT PRIVILEGE: The total amount of distributions may be reinvested (in 10 share lots) within 15 days after each semi-annual distribution date at the current offering price less 5%, thereby enabling the shareholder to retain distributions in the form of principal without incurring distributing costs.

NON-SUBSTITUTION: No substitution may be made in the list of deposited stocks except in the case of merger, consolidation, reorganization or sale of the property of any company, and then only as provided for in the Trust Agreement. In the event of any company failing to pay a usual dividend the stock of such company may be sold and the proceeds distributed to shareholders on the next semi-annual distribution date.

RESERVE FUND: A Reserve Fund of $1000 has been deposited with the initial Stock Unit to stabilize semi-annual disbursements at 35 cents per share. On the deposit of each additional unit the Depositor will deposit a sum in cash equal to the proportion, applicable to each 2000 shares then outstanding, of moneys then on deposit with the Trustee as the Reserve Fund.

LOW ISSUE COST: A charge of 9 cents per share to cover all expenses for issue and deposit (except minimum Stock Exchange commissions computed on a 100 share lot basis) and a fee of 5% of the offering price to cover distribution cost and profit are added to the cost of trust shares. The total issuing and distributing costs amount to about 6% which is about ¼ of 1% per year over the full life of the trust. The Depositor, Palmer Shares Corporation, pays all costs of issue and deposit (legal expense, certificate cost, stamp tax, etc., and the Trustee's charges for issue, custody, conversion, coupon payments, etc).

REPORTS TO TRUSTEE: The Trustee requires all brokers employed in the selling of any part of the deposited property (shares of stock, securities, rights, etc.) to furnish each day a written statement of all sales made on the preceding day. The Depositor agrees to keep a record of such transactions occurring within each six months period open for inspection of shareholders for a period of three months after each distribution date.

Legal matters in connection with the creation of National Industries Shares, Series A, have been approved by Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft, New York City.

FOREIGN ISSUES SOFTER

But Price Changes Are Mostly Small—Dullness in United States Government Group.

Minor irregularities characterized dealings in the listed bond market yesterday, although the trading pace was slightly faster than on the previous day. Domestic bond averages improved slightly, but the principal foreign loans were a shade lower on the average at the close. Liberty bonds and United States Treasury issues were dull.

Leading railroad mortgages and most of the high-grade public utility issues were steady to firm. In both groups a handful of issues attained new highs for the year to date. Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railway 4½s of 1977, series E, were one of the heaviest traded issues of the entire bond list and mounted ⅝ of a point to a new high at 100¼. Chicago & Alton 3½s and 3s sold at the best prices of the year to date in anticipation of payment at an early date under the terms of the offer by the Baltimore & Ohio.

Industrial bonds showed some fairly wide variations in price. In the sugar group Warner Sugar 7s of 1939 dropped 1¼ points to a new low at 42¼, Camaguey Sugar 7s fell 2 points to a new low at 34 and Eastern Cuba Sugar 7½s sold off a point to a new low at 52.

In other sections of the industrial list Gould Coupler 6s recovered 4 points and Liggett & Myers 7s of 1944 climbed 1⅛ points to a new high for 1930 at 123⅛. Warner Brothers Pictures convertible 6s recovered a point in active trading. Parmelee convertible 6s dropped 3 points to a new low at 63 and Certainteed 5½s were marked down 2½ points.

Light trading in foreign loans was reported, with generally inconsequential price changes. With little new foreign financing in immediate prospect, the trading in foreign issues is strictly a routine affair.

The net changes in the United States Government group ranged from 3-32 point higher to 1-32 lower.

Committee Gets Fleisher Bonds.

The bondholders' protective committee of the first mortgage bonds of S. B. and B. W. Fleisher, Inc., has received deposits of $953,000 of the bonds, or more than 72 per cent of the outstanding $1,311,500, it was announced yesterday. In a letter which will be sent out by the committee a request is made for additional deposits to facilitate liquidation of the company.

MUNICIPAL LOANS.

Offerings of New Bond Issues to Bankers and the Public Announced.

Detroit, Mich.

The city of Detroit, Mich., has awarded $15,000,000 tax anticipation notes, due on Aug. 15, 1931, to the National City Company at 100.0012 for the issue as 2⅞s. A group headed by the Bankers Company of New York bid par plus a premium of $101 for the issue as 3⅛s, the interest payment to be made at maturity, with an alternate bid of par plus a premium of $101 for the notes as 3.09s, with semi-annual interest payments. The winning bid called for interest payment at maturity. The notes will be priced on the market today to yield 2.70 per cent. When the 12 per cent corporate tax is taken into account, this figure is equivalent to a taxable yield of 3.09 per cent.

The city reports an assessed valuation of $3,681,781,130 and net bonded debt of $252,947,333.

State of West Virginia.

Award of the issue of $5,000,000 State of West Virginia road bonds, due serially on Aug. 1, 1931 to 1955, was made yesterday morning to a syndicate composed of the Chase Securities Corporation, Hallgarten & Co., R. L. Day & Co., Otis & Co., Ames, Emerich & Co., Inc., Kean, Taylor & Co., Emanuel & Co., B. J. Van Ingen & Co., H. L. Allen & Co., Mercantile-Commerce Company of St. Louis, Mitchell, Herrick & Co., and the Charleston National Bank. The price paid was par, plus a premium of $200 for $1,265,000 of the bonds of the earlier maturities as 4½s, and for $3,735,000 as 4s.

The bonds were immediately reoffered at prices to yield 2.75 to 4 per cent, and within a few hours the bankers reported the entire issue sold. It was the largest State or municipal loan marketed in several weeks. The State reports assessed valuation of $2,033,992,789 and total bonded debt, including this issue, of $78,738,700.

Oakland County, Mich.

Oakland County, Mich., will open bids tomorrow on a new issue of $811,000 special assessment bonds of road districts. The bonds will mature serially in from two to ten years. Bidders are requested to stipulate the rate of interest.

Nashville, Tenn.

The city of Nashville, Tenn., has called for bids, to be opened on Aug. 29, on a new issue of $650,000 of bonds, composed of $500,000 for hospitals and $150,000 for school construction, maturing serially from Sept. 1, 1931 to 1960.

Carmel, N. Y.

Offering of a new issue of $60,000 town of Carmel (N. Y.) Union Free School District No. 10, 4.60 per cent bonds, due on Aug. 1, 1932 to 1941, will be made today by Batchelder & Co. The issue will be priced to yield 4.15 to 4.25 per cent. The district reports assessed valuation of $2,586,728 and total bonded debt, including this issue, of $269,000.

WARNER BROS. GET CHAIN.

Coston Theatres in Chicago Acquired—Finance Plans Ready Soon.

Executives of Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., announced yesterday that negotiations had been completed for the acquisition of the Coston chain of eleven theatres in Chicago, and for the acquisition of five theatres in Indiana.

Warner Brothers common stock, which has been weak recently, having declined from the year's high of 80¼ to a low on Tuesday of 24¾, showed greater firmness yesterday on the announcement of the plans for new financing. The stock closed 1⅛ points higher at 27¾, after opening half a point higher at 26¾. An announcement concerning the financing plans will be made in a few days, it was said.

The new financing, it is believed, will aim at eliminating the company's current indebtedness and will provide funds for meeting the $1,250,000 interest payment due on Sept. 1 on $40,000,000 of outstanding convertible debentures.

SINCLAIR TO RETIRE $15,400,000 BONDS

Oil Corporation Announces That Payment Will Be Made Sept. 2 Out of Current Funds.

PAVING WAY FOR EXPANSION

Stock Exchange Notified of Plans in Connection With New Issue of Preferred.

The Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation will retire on Sept. 2 all of the outstanding balance of its three-year 6 per cent first lien collateral gold bonds, amounting approximately to $15,400,000, it was announced yesterday. Payment will be made out of current funds, it is stated. The Chase National Bank of New York is the redemption agent. This issue was originally in the amount of $20,000,000 and dated Sept. 1, 1927

The retirement of this issue will leave the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Company with a total bonded indebtedness of $65,780,115, including the $450,615 8 per cent gold debentures of the Pierce Oil Corporation, which the Sinclair company recently acquired. Exclusive of the small amount of Pierce bonds, which are due Dec. 15, 1931, the next maturity date of any Sinclair bonds will be March 15, 1937, when the 7 per cent series A bonds now outstanding in the amount of $44,057,500 will become due. The series B issue, bearing interest at 6½ per cent and now amounting to $21,272,000, will reach maturity on June 1, 1938.

In view of the expansion program of the Sinclair Consolidated Company, which would require simplification of the capital structure, it has previously been announced that these bonds would probably be retired prior to maturity date. Also, it was stated, the present 8 per cent preferred stock, of which $14,129,400 is outstanding, will shortly be called for retirement. Although the preferred stock is expected to be called soon after the stockholders' meeting on Sept. 17 to create 5,000,000 shares of additional preference stock, the condition of the security markets and other factors will probably be taken into consideration at the time the two bond issues are called for retirement.

The New York Stock Exchange has received a notice from the Sinclair corporation of the proposed change in the authorized 8 per cent preferred stock from 1,000,000 shares of $100 par to 141,294 shares of the same par value and the creation of 5,000,000 shares of preference stock of no-par value.

PEIRCE UNIT ADDS GAS LAND

Central Public Service Buys Kentucky Rights of Byllesby Group.

The Central Public Service Corporation, controlled by A. E. Peirce & Co. and the Public Utility Holding Corporation, has obtained full production rights in part of the natural gas lands owned by the H. M. Byllesby interests in Eastern Kentucky, it was announced yesterday. As a result of its contract the company will enter the production and piping of natural gas for the first time.

The Central Public Service will construct a $12,000,000 260-mile line of 18-inch welded steel pipe to run from Eastern Kentucky into its Indiana territory. The natural gas will be an additional supply of the fuel for industrial interests served by the Central Indiana Gas Company, a subsidiary of Central Public Service. Contracts for construction of the line have been taken in the name of the Public Service Engineering Company, a wholly owned subsidiary of Central Public Service. The latter company will soon form a pipe line company to undertake public financing.

INSULL DENIES PLAN TO MERGE 3 CONCERNS

Never Considered $758,000,000 Union of Chicago Utilities, He Says at Home There.

Reports were current in the financial district yesterday that the Insull interests are planning to combine the pubic utility companies serving Chicago and its surrounding territory, and with that end in view have been acquiring stock of the Commonwealth Edison Company, the Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, whose combined assets amounted to $758,000,000 at the close of last year.

Samuel Insull, however, denied the reports at his home in Chicago. "There is absolutely no truth in the story," he said. "We have never considered any such plan and I do not contemplate that we will. The report is absolute rubbish."

Commonwealth Edison is the largest of the three companies involved in the report, with consolidated assets of $375,966,120 and 1,354,143 shares of common stock outstanding, worth $285 a share at yesterday's prices. The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company has consolidated assets of $192,168,631 and has 566,500 shares of common stock out, selling yesterday at $249 a share. The Public Service Company of Northern Illinois has assets of $190,027,594 and a common stock of 125,183 shares of $100 par value and 317,296 shares of no par value, both classes on a parity in all respects.

$8,809,000 IN GOLD SHIPPED TO FRANCE

Two Consignments Bring Total for Movement Since July 16 to $61,809,000.

EXCHANGE DEALS DOUBTED

Experts See Special Transactions Indicated, With Franc Below Transfer Point.

The outflow of gold to France was resumed yesterday with the shipment of $8,809,000 of the metal on the steamship Europa last night. The shipment consisted of two lots, $5,809,000 sent by the Guaranty Trust Company and $3,000,000 dispatched by Lazard Frères. It brought the total of the present movement to France to $61,809,000. Including the $14,500,000 which has been shipped to Canada, a total of $76,309,000 gold has been taken from this market since July 16, when the movement to France began.

Against this heavy export movement there has been a steady influx of gold to this market from Latin America and the Far East. Yesterday the Federal Reserve Bank announced that it had received word of the arrival at San Francisco of $120,000 gold from China.

The movement of gold to France has engaged the interest of foreign exchange experts here, most of whom are of the opinion that the recent shipments represented special transactions rather than straight exchange deals.

This view received added force from the fact that yesterday's shipments were made with the franc at 3.93⅝ cents, a figure generally acknowledged to be below the gold shipment point. Yesterday's lower price for the franc would not entirely preclude the possibility of an exchange transaction, since bankers customarily go short of exchange before making their gold shipments. The franc, however, has been in the neighborhod of 3.93½ all week and dealers say there has been no selling of francs sufficient to cover the amount of the transfer.

It is asserted, indeed, that since the export movement began there has not been selling of francs in this market sufficient to cover the shipments which have been made. This circumstance has led some bankers to conclude that the exchange transactions involved in the shipments have been conducted in other markets.

It was suggested yesterday that the movements had been arranged on behalf of the Bank of France through the London market, sterling being sold to procure the dollars with which gold was bought from the Federal Reserve Bank. It was remarked that if the Bank of France were operating in this manner the ultimate effect might be to improve the price of sterling against the franc, thus terminating the gold movement from London to Paris, while at the same time providing the Bank of France with gold taken from the New York market.

This theory was not supported by other foreign exchange experts, however. They asserted the market gave no evidence of selling of sterling to buy dollars such as would be necessary for the transaction to be completed. The movement, according to these bankers, represents simply the withdrawal by the Bank of France of balances which it holds in this market. Such withdrawals, they say, could be undertaken with the franc at any price, and, since French balances here are known to be extremely large, might continue for some time.

The fact that the outflow of gold to France has been arranged by only two banks, Lazard Frères and the Guaranty Trust Company, has been cited as an added indication that it is not an ordinary exchange development. If shipments of gold offered a profit, it is asserted, other banks would undertake them, particularly at a time like the present, when it is difficult to find employment for short-term funds.

MEXICAN GOLD AT PREMIUM.

Rating Is 6 Per Cent in Its Favor Over Silver Currency.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 13.—The premium of gold currency over silver here, which was almost 6 per cent in favor of the former today, is seriously affecting business conditions. Speculation is considered to be the basic cause of this premium.

Although the situation is not so bad as in past years, when on one occasion the premium of gold currency over silver was more than 12 per cent, it has brought a press demand that the Banco de Mexico should take drastic steps to regulate the exchange.

Financial observers believe the difficulty is only temporary, but it may have serious repercussions if, prior to the end of the current month, $5,000,000 goes from the Treasury in payment to the Lamont bankers, as has been announced.

MARKETS IN LONDON, PARIS AND BERLIN

FRENCH STOCKS WEAKEN

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—All the Anglo-American securities were lower on the London Stock Exchange today, following the new reaction in late trading in Wall Street yesterday. Less favorable American advices also influenced the rest of the market, although late in the afternoon some of the internationals tended to pick up. Among British Government issues the 3½ per cent conversion loan was £79½ and the war loan £103 13-16.

Among the internationals His Master's Voice Gramophone weakened to £2¾. Columbia Graphophone to £3 9-32, Ford to 41s 4d and Radio Corporation to $39¼. International Nickel fell from $22¼ to $21¾, despite maintenance of the interim dividend rate. Hydroelectric was $34½, after $33, and Brazilian Traction $36⅛, after $35⅛.

Rayons lost ground. Courtauld's was £2 3-32 and British Celanese fell from 9s 6d to 8s 9d on fears regarding the coming report. Dunlop, after falling to 9s 6d, recovered at the close to 10s 1½d. The early weakness was due to liquidation from the provinces, due to fears of a cut in tire prices.

Oil shares were lower and rubber weakened in sympathy, with a further decline in the commodity, plantation spot touching a new low of 4⅛d a pound. Bwana M'Kubwa dropped from 12s to 11s 7½d. N'change was £3⅛ and Congo Border £13⅜. In other Rhodesians Chartered lost 6d at £4½.

Conditions were much easier in Lombard Street today in the absence of any calling in for "window dressing" purposes. Short loans started at 2 per cent and subsequently eased to 1¾ to 1¼. Renewals were at 2 per cent. The tendency in bill rates was not quite so firm, owing to better supplies of credit.

At the Bank of England £100,000 in sovereigns previously set aside was released, while £6,907 of bar gold was sold and £50,000 in sovereigns exported. Sterling exchange in New York fell early, but later recovered, with a gain to $4.87 1-16@$4.87 3-16.

Trend Downward in Paris.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—Leading stocks attacked by speculators at the opening of the Bourse today suffered sharp losses and as a result the market generally weakened. Rio Tinto and Suez Canal were among those showing declines. The latter part of the session was devoid of trading.

Rentes, despite the market's depression, attributed in some quarters to the situation in Wall Street, remained firm, closing as follows: The 3 per cents, 88.75; 1918 4s, 100.75; 1920 amortizable 5s, 135.95; 1928 5s, 103.50; 1920 6s, 102.97; 1927 amortizable 6s, 105.65.

Market in Berlin Firmer.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 13.—The tendency in today's session of the Boerse was again toward firmness, but only a limited number of international issues profited, the bulk of stocks being neglected but steady. The market was stimulated by firmness in the shipping stocks, which each advanced 3 points. Dye Trust, Reichsbank, beer and spirits, machinery, potash, celenese, Polyphon and electrical stocks also were sought and higher. The mining group was uneven. The Boerse closed with quotations at the highest level of the day.

Treasury bonds to the amount of 75,000,000 marks were offered today by banks on behalf of the Federal railways and were oversubscribed by 35,000,000 marks.

DENIES BIG LOAN TO SPAIN.

Standard Oil of New Jersey Discredits Report of Offer.

Reports yesterday that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey had offered to lend 1,000,000,000 pesetas to Spain without interest, in return for a monopoly to sell petroleum products in that country were denied at the office of the company here. The company, it was said, had been compelled to give up all its distributive facilities in Spain a few years ago when the petroleum monopoly there went into effect, and in view of the fact that it received a very low price for its properties, and that only after long negotiations there was no chance of it entering any such arrangement with the Spanish Government at this time.

An official of the American Republic Corporation, which has supplied the Spanish petroleum monopoly with all of its crude oil requirements and 20 per cent of its refined products practically since the monopoly started operations in Spain, said last night that his company had received no information relative to any changes in the methods of operating the monopoly. He also said that so far as he knew no changes in methods were contemplated.

Peseta Declines Further to 9.10.

MADRID, Aug. 13 (AP).—The peseta dropped to 9.10 to the dollar this forenoon and showed decided weakness in its subsequent fluctuations. Business circles today expressed the belief that the new decline was partially caused by the unfavorable reaction of foreign countries to Spain's new tariff regulations although the opposite effect was expected when the new schedules were put into operation.

German Rail Bonds Oversubscribed.

BERLIN, Aug. 13 (AP).—The German National Railways' new 75,000,000-mark bond issue today was oversubscribed about 35,000,000 marks.

LOWER PRICES CUT TOTALS

Canada Continues Best Customer of United States, With Great Britain Next.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (AP).—While contraction of foreign trade of the United States during June in absolute totals was most evident in the exchange between this country and Europe, the relative decline in exports was greatest in South American trade. Figures given out today from the Commerce Department showed both imports and exports to Europe were approximately $30,000,000 less in June this year than in the same month of 1929.

Similarly, United States imports from Asia dropped off between the same two periods by about $34,000,000, a part of the decline being attributed to low prices for rubber as much as to decrease in quantity of goods moved.

Exports and imports for the month by principal divisions of the globe as compared with the same months last year:

Canada, usually the best national customer of the United States, had its status left unchanged by the declining figures of the month's foreign trade. Exports to Canada in June were $59,715,152, against $80,483,894 for the month last year. Imports from Canada were $36,503,217, against $44,315,288 last year.

Great Britain, next in importance in trade consideration, took exports of $47,914,838 from the United States during June, against $52,832,793 in the same month last year; imports from Great Britain were $15,510,900, against $25,395,556.

Exports to France for June were $11,151,700, against $14,587,066 last year; imports from France were $7,483,640, against $13,280,119. Exports to Germany were $16,456,448, against $41,260,670, and imports were $12,817,124, against $19,327,161.

The trade with Russia showed a slight expansion during June. Exports to Soviet Russia for the month amounted to $8,805,642, against $7,657,114 last year. Imports from Russia were $2,699,991 during June, as compared with $2,426,978 in the same month last year.

PREMIER SEEKS OUTLET FOR AUSTRALIAN GOODS

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CANBERRA, Australia, Aug. 13.—Prime Minister J. H. Scullin left the Federal capital today to attend the imperial conference of British Prime Minister in London with the expressed determination of finding markets for Australia's surplus products "without in any way weakening the ties of the empire."

Australia, he said, is essentially sound and solvent. She has been making a pace faster than circumstances warranted, but has always paid her way and will continue to do so, he said.

"I am not going to London as a suppliant at the feet of anybody," said Mr. Scullin. "I am going to speak in the name of Australia, not as a mendicant but as the representative of a great nation that will continue to meet its obligations. We have never passed through such times in Australia.

"A good deal is expected of my mission, and probably no other country has such a wonderful future, but we must find markets for our surplus production. We want to get into closer relationship with the other members of the British Commonwealth. Any interests based upon mere exchange of goods may have a sordid basis, but it is a practical one."

Mr. Scullin rejected the belief that the British Empire is "in the melting pot."

FOREIGN TRADE OFF IN GREAT BRITAIN

Exports in July Down 23.7%, Reflecting Extent of the Boycott in India.

IMPORTS DECREASE 8.9%

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Another heavy drop in British exports is recorded in trade returns just issued, reflecting to a considerable extent the boycott of British goods in India.

Foreign trade returns for July show a fall of $78,865,000, or 23.7 per cent in British exports, as compared with July, 1929, and a fall of $6,533,275, or 16.3 per cent, in re-exports.

Part of this heavy reduction is attributed to the decline in commodity prices during the past year. In this connection it is noted that The London Times index number of wholesale prices for July was 114.5, as against 134.0 for July, 1929.

Of the decline in British exports, $67,840,000 comes under the heading of manufactured articles, cotton goods declining by $28,080,000. Imports declined in value by $41,820,000, or 8.9 per cent. The drop in imports therefore was less than the average fall in prices during the year.

For the first seven months of 1930 there was an apparent balance of imports, excluding movements of bullion and coin of $1,076,445,000, which compares with $1,021,845,000 in the similar period of 1929 and with $1,043,295,000 in 1928. The percentage of decline in British exports for the seven months is 16.3 per cent, while re-exports show a fall of 18.3 per cent. The imports for the same period decreased by 10.2 per cent.

LUTHER IS HOPEFUL ON CAPITAL MARKET

SCHACHT HITS POLITICIANS

Declares They Spoiled Young Plan and Nation Needs Economists—Likens Us to Germans.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 13.—Discussing the main reasons for the world economic crisis, especially from the viewpoint of credit and capital, in a special article today, Dr. Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank, draws the conclusion that an easing of the German capital market is already noticeable, although adding such signs should not be overvalued.

Dr. Luther declares the influx of foreign capital under certain conditions, namely, if used productively, is advisable and necessary, especially if given to Germany in the form of long-term loans at a reasonable rate of interest. On the other hand, he warns against an unlimited influx because Germany already must pay $295,000,000 annually for interest and amortization on borrowed capital, which is not much less than the annual amount Germany is obliged to pay in reparations. Therefore, he declares, the advisory board which has the right to veto foreign loans must continue to function.

Urges Work For Unemployed.

"No solution can come from capital and credit alone, however," Dr. Luther goes on. "An economic crisis not only means unemployment for many people but also unemployment for machinery and other means of production and even unemployment for capital.

"The most important of all the problems, however, is to find work for men. Fortunately nature itself offers healing possibilities. Every depression is followed by an incline. This is based on the fact that the cost of production tends to become lower for obvious reasons. Those handling raw materials, half-finished and finished products must sell cheaper and oftener in order to prevent bankruptcy.

"A reduction of wages does not need to mean a reduction in real income. Most characteristic of all, however, is reduction of the cost of production by cheapening credits through lowering the rate of interest. But there is also a limit to such reduction and the present rate of interest of 4 per cent represents the limit to which Germany can go.

Schacht Hits at Politicians.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the Reichsbank, in an interview in the Boersen Zeitung today, says that what Germany and the world needs is economists instead of politicians, who, he said, had spoiled the Young plan, which as drawn up at Paris might have been a workable instrument during The Hague conference.

In the course of the interview Dr. Schacht pointed out that his father, who emigrated to the United States in 1870, became an American citizen, which explained why he himself had often visited America since 1905.

"During my visits I found the American mentality to a high extent resembles the German mentality," he said. "Americans themselves feel nowhere so much at home as when visiting Germany. Their trend of thought resembles ours, their manner of conducting business is the same as ours, their desire to know thoroughly all the facts connected with a problem, their quick method of working and their quick way of deciding are German. Economically Germans and Anglo-Saxons speak the same language."

BOARD FIXES COSTS OF RIO GRANDE WORK

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The International Boundary Commission appointed to rectify the Rio Grande boundary line from El Paso to a point 155 miles east of that city has recommended the construction of a flood retention dam at Caballo, N. M.; straightening of the river between El Paso and Box Canyon, and the establishment of a flood channel reinforced by levees.

The straightening of the river channel will require the exchange between the two countries of the small parcels of land detached by the straightening. The total detached from Mexico will equal the total detached from the United States.

Taking into consideration the estimated value of the agriculture investments in the El Paso-Juarez Valley and the proportional benefits to be received, it has been recommended that Mexico pay 12 per cent of the cost of the work and that the United States pay 88 per cent.

Of the total cost of the project, which will amount to $6,106,500, the commissioners found that certain items could not be shared according to the fixed ratio. Such items are those for the acquisition of rights of way, purchase of private channel rights and costs for changes in irrigation works, with approximately 20 per cent for overhead. These deductions leave a total of $4,932,300 to be shared, of which Mexico's part would be $591,876 and that of the United States $4,340,424.

J. G. WHITE & CO. OFFER STOCK TO HOLDERS

J. G. White & Co., Inc., are giving rights to subscribe to 137,088 shares of additional common stock to holders of 6 per cent cumulative preferred and common stock. The proceeds will be a maximum of $4,112,640. The rights will expire on Oct. 4.

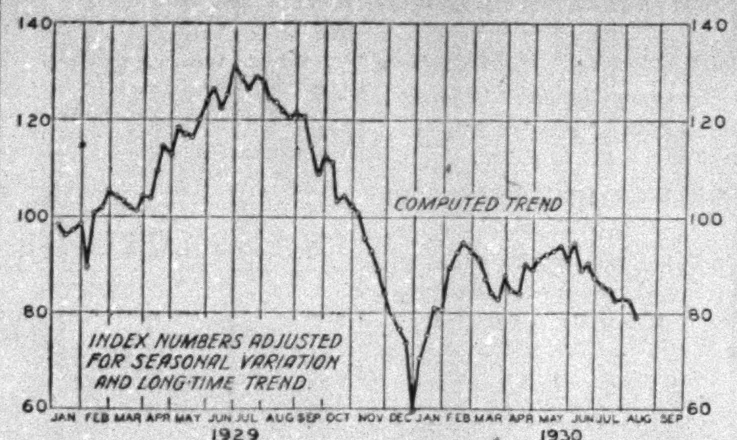
In a letter to stockholders, J. Dugald White, president, says that in the opinion of counsel there will be no taxable gain upon this transaction under the Federal or New York State income tax laws.

"A balance sheet of your company, as of July 31, 1930, is attached," Mr. White says, "and you will note therefrom that the indicated liquidation value of the common stock is $40.29 per share."

Unseasonal Decline of Steel Operations Causes Sharp Recession in Adjusted Index



The decrease in the rate of operations in the steel industry reported for last week was contrary to the usual seasonal tendency, which is ordinarily upward from the Fourth of July until about the middle of August, followed by a slight dip into mid-September prior to the beginning of the Fall up-swing. The adjusted index of steel mill activity has consequently declined sharply to 79.8 for the week ended Aug. 9, which compares with 82.4 for the preceding week and 124.5 for the corresponding week last year.

The adjusted index of steel mill activity has thus fallen to within a fraction of a point of the lowest reached in the business recession of 1927, which was 79.3 for the week ended Dec. 3; but it is still considerably above the lowest point of the 1924 depression, which was 59.5 for the week ended July 12. The gradual nature of the current decline, more especially in steel buying, is indeed a point which seems to have been generally disregarded in current discussion of the position of the steel industry.

The current depression, as a matter of fact, has not as yet been characterized by any sweeping declines in incoming steel orders such as those which have marked the final stages of previous depressions. In 1921, for example, there was a virtual cessation of steel buying; in two months of that year the estimated tonnage of new business booked by the Steel Corporation, adjusted for seasonal variation, having fallen to 5 per cent of capacity. Even in the milder depression of 1924 there was a month in which bookings amounted to only 42 per cent of capacity. But thus far in the current decline the worst month for steel buying, which was last May, has brought a decline in bookings to only 73 per cent of capacity.

June and July showed little improvement over this figure, however, and with production closely adjusted to the volume of incoming orders the fluctuations in the adjusted index of steel mill activity provide an extremely sensitive guide to the demand for steel products. Last week's sharp decline in mill operations is therefore unfavorable, especially so since the resumption of operations in a large section of the motor car industry has evidently failed to bring about any increase in the demand for steel from that important source.

Rights to Michigan Steel.

The Michigan Steel Corporation is offering to common stockholders of record on Aug. 22 rights to subscribe at $42 a share for one additional share of common stock for every ten shares held. The rights will expire on Sept. 22. The new offering will require 22,500 shares.

Northwestern Bell Adds Unit.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 13 (AP).—Negotiations for the purchase of the Tri-State Telephone and Telegraph Company of St. Paul and its business in adjacent towns and suburbs of St. Paul have been completed by the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company, whose officials made the announcement today.

STEEL CONSUMERS BUYING CAUTIOUSLY

PRICES DECLINE FURTHER

Weekly Reviews Report Drop in Output, With No Signs of Early Improvement.

Recovery of the steel business from the stagnation of midsummer has been retarded by the uncertainty of crop damage caused by the drought, according to the weekly reviews by the trade magazines. The reviews report that the crop situation has brought renewed caution to the steel consuming industries dependent partly or wholly on agricultural outlets, and the lack of orders causing frequent changes in schedules has brought production costs to a point where the present prices are hardly remunerative to even the lowest cost producers.

Iron Age says there has been a further decline in the volume of new business, consequent curtailment in steel mill operating schedules and broader price weakness.

"Steel production for the country at large is not above 52 per cent this week, compared with 54 per cent a week ago," says Iron Age. "The Steel Corporation continues to operate at about 63 per cent, but some of the larger independents are at 50 per cent or less. Operations have declined several points at Pittsburgh, Chicago and in the Valleys, while at Cleveland there has been a rise of three points, owing to a moderate gain in orders from a few automobile companies.

"Can manufacturers already face the possibility of smaller packs of vegetable crops, and moderate hold-ups of tin plate shipments have brought a decline to 60 per cent in the output of this product from an average slightly above that figure a week ago. Wire fencing and galvanized sheets are adversely affected.

"Meanwhile, there are a few developments of an encouraging character. Resumption of automobile production on a scale slightly above that of July has aided mills at Chicago and Cleveland in a small way, but there has been no important gain in takings of steel by the motor car industry. The farm machinery builders, helped out by export orders, are ordering steel a little more freely at Chicago and will step up production above the low mid-Summer rate."

Steel says in part: "As steel producers drift past the middle of the third quarter with demand and production no better than at the beginning, the matter of price commands more serious consideration. For even the low cost producers, present levels are scarcely remunerative, and frequent roll changing required by attentuated orders aggravates the situation.

"Nothing within the present vision of the steel industry indicates improvement of the colorless market. In fact, such adverse factors, as drought, a sluggish retail market for automobiles, surplus railroad equipment and declining foreign trade are perhaps more accentuated. perhaps more accentuated."

A further reduction in the composite prices of The Iron Age brings that for finished steel to 2.156 cents a pound and that for pig iron to $16.88 a gross ton. The steel price is the lowest since February, 1922, while the pig iron composite is the lowest since 1915.

Further weakness in sheets and nails has lowered the market composite of Steel 8 cents to $33, compared with an average of $33.21 for July.

New structural steel projects appearing in the last week reached a total in excess of 60,000 tons, the largest since the last week in June, according to the review of The Iron Age.

"Much of this new business," says the review, "consisted of bridge construction, including 20,000 tons of highway bridges for Kentucky, 4,000 tons in two bridges to be built in Maine, 1,600 tons in a bridge for Lincoln Park, Chicago, and 3,800 tons for grade crossing elimination in Detroit. A subway in St. Louis requires 6,500 tons and an office building at 444 Madison Avenue, New York, 5,000 tons of structural steel.

"Awards of fabricated structural steel were also large, with a total of 45,000 tons. Included also was considerable bridge construction, with 12,000 tons for the Central Lorain bridge at Cleveland and 4,600 tons in approaches to the New York end of the Hudson River Bridge."

OVER-COUNTER BUYERS RESPOND AS PRICES DIP

Favorite Issues Recover at End After Early Declines—Industrials Are Erratic.

Although trading in unlisted securities yesterday was in less volume than usual, buying appeared when prices reached attractively low levels. Bank shares eased slightly after the opening but attracted more interest around noon. The late dealings found favorite issues recovering.

Guaranty, which lost two points at one time, climbed steadily in the afternoon and closed ten points higher than the previous close. Commercial National gained five points, and Manhattan, Chemical, Chase, Manufacturers, Irving, Penn Exchange, Public and Bankers closed firm. Issues to decline were County, Chelsea, New York Trust and Continental Bank and Trust.

Insurance shares were easy, with declines by Aetna Life, Baltimore American, Homestead, United States Fire, Carolina, Great American Indemnity, Westchester Fire, Northern and Agriculture. Providence Washington, Automobile, Connecticut General Life and Hanover were firm.

Industrials moved erratically, with most issues going lower. Utility shares were quiet but firm. Chain stores and communication issues were devoid of definite trend.

TO HOLD WOOL CONFERENCE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 13.—The sixth international wool conference, which will be held at Liége from Sept. 9 to Sept. 11, will be of great importance to the wool industry, according to the Belgian press. An American delegate is expected and South American countries, Australia and South Africa will also be represented.

The conference proposes to establish a plan for standardizing trade terms and methods of weighing. It is hoped the plan will end the present difficulties resulting in the European trade from the unevenness of the supplies of raw materials.

A system of international inquiry offices, with international blacklists, is also expected to be instituted. A world system of stock-taking will also probably be adopted.

TO APPEAL WICKWIRE CASE.

Holders Dissatisfied With Decree on Steel Company Mortgage.

The stockholders' committee of the Wickwire Spencer Steel Company intends to appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals, and, if need be, finally to the Supreme Court of the United States, from the recent decision of Judge Hazel in the Federal Court for the Western District of New York, affirming in part the validity of the first mortgage covering certain properties of the Wickwire Company and decreeing a foreclosure sale of all the assets covered by the mortgage, according to an announcement yesterday by Alexander Guttman, chairman of the stockholders' commititee. Under the decree of Judge Hazel, it is said, the properties can be bought in pursuant to a plan of reorganization that gives the stockholders no participation.

The stockholders' committee contends that by reason of its intervention, the first mortgage, of which the Guaranty Trust Company is trustee and which is held by its terms to cover all assets of the company, both fixed and quick, has been construed by the court to cover only fixed assets. Consequently, a fund consisting of more than $8,000,000 unmortgaged assets has been created, which fund, it is asserted, should inure to the benefit of the unsecured creditors and stockholders of the company. This is the main reason, it is said, why the current plan of reorganizatiion is being amended to allow holders of Class B notes to participate.

Mr. Guttman said, however, that the decision does not go far enough, as the stockholders' committee contends that the mortgage is void in its entirety.

HIGH-SPEED TICKERS TO BE READY SEPT. 2

500 CHARACTERS A MINUTE

Quotation Service at Faster Rate Will Be Available to Investors All Over Country.

The new high-speed ticker system that the New York Stock Exchange has been installing for more than a year throughout the United States and Canada will be placed in operation on Sept. 2, it was announced yesterday by the committee of arrangements of the Exchange.

The new tickers, which were designed to take care of a daily turnover of 9,000,000 shares without falling behind the market, will run at a speed of approximately 500 characters a minute, compared with 300 for the present system. More than 9,000 of the new type tickers will have been installed and ready for operation by the end of August. About 2,800 are operated by the New York Quotation Company, a subsidiary of the New York Stock Exchange, and about 6,200 by the Western Union Telegraph Company, which relays quotations to non-members and to all districts not served by the New York Quotation Company.

Many of the new tickers, installed for several months, have been geared down to the speed of the old machines.

Announcement of Stock Exchange.

Announcement of the completion of the new ticker system was made yesterday as follows:

When installation of the new tickers was begun last year, it was said the system probably would be placed in operation at the end of 1930.

Installation of the new ticker system was caused by failure of the old tickers to keep up with the market in the active trading of the 1928 and 1929 bull markets, when 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 share days were considered commonplace. It was not unusual last year for the ticker to fall a half-hour or more behind prices on the floor of the Exchange.

The ticker service was placed under a terrific strain in the heavy decline in prices last Fall, and for nearly three weeks it ran from an hour to more than four hours behind the market. On Oct. 24 it tapped out its final quotations four hours and eight minutes after the close of the market.

Trading Volume Light Recently.

With the withdrawal of a large section of the public from the stock market, owing to the recent declines, trading has dwindled frequently to less than 2,000,000 shares a day, and the ticker has seldom fallen more than ten minutes behind the market in the last seven months.

The new ticker would be unable to cope with 12,000,000 and 16,000,000 share days, such as were encountered last Fall.

SECURITIES AT AUCTION.

Goldman Sachs Trading Corporation—264 shares, $16 per share.

$2,000 Pick Barth Holding Corporation 6 per cent five-year notes, due Jan. 1, 1935—55 per cent.

21 West Thirty-fifth Realty Corporation—30 shares, $6 per share.

$1,000 Brooklyn Union Elevated Railroad Company first 5s, due Feb. 1, 1950—51 per cent.

Offices of the footwear department of the United States Rubber Company will be removed from New York City to Naugatuck, Conn., on Aug. 18, it was announced yesterday by F. B. Davis Jr., president and chairman of the board of directors.

HUDSON-ESSEX PRICES CUT.

Rumors of Reductions on Other Cars Follow Announcement.

The Hudson Motor Car Company announced yesterday price reductions on its Hudson and Essex lines. Reductions on the Hudson models range from $100 for the brougham to $355 for the seven-passenger sedan, and on the Essex cars from $65 for the coupé to $300 on the sun-sedan.

This announcement, following reports of drastic cuts in the Pontiac and Oakland lines, produced by the Oakland Motor Car Company, a unit of General Motors, gave rise to rumors of price-cutting by other manufacturers. At the local offices of both the Chevrolet Motor Company and the Ford Motor Company it was said that no word had been received from headquarters of price reductions, and that it was believed that no such action was contemplated at present.

Automobile men pointed out that most companies make a practice of reducing prices on present models preparatory to introducing new models later in the season.

EXTEND FORD BUFFALO SITE.

Company Seeks 40 Acres More for Expansion of Plant.

BUFFALO, Aug. 13 (AP).—Expansion of the assembly plant being built here by the Ford Motor Company was indicated today in an announcement that the company is negotiating for the purchase of an additional forty acres from the Erie Railroad.

The site of the plan is on the Hamburg Turnpike, south of the city and on the outer harbor, and was selected, according to the announcement, in conformity with the company's policy of building its new plants on waterfronts to facilitate transportation by either rail or water.

The site extends along the harbor for 1,769 feet, and additional water frontage will be provided by a slip 1,000 feet long and 200 feet wide. Purchase of the additional forty acres would further increase the water frontage of the plant.

COTTON OFF AGAIN; OCTOBER UNDER 11C

New Season's Lows Are Made by Selling Pressure—Drop of Cent a Pound in Week.

RALLIES FAIL TO CONTINUE

Decline Here in Consumption of Staple Is Greatly Exceeded in Great Britain.

Under a continuation of selling pressure, prices on the Cotton Exchange declined again yesterday, and a loss of $1 a bale established new low records for the year.

October contracts broke below 12 cents, the lowest quotations since the Fall of 1926. Influenced by the 18,000,000-bale record production that year, low prices of 11½ cents were reached toward the end of the marketing season.

With an estimated yield of almost 4,000,000 bales under that of 1926, prices have declined more than a cent a pound in the last week, though growers have only begun to sell in a few early-maturing sections of the belt. Despite severe deterioration in several States, according to the weekly report, prices ended 13 to 19 points lower than on Tuesday. Middling quotations at Little Rock and Fort Worth went below 11 cents.

While spot interests had hedges to sell against purchases of actual cotton in the South, speculative operations depressed the market. Scale-buying limits were filled without disclosing adequate buying power to offer definite resistance. Rallies were short-lived, and the action of cor nand wheat brought added pressure on cotton. Predictions of rain in the corn belt to the north influenced sentiment.

Drought areas received little moisture, only five stations in the three Western States reporting a quarter-inch precipitation. In Texas 53 stations had temperatures of 100 to 112 degrees, with all stations but one in Oklahoma reporting from 101 to 110 degrees. The heat was less intense in Arkansas and Mississippi.

Following the Exchange estimate of 178,000 bales less cotton consumed by domestic mills in July than in the same month last year, British Board of Trade returns showed for July exports of 10,000,000 pounds of yarns, against 15,000,000 in July, 1929, and of 197,000,000 yards of cloth, against 355,000,000.

WHEAT DROP MAKES 8-CENT LOSS IN WEEK

Uncertainty in Market Causes Persistent Selling and Declines of 2⅜ to 2⅝c.

FOREIGN DEMAND IGNORED

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—An undertone of nervous uncertainty prevailed in the wheat and corn markets today, and, with longs persistent sellers, prices dropped rather steadily after an early advance. The close found wheat 2⅜ to 2⅝ cents lower than on the previous day after a range of 3¾ to 4 cents. Weakness in Winnipeg, which was off 4 cents at one time, was considerably influenced by the statement of Prime Minister Bennett of Canada that the government would not guarantee advances to the Canadian pool. In the last two days the spread between Winnipeg October and Chicago September has narrowed 1¾ cents a bushel, and in some quarters the feeling is it will reach a point at which Canadian cash wheat will sell at a price more attractive to foreigners.

Most of the 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 bushels of North American wheat sold abroad today was said to have been American hard Winter, with the basis at the Gulf ¼ to ½ cent higher. Development of an active foreign demand, however, failed to have much influence on futures, and many eleventh-hour bulls went out of their holdings, although prices have been on the downgrade for six straight days, with the finish today about 8 cents lower than on Aug. 6.

Primary receipts today were 3,224,000 bushels, a week ago 3,281,000 and a year ago 3,212,000. Shipments respectively were 1,949,000, 2,455,000 and 1,816,000 bushels.

Local and commission house longs were on the selling side of corn, and despite official reports of further deterioration of the crop, prices were on the down grade most of the day, with the close 2⅛ to 2⅞ cents lower. With the exception of good showers in parts of Missouri, no rain of consequence fell in the corn belt over night, although the forecast suggested further showers with somewhat warmer temperatures.

In a long digest of the feeding-grain and hay situation, R. O. Cromwell, with Lamson Brothers, puts the loss in feeding value as equal to that of 622,000,000 bushels of corn compared with last year and of 670,000,000 from the five-year average. Supplies of old corn he estimates at only 75 per cent of those of a year ago.

Some liquidation of live stock is regarded as probable in the areas of severe drought, much depending on the extent of government aid and when the drought is broken. As the loss in corn in the main corn belt is relatively small, there may even be a small increase in feeding operations. S. B. W. Snow, crop observer, inspected part of Central Illinois and found many stalks with small or no ears.

Scarcity of old corn in store here and small country offerings are restricting shipping sales, and the day's business was 115,000 bushels. The country sold 38,000 bushels to arrive, offerings being smaller as the result of the decline in values.

Primary receipts of corn were 908,000 bushels, a week ago 458,000 and a year ago 502,000. Shipments respectively were 422,000, 350,000 and 574,000 bushels.

Oats closed 1⅝ to 2¼ cents lower because of liquidation by scattered longs and Northwestern hedging sales. The Canadian coarse grain situation also tended to create uneasiness.

Rye broke 2⅝ to 3 cents on hedging by the Northwest. Support was lacking except from shorts. A cargo of 250,000 bushels has been bought to come here from Duluth.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

TREASURY SEEKS MANGANESE DATA

'DUMPING" INQUIRY BEGINS

If Charge of American Producers Is Proved, Tariff on Russian Ore May Be Doubled.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—An investigation into the status of manganese ore imported from Russia is being carried on by the Treasury Department as a result of the complaint against the admission of this commodity made by the American Manganese Producers' Association. The inquiry is being conducted under the direction of Seymour Lowman, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

American producers of manganese asked for action last week, basing their complaint on the charge that the Soviet is selling the ore here at less than the cost of production.

This "dumping," upon proof that it exists, subjects a commodity to a tariff increase as high as 100 per cent over the original duty through an order which must be signed by the President. It is assumed here that if the charge is proved the President will approve such an order.

American manganese producers, in a brief filed with Secretary Mellon, presented government and unofficial reports which they held showed violation of the "dumping" clause of the tariff act by Russian producers, charging that the ore was being sold below cost to establish Soviet credits in this country.

The investigation which the treasury is conducting, officials disclosed today, consists principally of a comparison of manganese prices in various parts of the world to discover if the ore can be produced anywhere as cheaply as the Russians are selling it.

No public hearings are scheduled in this inquiry, it was said at Mr. Lowman's office, but they will be held if an order to raise the duty on manganese or an embargo brings complaints from the Soviet trade representatives.

Business Turn Now Awaited.

Next week, according to advices and expectations in the local market, will probably see the peak of buyers' arrivals for the early Fall season. Orders for selling after Labor Day are anticipated in somewhat greater volume from store representatives who have hitherto done little more than sampling. Both retailers and manufacturers are now in the psychological position of waiting for the anticipated turn in the business situation. This week, based largely on the influence of more favorable weather conditions on retail sales, a more distinct note of optimism has made itself felt, although there has been no let-up in the policy of caution in both production and purchasing.

To Make Dress Size Studies.

A preliminary organization meeting dealing with better sizing and fit of dresses as a means of reducing alteration costs and returns was held yesterday at the Beaux Arts Restaurant and attended by representatives of the merchandise managers' division of the National Retail Dry Goods Association and the Associated Dress Industries of America. Committees were nominated to make a study of the problems involved. The retailers' survey will function through two committees, one working and the other advisory. The manufacturers will make an independent study, and when the committees have made their findings they will be brought together under a joint chairman. The studies will begin at once.

See Delivery Delays Later.

While intimations of actual shortage of merchandise, because of present dilatory buying tactics, are discounted at present in well-informed quarters, it is an open secret that the question of prompt deliveries some weeks hence is occasioning considerable worriment. Several of the leading resident offices, for instance, are taking care to point out to the stores that orders placed a month or so from now may be subject to several weeks' delay, as manufacturers are carrying practically no stock that can be utilized to meet a heavy accumulation of "ship-immediately" orders. Lost sales, at a critical point of consumer demand, may therefore develop, it was said.

Salability More Important.

While more than a few buyers of ready-to-wear have complained about the lack of radically new style features this season and have delayed their advance purchases for this reason, this viewpoint was said yesterday to be rather short-sighted. It overlooks the prime consideration, it was asserted, that the new styles are distinctly wearable and therefore eminently salable. Both coat and dress styles were described as possessing femininity and flattering detail treatment of substantial consumer appeal. More money, it was argued, is lost in the average store on radical fashions than on salable ones.

Electrical Appliance Sales Off.

The sharp curtailment of buying by department stores has affected the household electrical appliance trade considerably, with the result that sales have fallen off somewhat compared with last year, it was reported in the trade yesterday. An improvement in business is looked for in the Fall, when the chain stores enter the market. Among the items which have held up fairly well are listed an automatic heat control set for electric irons, sandwich toasters, hotplates and waffle irons. Prices are lower and the subject of much dissension, it was said.

New Line of Kitchen Utensils.

A complete line of chromium plated kitchen utensils to retail at 10 cents each has been introduced and will be placed in about ten of the leading chain systems in two weeks, according to the selling agents yesterday. The handles are enameled and with contrasting tips and come in various color combinations. The same manufacturer has also brought out a stainless steel eggbeater and reports that sales are above expectations.

•.•

Expect Improved Woolen Buying.

A slight improvement in sales of woolens to clothing manufacturers for September delivery has been noted during the past week, according to trade comment yesterday. A better feeling has developed, it was said, and indications point to a larger volume of business. There is still a good deal of price jockeying going on, which is expected to continue for another two or three weeks. Most houses are refusing to quote prices, due to the fact that buyers are shopping and play one mill's quotations against another. An improved demand for bright blue diamond weaves has materialized within the past fortnight, it was reported. Most interest is being accorded plain shades, with silk decorations declining in favor.

Testing Rug Cleaning Methods.

Experiments are now under way at the offices of the Better Fabrics Testing Bureau to determine the most effective methods of cleaning rugs, it was said yesterday by Frank Stutz, general manager of the bureau. Participating in the work are the Rug Cleaners' Institute of America, the National Retail Dry Goods Association and a number of the leading rug and carpet producers. Surveys are being made of the water and soap shampoo method, the dry soap shampoo and dry cleaning. It is expected that the results will have important bearing on the methods of cleaning rugs most effectively and in preserving their durability.

Burlap Advances 10-15 Points.

The burlap market showed a better tone during the past week, with prices advancing 10 to 15 points. The improved feeling was due mainly to the fact that mills in Calcutta have agreed to further curtailment of production and will shut down one week each month until March of 1931. Demand for goods during the past week has been fair, but not of sufficient volume to give the trade any basis for optimism. These prices were quoted here yesterday on standard 40-inch burlaps by C. E. Rockstroh & Co., Inc.:

Spots	4.65	6.10
August shipment	4.90	6.25
September	4.90	6.25
October-December	4.95	6.35

Gray Goods Bought Cautiously.

Sales were again limited in the gray goods market yesterday, with buyers covering only immediate requirements and showing no disposition to make volume purchases. Cotton was lower and served to add to the uncertainty of the situation. A few orders for later delivery were placed at prices a shade under current quotations. In printcloths goods were bought sparingly, with 38½-inch 60-48s holding at 4⅝ cents and 64-60s at 5 cents. There was some activity in 39-inch 64-60s at 5⅞ cents. In 39-inch 80-squares little demand appeared and 7¼ cents was reported the market level. Sheetings showed no movement.

Applique Patent Suit Filed.

Suit for an injunction and accounting against Morris, Jack and George Orloff, embroiderers, tuckers and pleaters, trading as M. Orloff & Sons, was filed yesterday in United States District Court by Philip Blumenthal, attorney for Max Goldberg, head of Dormont Company, manufacturers of applique for women's apparel. The plaintiff alleges that the defendants have been manufacturing applique by a special process which he patented Aug. 6, 1919. Mr. Goldberg filed a similar suit July 26 against Russek's Fifth Avenue, Inc.

200 TOUR RICHMOND TO VIEW PARK SITES

Delegates of 57 Civic Groups See Lands Acquired for City Play Spots.

TO PRESS BERRY PROGRAM

Mayor, McKee and Straus Send Letters Lauding Project for Staten Island Development.

A delegation of 200 representatives of fifty-seven metropolitan civic organizations, including the Park Association of New York City and the Staten Island Chamber of Commerce, made a tour of inspection yesterday of all parks and lands recently acquired by the city for public parks and playgrounds on Staten Island.

The visitors went to Staten Island on a municipal ferryboat and marched from the ferryhouse at St. George to the Borough Hall, where they were welcomed by Acting Borough President Harry S. Gibbs in the absence of Borough President John A. Lynch. Former State Senator Nathan Straus Jr., president of the Park Association, who had been called to Halifax on business, was represented by T. Lawrence Graner, secretary of the association.

Mr. Gibbs read a telegram from Mr. Straus in which he said that Richmond was an ideal place for the development of public parks and playground centres. Letters from Mayor Walker, Controller Berry and Aldermanic President Joseph V. McKee, in which they pledged their support for the development of public parks on Staten Island, were read.

The visitors, in special buses and private automobiles, made their first stop at Tompkinsville, named after former Governor Tompkins, where Toll Plains Road, at Bay Street and Victory Boulevard, was inspected.

Continuing along Victory Boulevard to New Brighton, the party made stops at the park which was donated to the city by Mrs. Louis A. Dreyfuss as a memorial to those who lost their lives in the World War, and Silver Lake Park, close by. There the delegation inspected the big reservoir which holds Staten Island's water supply from the Ashokan Dam in the Catskills and the eighteen-hole golf course recently opened by the city.

The Clove Lake Park at West Brighton was then inspected. A cross-country run took the visitors to Latourette Park, which consists of 106 acres and is in the town of New Springfield. This park also has a golf course of eighteen holes which was opened recently.

At Tottenville the party inspected the Conference House Park and visited every room in the famous old historical mansion. The next stop was at Wolfe's Pond at Prince's Bay. This tract consists of 450 acres and the city plans to develop it into a big park.

At Midland Beach the visitors were the guests at dinner of James Graham, the owner of that resort. After dinner the delegation boarded the city's reception steamer Macom, which carried them to Great Kills, where the city has acquired several hundred acres of land and a long strip of waterfront and intends to build a marine park. After a tour of the entire waterfront on the south shore of Staten Island the delegation returned to Manhattan.

The object of the tour was to stimulate interest among the people of the five boroughs so that the Board of Estimate and Apportionment will appropriate sufficient money to carry out Controller Berry's park plans, which are strongly supported by the Park Association.

Homeward-Bound Crowds Jam Sidewalks as Fumes Escape From Florist's Refrigerator.

Traffic along Broadway just north of Wall Street was partly blocked for twenty minutes at the height of the rush hour last evening when a slight explosion in the refrigerating plant of Ferdinand Fleischman's florist shop on the ground floor of the First National Bank Building, 90-94 Broadway released clouds of sulphur-dioxide fumes and caused minor injuries to two persons.

Several thousand homeward-bound office workers jammed the sidewalks around the shop to watch police and firemen in gas masks dash into the shop to shut off the valves of the refrigerating system. Mrs. Agnes Kollhoff, 41 years old, of 345 Ninety-third Street, Brooklyn, a bookkeeper in the shop, was slightly bruised on the arm when the explosion, caused by an overheated motor, shattered part of a glass show case in the rear of the shop. Joseph Di Tucci of 323 West Sixty-seventh Street, an employe in the building, was cut on both hands by splintered glass when he tried to shut off the valves.

Three women and two men employes were in the store when the explosion occurred. All the customers had left and the five employes were preparing to close the shop for the day.

Much of the florist's stock was ruined by the poisonous fumes.

REVIEWS OF THE DAY IN THE REALTY FIELD

Most Trading Is in Leaseholds, With a Few Sales in Scattered Areas.

MANY DWELLINGS RENTED

Small Housing Properties Are Taken for Occupancy—Holdings in Manhattan Financed.

Most real estate deals announced in Manhattan yesterday involved leaseholds. There were a few sales of properties, but the transactions comprised a small business holding and some housing properties. The changes in fee ownership, like the leaseholds, were widely scattered and represented about every section of the borough.

While yesterday's market was lacking in sales and leasehold contracts of interest, it provided a good volume of activity in renting of space for business and residential purposes and in the financing of holdings.

Among the sales was that of a property in the downtown section. The Railway Express Agency sold to a client of the J. M. Hoffman Company for use as a stable and warehouse the six-story stable at 21-25 Horatio Street. The building is a modern one and was formerly occupied by the seller. It was held at $125,000.

Two four-story apartment houses at 156-158 East Forty-seventh Street were sold by the Powers Regulator Company of Chicago through Maurice Wertheim, broker. The buildings occupy a plot 38 by 100 feet and are fifty-six feet west of Third Avenue.

On Washington Heights, Nehring Brothers sold for C. K. Acton the three-story dwelling at 582 West 183d Street, forty feet east of St. Nicholas Avenue. The house is to be used by the new owner for business purposes. This was the first sale of the property in twenty-six years.

The two-story and basement building at 2,220-26 Broadway, northeast corner of Seventy-ninth Street, has been leased to the F. W. Woolworth Company by the estate of Arch. D. Russell through the City Bank Farmers Trust Company. Thoens & Flaunlacher acted as brokers in the deal.

The lease runs for sixty-three years and the aggregate rental is reported as approximately $5,000,000. The building has a frontage of 102.2 feet on Broadway and 100.7 feet on West Seventy-ninth Street. It has been occupied by the Oliver A. Olson Company's department store.

The Woolworth Company will undertake remodeling of the structure with a view to opening one of its stores there about Nov. 1.

Several leases announced yesterday were of dwellings. The four-story house at 8 West Eighty-seventh Street was rented for five years by Hattie M. Melhuish, broker, to Louise Godartt for occupancy as a boarding house. The 332 West 101st Street Corporation recently acquired the house.

The Duross Company leased the house at 165 West Thirteenth Street to Tobias Schellberger.

The Central Presbyterian Church of New York leased to Mrs. Marion E. Bennett the four-story house at 110 East Sixty-fourth Street through Potter, Hamilton & Co., brokers.

Leonard J. Jacoby, Inc., as brokers, leased for Peter J. Brennan to Lydia Herzfeld the house at 788 West End Avenue for five years.

The lease of the northwest corner of Madison Avenue and Sixty-fifth Street, covered by a five-story and a six-story building with stores, 42 feet on the street by half the block on the avenue, has been surrendered by the Fanpal Realty Corporation, Paul Braus, president, to the Derfla Holding Corporation and the Relaw Realty Corporation. Herbert Hecht is treasurer of both the latter concerns.

SALESMEN OF CHARACTER AND ABILITY.

If you feel that you can rightfully lay claim to these exceptional requisites and are willing to offer your record to us, then we know that the task which confronts us will be well on the way toward accomplishment.

We are charged with the responsibility of procuring a limited number of salesmen of the conservative business type, qualified by experience and standing, to meet and associate with investors—men of intelligence—real salesmen. It is to such men that we make this simple appeal with the hope that among the many men who will read this advertisement we will find the exceptional ones which our business requires.

As a foremost requisite we require honesty, sterling quality and trustworthiness. There must also be some experience in appealing to human nature, and ability to analyze the sales prospect and to present the merits of a worth-while proposition so that the order will be given as a natural sequence to the presentation of the facts. Sincerity of purpose with a will to succeed, and keeping at it, are among the requirements of this position. We cannot take the space to tell you in detail what we have to offer. But let it suffice when we say that to the real salesman who is sincere in his answer to this advertisement and will take the time, trouble and effort to reply to it, and who can sell us the idea that he is qualified to hold this position—to him will be given an interview, at which time the genuine merit of our proposition will be outlined in detail. Be assured that the offering is one of high character, security of principal, ability to pay semi-annual dividends, and, based upon past returns, should be most profitable to the investor.

FURTHER.

The company, its success, its reputation, its background and the tremendous scope of its future plans—all contribute to establish the very definite fact that this connection should be that last satisfactory and profitable one which so many have been in search of for years. You know that spot in business life where all fears about future earnings and security of connection are finally set aside.

Compensation is on a commission basis to make this sales position appeal to men who are not interested in limitation of a straight salary job. If you feel that your qualifications justify us considering you, telephone Caledonia 1538, Extension 37, for an appointment, or better still, call in person if you like on the 11th floor, 385 5th Av. and a courteous interview will be afforded you by our Sales Personnel Manager. If you are the man we want you will know what to say to impress us. All conferences and communications will be held in complete confidence.

SHIP BOARD RATIFIES JOINT AGREEMENTS

AFRICA PACT IS APPROVED

Three Lines Will Cooperate on Through Rates to Pacific Coast Ports.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—An agreement between the Panama Steamship Company and the Pacific Steam Navigation Company, providing for the organization of a joint service by vessels of the two carriers to handle north-bound local and transhipment traffic from the Panama Canal to designated West Coast and Central American ports, was approved today by the United States Shipping Board.

Under its terms the parties agree to quote identical rates on freight and to make all contracts and bookings for joint account. Sailings are to be arranged at equal intervals so as to provide regular and frequent service and avoid conflict.

In the event of competition by other steamship lines the parties undertake to keep a vessel on the berth at all times by expediting movements of their vessels without regard to a fixed itinerary.

No action, however, in violation of Section 14 of the shipping act is to be taken in the fulfillment of this provision. Freight earnings in excess of 10 shillings per ton are to be placed in a pool which is to be distributed equally between the parties semi-annually, irrespective of the number of sailings or volume of freight handled by the vessels of either company. Freight contracts for carriage of cargo held by either party at the termination of the agreement are to be apportioned equally between the lines. The agreement is to remain in force until July 31, 1933, and thereafter until terminated by the giving of three months' notice.

Other agreements approved by the board today were:

Gulf-West Mediterranean Line and Nervion Line—Providing for spacing and alternation of sailings from Galveston and Houston to Spanish Mediterranean ports until March 31, 1931, each of the parties to have two sailings per month. Should conditions warrant, either party may maintain additional sailings, but only on written consent of the other party. The agreement may be canceled upon one month's written notice by either party.

American-West African Line, Inc., and Elder Dempster & Co., Ltd., with Luckenbach Steamship Company, Inc.—For through movement of shipments from West African ports of call of the American-West African Line and Elder Dempster & Co., to Pacific Coast ports of call of the Luckenbach Steamship Company. Through rates are to be made up of the applicable rates of the participating carriers plus the cost of transhipment at New York.

The cancellation of an agreement between the Luckenbach Steamship Company, Inc., and the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, Ltd., also was approved by the board. The agreement covers through movement of shipments from Atlantic Coast and Gulf ports of the United States to Victoria and Vancouver, with transhipment at San Francisco. This agreement was approved by the board Jan. 24, 1928. Its cancellation was requested because of discontinuance of service to San Francisco by the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, Ltd.

NEW LINE TO OFFER SERVICE ON PACIFIC

Passenger and Freight Traffic From Coast to Europe to Begin in September.

MONTHLY SAILINGS AT FIRST

Two Speedy, Modern Motorships, With Norwegian Flag, Will Be Used as Carriers.

The Interocean Steamship Corporation announced yesterday that a new passenger-freight service will be started between the Pacific Coast and Continental ports early in September, furnishing a monthly sailing at the start and fortnightly sailings later in the year. The new service will be known as the Interocean Line.

The motorship Brandanger will make the first sailing and will be followed early in October by the motorship Heranger. The new line will operate chartered tonnage which will accommodate passengers and will furnish space for refrigerated as well as ordinary freight. The Brandanger is a modern motorship capable of making twelve knots and the Heranger, which was recently completed, made fourteen knots on her sea trials.

Harry Brown, vice president of the Interocean Steamship Corporation, with offices at 24 State Street, said that the new service would be directed by Eric Krag, manager of the Pacific Coast branch at San Francisco.

A new service between the ports of the Pacific Coast and the United Kingdom, to be operated by the Pacific-Atlantic Line, effective with the first sailing Aug. 19, was recently announced, and the Intercoastal Steamship Corporation was named as the Eastern agents of the line.

Both the Brandanger and the Heranger are owned by Norwegian companies and as chartered vessels will fly the Norwegian flag. The Pacific-Atlantic Line, however, is an American line and its ships will fly the American flag. That there is no connection between the two new services, despite the identification of the Interocean corporation with both, was emphasized yesterday at the offices of the corporation.

With the exception of the Isthmian Line, owned by the United States Steel Corporation, the Pacific-Atlantic Line is the only American-flag service operating between the ports of the Pacific Coast and Europe. It is understood that the Interocean Line will serve Antwerp, Hamburg and Rotterdam.

TO CIRCLE SOUTH AMERICA.

Panama Pacific and Los Angeles Lines Plan a 66-Day Cruise.

The Panama Pacific Line will cooperate with the Los Angeles Steamship Company in a sixty-six-day cruise around South America next Fall, it was announced yesterday. Passengers from the East will sail from New York on the turbo-electric liner California, operated by the Panama Pacific Line in its intercoastal service, and will go aboard the steamer City of Los Angeles at Balboa, continuing on that ship around the southern continent.

The California will leave New York Oct. 11 and stop at Havana en route to Balboa. The City of Los Angeles will leave the port of Los Angeles in time to meet the California at Balboa. The cruise itinerary will include Salaverry, Callao-Lima and Mollendo, Peru; Antofagasta, Valparaiso, Coronel and Punto Arenas, Chile; Buenos Aires, Argentina; Montevideo, Uruguay; Santos, Rio de Janeiro and Bahia, Brazil; Port of Spain, Trinidad; La Guayra, Venezuela, and Cristobal, Panama.

Passengers returning to New York will leave the ship at Cristobal and go aboard the Pennsylvania, sister ship of the California, arriving in New York Dec. 15.

WATER LOSS A MYSTERY.

50,000,000 Gallons Vanish on Way Down the Passaic River.

What became of 50,000,000 gallons of good water which disappeared between the upper and lower reaches of the Passaic River is a mystery facing the engineers of the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission.

About a week ago the commission obtained the consent of the North Jersey District Water Supply Commission to release the 50,000,000 gallons into the river to flush the lower part of the river and relieve pollution, particularly near Newark. The work took three days and was completed Saturday. Yesterday J. Ralph Van Duyne, chief engineer of the sewerage commission, reported that little, if any, of the clear water from the Wanaque River had ever reached the polluted section.

The water had to be let through several ponds controlled by private industries and the sewerage commission's engineers are wondering if it was lost in one of these ponds or absorbed by the dry countryside John H. Cook, president of the Passaic Consolidated Water Supply Company, which in part controls Beatty's Pond and Dundee Lake, was positive the water had been absorbed by a dry river bed. He said the level of Beatty's Pond was lower Monday afternoon than before the extra flow.

The sewerage body plans to ask the water commission for another 50,000,000 gallons.

110TH ST. CAR LINE LOSING.

Cannot Meet Operating Expenses, Transit Board Is Told.

Operating expenses of the 110th Street crosstown trolley line cannot be met because of the steady decline in passenger traffic since 1926, the Transit Commission was told yesterday at a public hearing on the company's application for permission to abandon the line. The line, with a route mileage of one and a half miles, runs from 110th Street and Third Avenue to 110th Street and St. Nicholas Avenue and thence north to Hancock Place.

William E. Thompson, vice president of the Forty-second Street, Manhattanville & St. Nicholas Avenue Railway Company, owner of the line, declared that Fifth Avenue Coach Company service and surface car systems in that territory would provide adequate facilities for passengers now using the line sought to be abandoned. There will be another hearing on Aug. 27.

SEES PLANE AS RIVAL OF LINER IN 10 YEARS

E. R. Armstrong, Inventor of Seadrome, Believes Atlantic Ships Will Be Scrapped.

PREDICTS $350 AIR FARE

Engineer Tells Bankers That Ocean Landing Fields Await Only Financing Arrangements.

In ten years or less the large transatlantic steamship companies will be faced with the necessity of scrapping hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of their high-speed ships because of the competition of transatlantic aircraft lines, in the opinion of Edward R. Armstrong, consulting engineer to the du Pont interests and inventor of the seadrome.

Mr. Armstrong spoke yesterday to about forty brokers and bankers in the Bankers' Club, at 120 Broadway, on the latest experimental developments in connection with his invention and on the proposed establishment of a line of "seadrome ocean airways" to cross the North Atlantic.

The seadrome has actually passed the experimental stage and the construction of the first full-size floating ocean landing field will be begun as soon as problems of finance and organization can be arranged, he said. Mr. Armstrong hopes to have the first seadrome, a floating island of steel weighing 50,000 tons, ready for anchorage halfway between New York and Bermuda within a year. The first seadrome, he hopes, will presage a string of others, linking Europe to America by air and making possible regular thirty-hour scheduled flights across the ocean. The cost of one seadrome he estimated as $4,000,000 and of the entire project as $40,000,000.

At least 15 per cent of the 2,000,000 passengers who cross the Atlantic annually will travel by air as soon as it is demonstrated that such travel is reasonably safe and reliable and gives a daily or more frequent service to and from Europe, he declared. The rate for the crossing can be made low enough to compete effectively with steamship lines, he said, estimating possible price for an air passage as $350, or about 10 cents a mile. Despite total yearly expenses for maintenance and operation in excess of $8,000,000, Mr. Armstrong foresaw an era when the net operating income from an air-minded public would exceed $15,000,000.

Mr. Armstrong described his seadrome as 1,100 feet long, 340 feet wide at the broadest part and 80 feet wide at the ends. The landing field or flying deck is to be 70 feet above the water, far above the highest waves. The deck is to be supported by long steel columns which in turn will be supported by huge buyancy tanks far below the surface of the water, so that the structure's equilibrium will not be disturbed by wave action.

The seadrome is designed to be anchored by three-inch steel cables, 18,000 feet long to reinforced concrete anchors weighing 1,500 tons. The Roebling company is ready to begin work on these cables, he said. The first seadrome has been designed with a hotel having overnight accommodations for 100 persons and day accommodations for 350.

The type of plane to be used in the first transoceanic air service, that between New York and Bermuda, is a forty-passenger Sikorsky amphibian, some of which are expected to be finished this Fall and put in service by the Pan-American Airways.

DRAG SOUND FOR ROCKS.

Members of Survey Party Seek to Remove Obstructions From Water.

The dragging of Long Island Sound to determine the location of possible obstructions and dangers to navigation has been started by a party working under the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, the Department of Commerce announced yesterday. The work probably will require two or three seasons, but when completed will guarantee the absence of uncharted rocks from Throgs Neck to The Race.

To make certain that the water is free of all obstructions to a specified depth the area is swept with a long wire suspended between two towing motorboats, a system of buoys and floats being employed at frequent intervals to guarantee that the wire, when taut while towing, is suspended horizontally at the specified depth. If no obstruction is encountered while towing it is held certain that no danger exists, and when obstructions are encountered they are investigated and their depth determined.

The completed work along the southern New England coast includes most of Buzzards Bay, the entrance to Narragansett Bay, most of Block Island Sound and areas about the eastern end of Long Island Sound.

Another survey of the Hudson River north of the new bridge has been started in a search for prominent objects. This is the result of a demand for large-scale anchorage charts. A comprehensive geodetic control survey of New York harbor soon will be undertaken, according to officers at the New York offices.

GIVES DATA ON DISMISSALS.

Garment Council Says Figures Show Fairness to Employes.

The Industrial Council of Cloak and Suit Manufacturers, Inc., issued figures yesterday showing the number of discharges of cloakmakers employed in the shops of its 273 members under its "reorganization rights."

Contending that instead of exercising their 10 per cent discharge right, Industrial Council members dismissed only 180 out of a total of 8,662 employed, or 2 per cent, Samuel Klein, executive director, said the figures revealed "the fair-minded attitude" of council members toward their employes.

The basis of these figures was vigorously disputed by Isidore Nagler, manager of the New York Cloakmakers' joint board. Mr. Nagler said many council members were not entitled to reorganization rights because they did not employ at least forty workers for a minimum of thirty-two weeks a year, as required by the agreement. Others, he declared, had failed to replace workers discharged under the old agreement and therefore were not entitled to make further discharges. Further, Mr. Nagler asserted, Industrial Council members sought the discharge of ninety additional workers under the present agreement. These workers were reinstated, he declared, by appeals to Raymond V. Ingersoll, impartial chairman of the industry.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—In New York City, out of a total population of 6,959,195 in the five boroughs, 234,854 persons usually gainfully employed, or 3.4 per cent, were out of work and looking for a job when the census enumeration was made in April, it was announced today.

STUNTING FLIER SAVED BY PARACHUTE IN DIVE

Wings Drop From Plane as Student Tries Outside Loop—Air School Expels Him.

Special to The New York Times.

VALLEY STREAM, L. I., Aug. 13.—Henry Ellis of Memphis, Tenn., advanced flying student in the Curtiss-Wright School here, stunted himself out of his plane and then out of the school this afternoon.

While flying a Travelair biplane at 3,000 feet Ellis went into the intricacies of the outside loop, and the wings of his plane came off during the manoeuvre. The flier, who has nearly 100 hours to his credit and is regarded as a competent aviator, took to his parachute. He landed safely just outside the Curtiss-Wright Airport near the Ocean Point golf links and what was left of his plane crashed near by.

When Ellis reported at the field carrying his parachute Walter Avery, director of the field and the school, questioned him and others who had observed the flight. He announced following his interview with Ellis that the student would promptly be dropped, in spite of his advanced standing. Avery said that the student should never have attempted an outside loop in the plane, which was not designed for the stresses of that particular stunt.

ASKS $500,000 FROM STATE.

Hempstead Man Files Claim for Land Appropriated for Jones Beach.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 13.—Albert Murch of Hempstead has filed a claim for $500,000 against the State for the appropriation by the Long Island State Park Commission of his property, which is located in the towns of Oyster Bay and Hempstead and partly in the town of Babylon, Suffolk County.

The property was taken for the development of Jones Beach by the Park Commission about Jan. 1 last year. Notice of intention to make a claim was filed with the Attorney General on July 28 last.

Mr. Murch contends that he has been damaged to the extent of $500,000, which, he alleges, is the value of the property appropriated by the State. The claim will go on the calendar which is now being made up for Sept. 22.

HELD IN BOOTLEG FRAUD.

Suspect Accused of Taking $1,785 and Failing to Deliver Liquor.

Rafael Maceo, 24 years old, of 130 West Eightieth Street, was arrested on a charge of stealing $1,785. The complaint was lodged by Dr. Ralph Figueroa of 150 West Seventy-ninth Street in connection with Maceo's alleged failure to deliver liquor for that amount.

Maceo described himself as "secretary to the Cuban Consul" but it was learned at the Cuban Consulate that he is an employe of the Cuban Agricultural Bureau, a government agency, and was in no way affiliated with the consulate. He will be arraigned in the West Fifty-fourth Street court this morning.

MISSING KERNS BACK HOME.

Couple Who Left St. Louis With $70,000 Check Resent Publicity.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 13 (AP).—Resentful at the publicity their "private affairs" received, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kern, who returned home unexpectedly early this morning, said their strange disappearance in Ohio yesterday was due to a desire to "avoid notoriety."

The couple refused to say whether a $70,000 bank treasurer's check which they drew from a St. Louis bank before starting for Toledo was still in their possession.

Police had feared the couple had fallen into the hands of kidnappers or swindlers.

Utica Flier Is Killed.

BOONVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 13 (AP).—Richard Yule, 28, of New Hartford, burned to death in the crash of the airplane he was piloting at the Boonville Airport today. Yule had been a pilot for about three years and was rated as one of the best connected with the Marcy Airport at Utica.

PLAN TO PROTECT CITY PIGS.

Officials Act to Stop Riker's Island Dogs' Attack on Farm Animals.

Steps to protect the Correction Department's 600 pigs on Riker's Island from nightly forays by a pack of forty vicious dogs, harbored at the northern end of the island to kill the rats that infest the city dump there, were taken yesterday at a conference between Richard C. Patterson Jr., Commissioner of Correction, and Dr. William Schroeder Jr., head of the Sanitation Department.

When informed by Commissioner Patterson that the dogs, which are allowed to roam the island under the permission of the Sanitation Department, already had devoured nineteen of the Correction Department's pigs, Dr. Schroeder suggested that the prison piggery be protected by a high wire fence. Dr. Schroeder also promised that he would see to it that his Riker's Island staff cooperated in keeping "the homeless, friendless and vicious dogs" in check.

The piggery is operated as a municipal farm to help defray the expenses of the prison on the island. Frederick L. Morehead, warden of the farm, complained that attempts of his keepers to shoot the dogs were frustrated by employes of the Sanitation Department.

JEWS HERE APPEAL TO RUMANIAN ENVOY

American Leaders Ask Davila to Urge His Government to Curb Anti-Semitism.

WISE DEPLORES ATROCITIES

Minister Declares Excesses Never Were Officially Tolerated—Cites Suppressive Measures.

A delegation of the American Jewish Congress, representing Jews throughout this country, called yesterday upon Carol A. Davila, Rumanian Minister to the United States, to request him to urge upon his government immediate and vigorous efforts to suppress the anti-Semitic agitation in that country.

In answer to their entreaties, Mr. Davila expressed gratification at having a frank discussion of the question. He declared that he realized the harm which had been done, particularly to the country's credit.

"The Rumanian Government has already taken strong measures to curtail the activities of lawless elements and to put an end to these outrages," the Minister said. "In this undertaking the government is strongly backed by the King. Moreover, the government has never subsidized anti-Semitic organizations, but only student organizations and student homes, whose situation was precarious and who needed help.

"The best proof of the strong measures taken by the government and its decision to stop the agitations is the fact that since the attempt on the life of the Under-Secretary of the Interior, Dr. Angelescu, who had been put in charge of suppressing anti-Semitic excesses, all those found guilty of violence and of propaganda have been arrested. Several have been brought to trial, some of whom have been convicted."

Rabbi Wise, in his statement to the Minister, said the Jewish community in this country "as fellow-Jews are deeply concerned about the fate of Jews in Rumania, and as Americans are profoundly interested in the well-being of the new and enlarged Rumania."

"This new Rumania accepted as a solemn obligation the maintenance of the civil and religious rights of minorities," he declared. "One such minority is the Jewish population. We have been horrified by the recrudescence of anti-Jewish excesses in your country, which we had believed impossible. No government can sincerely declare itself impotent to avert such atrocities as have dishonored your country in recent years."

The American Jewish Congress, as a body, requested liquidation of organizations perpetrating recent outrages; adequate compensation to victims; open declaration of the government for Jewish rights, and the carrying out in full of such a declaration.

Heads Mission to Ethiopia.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—President Hoover has appointed H. Murray Jacoby of New York as Special Ambassador for the United States to attend the ceremonies incident to the coronation of His Imperial Majesty Haile Selassie the First, Emperor of Ethiopia. These ceremonies will take place at Addis Ababa on Nov. 2, 1930.

OAKLAND-PONTIAC

up to $170

We have just been advised by the Oakland Motor Car Company that, effective August 11th, prices on all current model Pontiac Big Sixes and Oakland Eights have been reduced ... with reductions up to $170.

Pontiac Big Six—now $665 and up

A big car at small car price

Oakland Eight—now $895 and up

America's lowest-priced Eight

These reductions are made because in the winter the factory will present two new cars which, while changed enough to classify as new models, will remain practically unchanged in appearance, size and design.

The two new cars will have the same type engines used in the cars now offered.

Don't miss this opportunity. At their new low prices these cars are the greatest "buys" in the automobile field today. All prices f. o. b. Pontiac, Michigan
